and passed in the above "soft pedal" technique.

According to Chief Investigator F. L. (Pop) Walker of the Ouachita Parish Sheriff's Department, Lawson was a "one in a thousand" operator. "He was not only an excellent printer but a convincing actor as well in passing his forged or counterfeit products."

Lawson was arrested in Las Vegas, Nevada, last week after his photograph and method of operation details had been sent out to several states by the local authorities. Walker explained the suspect was "probably not" involved in any activities in Las Vegas because he seldom remained more than one day in the towns and cities where he passed his bogus checks.

The suspect's record in the local files showed previous arrests in several charges of forgery. At a West Monroe address, Lawson's elaborate printing shop was discovered and seized.

Printing metals and forms included state seals, lodge symbols, service club insignia and letterheads. A $35 U. S. Government check required a careful going over with a trained eye to detect poor details.

"This man could produce a fake Louisiana drivers license with a better Pelican seal than the state issues," one deputy quipped.

His professional bearing and "executive" appearance were mentioned also as reasons for his numerous successes. Sheriff Factor, Richard Hudnut and Bailey Grant pointed out a request from the Tennessee State Police for information on such a forger led his department to send out Lawson's photograph and description to a number of states throughout the midwest and northeast.

Deputies related a story where Lawson, while serving a term in Angola, prepared a writ for a woman who was applying for release. "The fake papers looked so genuine, the lawyers whose names Lawson had forged said they had indeed come from their office," Chief Investigator "Pop" Walker declared.

While scanning the files, one deputy noted Lawson was sentenced to 10 years in Angola in 1954. After hearing the story of his faking papers for the woman's dismissal, he did the necessary mental arithmetic and concluded — at least in theory — that he should still be in the state prison.

All of which points up the fact that one Shields Gardner Lawson, check artist, may face far more charges than he himself is aware of.

makers as Elizabeth Arden and Helena Rubinstein.

Demands for the hearing came from other such widely known brand makers as Revlon, Max Factor, Richard Hudnut and Avon.

NABBED IN NEVADA on information furnished for most part by Ouachita Parish Sheriff's Dept. was Shields Gardner Lawson, skilled counterfeiter and imposter, who operated in more than a dozen states.

radioactive fallout for strategic tactical and defensive use.

Uranium production in the United States increased 30 per cent last year over 1958, the commission said, keeping the nation in first place among free world uranium producing countries. Uranium is the key material of atomic energy.

How are chances for speeding the development of economic electric power from the atom? Better than ever, the report said.

Eighteen new civilian power reactors are under construction or development. They represent total commitments of 717 million dollars by government and private industry.

On the military side, the report said the Navy now has 37 nuclear submarines and three nuclear surface ships operating, under construction or authorized by Congress. Progress was reported on perfecting a nuclear powered aircraft. Initial testing of a proposed engine for a nuclear-powered rocket was successful. Several nuclear devices have been developed for giving auxiliary electric power to earth satellites. Important progress also was reported in the medicine and biology areas. This included such things as more knowledge about protection against radiation damage. Research into the nature and hazards of fall-out has been stepped up steadily in the past two years.

The commission told Congress the nation may need up to 10 new "atomic cemeteries" before too long to bury some of the radioactive wastes of the atomic power industry.

The report said a nationwide hunt was on for persons who may have had unusual exposure to radiation in the course of their daily jobs or during medical diagnosis. It said studies of such persons may help to establish maximum permissible limits of radioactivity "in the human skeleton."

AEC researchers also provide Congress with this big bang information.

Since 1945, they said, the United States, the Soviet Union and Great Britain have touched off nuclear explosions giving a total explosive equivalent to blasting off 173,760,000 tons of TNT.

Mrs. Leander Craighead; one son, Davis Craighead, Farmerville; one daughter, Mrs. Mary Ruth Simmons, Pasadena, Tex.; one brother, Luther Craighead, Farmerville; 4 grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be Troy Nolan, Bobby Tucker, Ralph Tucker, Arthur Dumas, Elton Pody and Jimmy Groves.

MRS. VERMA RAY

Mrs. Verma Ray, 47, a Minden housewife, died in a local hospital Saturday afternoon.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday at Start Baptist Church with the Revs. Elton Henderson and E. L. Hayes officiating.

Interment will be in the Start Cemetery under the direction of Kilpatrick's Funeral Home of West Monroe.

Mrs. Ray is survived by her husband, T. L. Ray, Minden; two daughters, Myrlin Ray and Jean Ruth Ray, both of Minden; five sisters, Mrs. Gladys Graves, Monroe; Mrs. Telma Landers, Alabama; Mrs. Harvey Moore, Start; Mrs. Maybelle Britton, Ferriday; Mrs. Irene O'Neal, West Monroe; her mother, Mrs. Ada Brasher, Ferriday; two brothers, John, West Monroe, and Pete, Ferriday, and several nieces and nephews.

The body will lie in state at the home of her sister in Start, until time for services.

MRS. ANNIE HOLLINGSWORTH

RAYVILLE (Special) — Mrs. Annie McDonald Hollingsworth, 74, died at her residence here Saturday.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Mulhearn Funeral Chapel in Rayville with the Revs. John Stewart and H. R. Harrington officiating.

Interment will be in the Rayville Masonic Cemetery under the direction of Mulhearn's of Rayville.

She is survived by her husband Harry Hollingsworth, Rayville; two daughters, Mrs. O. C. Gilliland, Rayville; Mrs. Winnie Thomas, Crystal Springs, Miss.; two sisters, Mrs. H. A. Jasper, Monroe; Mrs. W. F. McLarrin, Collins, Miss.; one brother, W. P. Shafer, Endlessville, Miss.; five grandchildren, and five great-grandchildren.

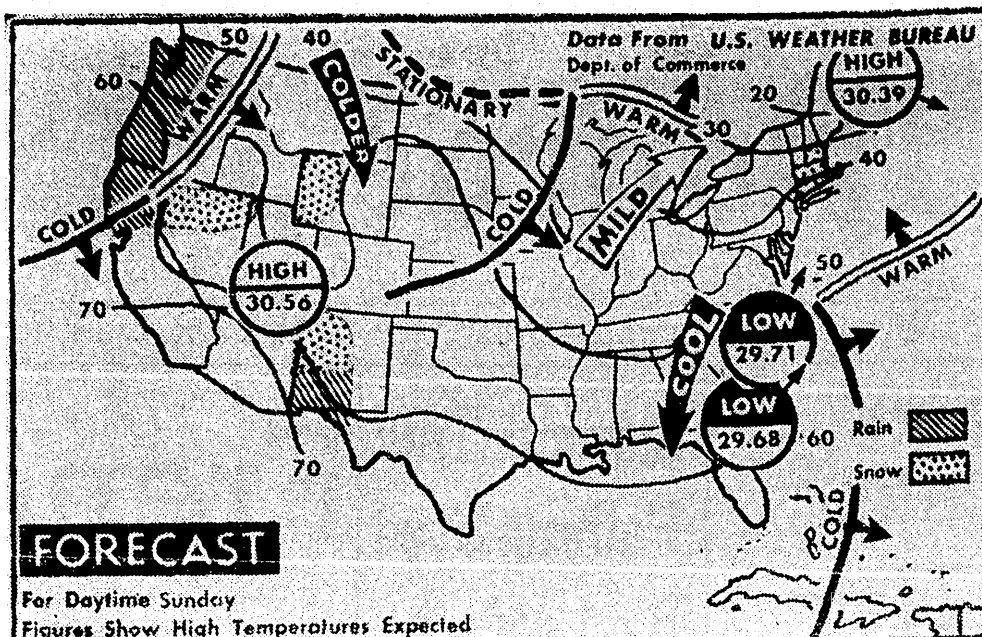

Pallbearers will be: Vernon Bolds, Earnest Brown, Louie Fike, W. G. McKinney, Laslie Downes, Arville Cox, C. O. Hopkins, and Loy Cloninger.

Another states rights champion, Dist. Atty. Leander Perez of St. Bernard and Plaquemines parishes, gained an amendment to the Holt motion.

Perez wanted to assure that "The rules of the Democratic National Committee are requested for information of the (state) committee transcend the laws of Louisiana."

J. D. DeBlieux of East Baton Rouge Parish backed Holt and objected to the Perez amendment. "I think we want to read the rules first," he said, "and then make our objections."

Gravel offered his services as national committeeman to set rules copies for each member but was ruled out of order by Riddle.

Sevier, a backer of Davis, asked that the whole matter be dropped, but both yes and no votes were so loud Riddle was undecided what to do.

Arthur C. Watson of Natchitoches, who was named permanent vice chairman of the committee and Davis' committee floor leader, called for a vote on the resolution and amendment on grounds the Sevier move failed to carry.

Perez had his way in the amendment assuring that the national party rules are not binding on the state committee.

Sometimes The Black Market Is A Brazen Thing

By CHARLES STAFFORD
Associated Press Staff Writer

Sometimes the black market is a brazen thing.

The American driving along a street in Istanbul wouldn't have expected a stateside used car dealer in his finest hour to offer more than $100 for his old British car.

Two Turks flagged him down. Without introduction or preliminary, they offered $1,100.

"I can't sell it," the American said. "It's listed on my passport."

"We know how to take care of that," said one of the Turks. "We'll pay you the money. You leave the car on the street in front of your house tonight and someone will steal it. Then you'll not only have the money, you'll collect the insurance."

The American didn't sell. Moral considerations aside, cars were just too hard to come by in Turkey.

Whether it is based in Istanbul, Manila, Taipei, or Buenos Aires, the black market is closely tied to the United States. It does its biggest business in U.S. cigarettes, automobiles and dollars. In several areas it draws most of its supplies from the GI's department store, the post exchange, by way of U.S. servicemen.

The black market is the merchandising arm of racketeers and smugglers, and it is bred by scarcity, import restriction, economic and political unrest.

It chips away at a nation's income. As an example, it is estimated that the thriving Philippine black market deprives the government of 60 million dollars a year in tax money.

In such countries as West Germany, Japan, and France, prosperity and solid fiscal controls have eliminated the once-flourishing black markets. But they are still bustling in Korea, the Philippines, Viet Nam, Formosa, Brazil, Argentina and other nations.

Often the black market is a corrupting influence. It could happen like this: An American GI's wife buys several items at the post exchange in Taipei. She carries them with her in paper bags as she shops in Chinese stores. At one shop, she puts her bags on the counter and asks to use the telephone. While she's making her call, the bags disappear beneath the counter.

Instead of protesting, the woman makes a trifling purchase and leaves the store. She returns later to make another small purchase. With it she also gets a sizable sum of money, payment for the PX items.

The American woman has become a supplier for the Formosan black market.

ORGANIZED

Sometimes the black market is a highly organized enterprise.

A hunting lodge stands at the end of the single muddy street in Phong Savang, a town in northern Laos that can be reached only by air. It is comfortably furnished and serves excellent food. Each fall Jean le Tordu (Johnny the Twisted), Luigi le Course (Little Father) and others of the boss black marketeers of Indo-China come to the lodge for their annual business meeting. They deal in opium.

Opium growing is legal in Laos. This little group of corsican racketeers makes it a black market item by buying up the entire crop and selling it way above market price. They control the price of nearly one-third of the world's opium, raw material for morphine and heroine.

Sometimes the black market is not only tolerated, but patronized by people in high places.

"I should quit smoking American cigarettes and switch to Korean cigarettes," a Korean cabinet minister once said, "but I can't."

ESTIMATES

The U. S. Army estimates $600,000 worth of PX items, ranging from television sets to shoe laces, reach the Korean black market each year. Korean officials disagree. They say 12 million dollars worth of American cigarettes alone are sold through the black market.

Department stores in Seoul estimate that 80 per cent of their merchandise is supplied by American servicemen.

In Turkey recently four American Army sergeants were charged with selling dollars on the black market. They got 12 liras to the dollar instead of the official 9-1 rate.

Because of the heavy demand for jewelry, gold is the most saleable item on India's black market. In a recent 15-month period, the government confiscated $3,441,000 worth of smuggled gold.

There is also a brisk trade in lesser items. A nickel candy bar from the United States sells for 30 cents under a New Delhi counter.

Thailand's black market is small but imaginative. The more likely specimens among horses imported for the Thai army often end up on a track carrying jockeys instead of cavalrymen.

On Formosa an American serviceman can make 75 cents profit on a pair of $1.10 PX suspenders and 3 on a bottle of scotch. Dollars are also in demand.

Illegal money changing flourishes in Viet Nam. Most of the thousand Indian merchants in Saigon will give you 80 piastres for your dollar, compared with the official rate of 35-1.

The most open black market in the world probably operates in Pasay City, a suburb of Manila. You can find almost anything—canned foods, hi-fi records, babies' wear, even canned hams for Communist China—and the service is excellent. When an American couldn't find the shirt he wanted, his favorite dealer took his order and had it in a matter of hours.

Most of the gin bottles around Manila are clearly marked "for military use only" or "Navy mess," a pretty good indication of the part played by post exchanges at Clark Air Force Base and Sangley Joint Naval Base in supplying the market.

Office buildings in downtown Rio De Janeiro have their own "contrabandistas"—black marketees—who come in regularly to take orders. But the big operators in Brazil deal in coffee.

Brazil's problem is not one of keeping contraband out, but of keeping it from going out. The government keeps a tight rein on coffee exports in an effort to gather all the U. S. dollars it can.

It pays coffee growers 3,952 cruzeiros—worth only $20 at the current exchange rate—for the bag of coffee sold to a U. S. importer for $52.

With a $32-a-bag potential profit beckoning, the contrabandists load a yacht with coffee at the mouth of the Amazon late at night and sail for French Guiana where he sells the cargo. He uses the money to buy cars which he smuggles back into Brazil.

Police in Argentina recently uncovered a multi-million-dollar black market ring dealing in American cars. Import taxes on cars total 300 per cent of their value. The ring took advantage of regulations which permit spare parts to be imported at very low rates.

In Moscow, foreigners are sometimes approached by furtive characters seeking to buy their clothing or other goods. And Pravda recently told this story: Certain shops had been intrigued for some time by an oddity. People would line up in front without the operators knowing why. Then a truck would arrive, delivering a shipment of fur coats. The people in line would be waiting when the shop put the coats on sale.

These people were "speculators." "The wife of military officer 'Mamarova,'" said Pravda, "paid 11,000 rubles for a coat which a speculator bought for 1,800 rubles."

Experiment Going Good In Alaska

By JAMES LEVEQUE
Fairbanks News-Miner Staff Writer

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — Imagine yourself all taped up with some 20 temperature recording devices, placed in a not-so-warm sleeping bag in an unheated tent, your head in a plastic box.

Then your friends say, "G'night. See ya' in the morning."

That, with variations, is just what has gone on at the Arctic Aeromedical Laboratory at Ladd Air Force Base. An expert team made up of University of Washington and Air Force personnel is conducting tests of heat loss and recovery.

For the two airmen volunteers involved, it means $55 extra monthly plus the satisfaction of having contributed both personal interest and cooperation to a scientific experiment.

For the seven technicians, it means an original thrust into a new field of basic research.

For basic research, it means just that much more knowledge which is available when necessary and appropriate to some probe of science.

This particular project is under the supervision of Dr. Loren Carlson, University of Washington professor who is noted as a leading expert in cold weather and altitude physiology.

Project chief is Capt. Earl Heberling, Air Force psychologist. He's working with Washington graduate students Tom Adams—who served with Aeromed as an officer—and Keith Miller. Dr. Kjell Johanson of Oslo is research assistant. Sgt. Lee Worthen of Aeromed is a technical aide.

Although the scientific personnel have been subjected to the tests, the two study guinea pigs are A.2. John F. McGhee and A.2. John Brackett.

The experiment goes something like this:

For three-quarters of an hour, the subject is submerged in a tub of constant temperature water. He breathes through a tube and from this device, and several other recorders, his adjustments to the temperature of the tub—or environmental acclimatization—are transcribed.

The subject is then hurriedly dried and taped with heat-and-cold sensitive thermocouples—about 20 in all—and hustled outside. He's placed in a sleeping bag and his head slipped into an air-tight plastic box. A rubber gasket fits tightly around the neck. Air is pumped into the box, and an alert buzzer or "panic button" is put into the subject's hand.

He's then abandoned, but certainly not forgotten.

Those thermocouples are attached to a battery of recording graphs: temperatures on a minute-to-minute basis are recorded for each part of his body.

About eight hours later, it's the bath all over again. Now the scientists determine how long, in consideration of the night's heat loss, it takes the subject to re-achieve the body temperature he had when taken from the first bath.

The basic question: How rapidly does the human body recover from heat loss?

The answer is somewhere in thinly inked lines on miles of graph paper.

Aeromed is not quite the ivory tower it might seem. It is directly under the 11th Air Division at Ladd Air Force Base here and its research is a result of very real needs.

Aircraft Drop Bombs On Cuba

HAVANA (UPI) — Mystery aircraft dropped fire bombs on Cuban cane fields in the past 24 hours for the fourth time in two weeks and a cabinet member renewed charges Friday that they were "foreign based."

In the past such references to "foreign bases" have meant the United States, and Commerce Minister Raul Cepero Bonilla's allegation threatened a further decline in Cuban-American relations.

The new sabotage attacks started late Thursday in Camaguey, in

Discoverer Launching Is Postponed

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — Launching of the Discoverer IX satellite toward a polar orbit was cancelled Friday after the countdown reached "zero."

The Air Force announced officially the shot was scrubbed for technical reasons. No date was given for a new attempt to fire the Discoverer, but the Air Force said "launch preparations are expected to be resumed as soon as the readiness of the vehicle permits."

U.S. scientists last fired a Discoverer in November, succeeding in putting the satellite in orbit. However, attempts to recover the re-entry capsule failed as had previous efforts.

central Cuba, where an amphibious-type twin-engine plane destroyed what the semiofficial government newspaper Revolution said was some 337,500 tons of sugar cane in attacks on more than 20 plantations owned by the Adalida and Punta Alegre sugar mills. Other press reports placed the alleged fire damage at approximately 22,500 tons of cane.

Revolution said the plane, presumably a Catalina-type aircraft, "came from the north," a phrase also used by government sources in implying that the aircraft are based in Florida.

All of the planes engaged in such attacks "come from foreign airports," Cepero Bonilla said in a press statement.

"Is Cuba at war?" the minister asked. "One thing is evident: The planes which drop bombs on our cane fields take off from airports located abroad and not on Cuban soil. It is significant (the attack) objectives are all in the northern part of the island."

Reports from Santiago, at the eastern end of Cuba, said that a second mystery aircraft dropped a parachute with an incendiary bomb, a pair of shoes and anti-government leaflets over the town.

TOUR ENDS IN NEW YORK
NEW YORK (AP) — When Katharine Cornell and Brian Aherne arrive on Broadway in March to star in their two-character presentation of "Dear Liar," it will be their closing engagement after touring triumphantly from coast to coast for 27 weeks.

"Dear Liar" is the adaptation by Jerome Kilty of the 40-year correspondence between Bernard Shaw and Mrs. Patrick Campbell. The latter, who died in 1940, was star in Shaw's "Pygmalion," Pinner's "Second Mrs. Tanqueray" and many Shakespearean productions.

CLOTHES MAKE YOUR MAN

How To Dress Long, Skinny-Necked Man

HARRY JUSTER

DEAR MR. JUSTER: I have a long skinny neck and a big adam's apple. A friend of mine told me he read where a person could soften this handicap by having his hair cut low in the back and wearing tab collar shirts. Is there anything to this?

T. D. H.
Yes, the less your neck is exposed, the shorter it will look. A low hair line also creates the illusion of a heavier neck. However, the tab collar is questionable. It's generally tight fitting and may actually make your neck look longer. I find that shirts with a high front stance in wide spread collar style help me keep from sticking my neck too far out.

DEAR MR. JUSTER: We have teenage twin boys, the same height, weight and coloring. Ever since they were small I have dressed them alike. Now they are beginning to object and their father agrees. Yet I feel that they make a nicer impression when wearing the same outfits. Wouldn't you say I'm right?

Even identical twins may have likes and dislikes which are not identical. Physical similarity is one thing. Individual personality is another.

Don't block the latter by your desire to outfit them alike because you like the idea. If they enjoy wearing the same things, that's fine. Otherwise let them use their own judgment, with parental guidance, in choosing their clothes.

DEAR MR. JUSTER: I spend all day in a large office with my coat off. One of the stenographers made a remark about my suspenders which is the reason for this letter. Is there anything wrong with suspenders showing or must I keep my coat on even though I'm more comfortable and work better without it?

R. P.
I would say yes to the first part of your question; no, not necessarily, to the second part. Suspenders at best are not exactly eye appealing. They're fine UNDER a coat. The way trousers are now cut, belts are generally as functional and more sightly when exposed. Try one. Then you can do both — work without a coat and without further comments.

DEAR MR. JUSTER: I had never seen a matching sportshirt and tie set until I noticed them in a shop near our office. They were showing them in good looking plaids. I'd like to buy this as a Valentine gift for my boy friend, but first want to ask your advice. He has a solid black sport coat. Would this combination be too overwhelming with this jacket?

Marion D.
The only thing overwhelming about it will be his response. I can't think of a better combination than a solid color jacket offset by a plaid sportshirt and tie. He can also mix the shirt and tie with plain shades to give himself a variety of smart ensembles.

TIP FOR THE DAY
What? Dimples!
Do you have a dimple? We're not referring to the kind imbedded in your chin. This one belongs in your tie. Before tightening, form a crease in the center of your tie. Create the dimple with your index finger and tighten. Just a little trick that will add to your appearance.

Mr. Juster will be glad to answer your questions. His new leaflet, "Knotty Problems" will show you have to get an attractive knot in your tie, whether it's a four-in-hand or a bow. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the leaflet. Address Harry Juster in care of the World.

JINX ON "A" BOMB
KABBA, Nigeria (UPI) — The King of Ayere has called on all Nigeria's juju doctors to put a hex on the proposed French atomic bomb tests in the Sahara Desert.

Oba (King) Olumodeji did not say how it could be done. But he appealed to the native doctors throughout the country to "find a means to halt" the tests.

BY COMMISSION HERE

Water System Work Approval Is Asked

The Monroe Utilities Commission has gone to three agencies for permission to construct a circulating water system on the banks of the Ouachita River, it was learned yesterday.

Commission manager French L. Smith explained that the water system would be a part of the program to expand power plant facilities, specifically the installation of the new gas turbine.

First, however, the commission as Levee Board, the Department of Public Works and the U.S. Corps of Engineers.

Under Louisiana law, the agencies must approve the project. Explaining technical details, C. H. Frier, commission assistant manager, said the plan called for installing two 54-inch water lines from the Ouachita to the power plant.

PROPOSED SITE
The proposed site for the installation is on the east bank of the Ouachita between Poplar and Spruce streets. Recently, land was purchased for that purpose. Frier explained that the installation of a new gas turbine, designed to boost the capacity of the power plant, required more cooling power than present facilities provide.

The new water lines would provide this additional cooling need, he said.

In an announcement from Vicksburg yesterday, the Corps of Engineers said the matter was under advisement. Any objections to the proposal were called for.

Smith said the Department of Public Works already had voiced approval, provided the project was done according to its specifications. No word has come forth from the levee board.

Board Reports

Gain In Polio

Polio is on the upswing in Louisiana, according to records of the State Board of Health.

Dr. Carroll Summer, of the Ouachita Parish Health Unit, recently stated that records show twice as many paralytic cases for the state in 1959 as there were in 1958. He said Ouachita Parish showed an increase of three to one for the same period.

Night clinics, and temporary immunization centers are being established in all northeast parishes of the state to allow everyone an opportunity to receive their series of polio shots.

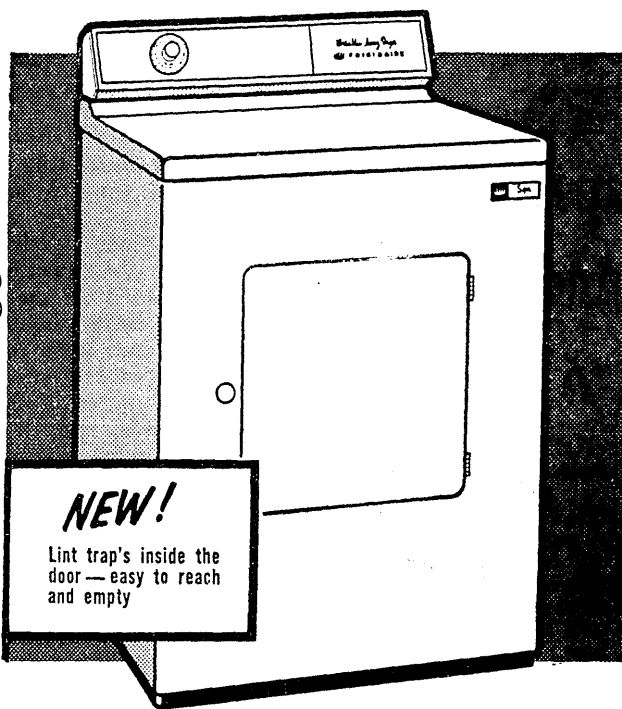

Dr. Summer urged persons interested to contact their local health units, and find out when and where the inoculations will be made in their respective areas.

Cutting Loose With A Rip - Snorting, Record - Breaking, Price - Slashing EMERGENCY SALE! OF A TERRIFIC STOCK OF DEPENDABLE NEW AND USED FURNITURE IN AN UNPRECEDENTED MOVE TO UNLOAD AND TO RAISE CASH QUICKLY!

Why!

Such Drastic Action By This Fine Old Store!

For months we planned and bought for our Annual Anniversary Sale. With the co-operation of leading manufacturers we bought every BARGAIN that came our way. In the midst of this BUYING SPREE... along came a recession in normal business. Warehouse were filled to overflowing capacity... crammed and jammed, store stocked to the rafters. Business—there was none. What to do,

Yes... What Would You Do?

After recent audit our auditors told us in NO UNCERTAIN TERMS, "YOU HAVE A DANGEROUS INVENTORY." We immediately realized Anniversary PRICES would not get the job done. Just couldn't take a chance on this enormous stock. Action was IMPERATIVE. WE immediately called in nationally-known STOCK ADJUSTORS giving them FULL AUTHORITY and POSITIVE ORDER to drastically slash prices on this beautiful stock and SELL regardless of cost or losses.

Now... Don't Get The Wrong Impression!

We are NOT in hot water. We're NOT in financial difficulties. We just guessed wrong on Fall Business and couldn't say NO to salesmen. We now must sell and WILL reduce this top-heavy inventory... and fast. It's either SELL or SINK. Our aim is to SELL!

CROSS OVER THE BRIDGE and SAVE UP TO 70%!!!

Terrific!

They Came! They Saw!
They Bought! They Saved!

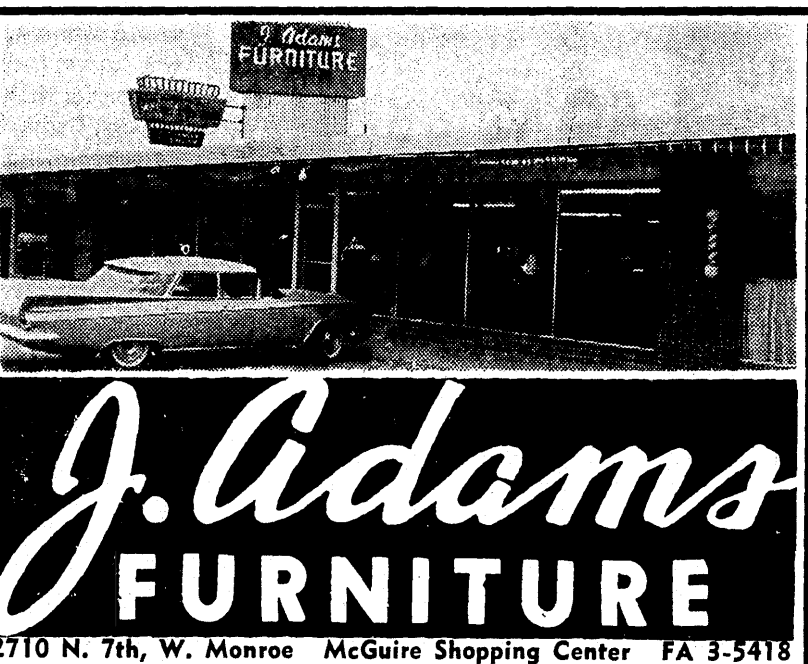

NOW

FURTHER REDUCTIONS
have been made to force removal of some goods that has been overlooked.

OUR APOLOGY

Please be patient on deliveries. We are working overtime trying to keep up.

WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY

NE Registration To Be Continued

Registration for late afternoon, evening and Saturday classes will be continued Wednesday and Thursday at Northeast Louisiana State College.

Registration had been held earlier this year. However, George Brian, director of the evening division, said students would also be allowed to sign up during the registration for regular classes on Wednesday and Thursday.

Registration will be held only during regular daytime hours, Brian emphasized. New students are asked to report to the Admissions Office, 109 Administration Building, others to their academic heads.

Late afternoon, evening and Saturday - only classes are being offered in the business department, education, fine arts, liberal arts, and pure and applied science.

Following is a revised list of the courses being offered, course numbers, hours of credit, course description, instructor and time:

Dr. James R. Oliver, professor of Chemistry at southwestern, is director of the Institutes. Requests for applications may be mailed to him at Box 133, SLI Station.

Dr. Oliver said application requests have been received to date from throughout Louisiana and from approximately 15 other states in the Union.

In November two grants, totaling $135,200 were awarded to SLI by the National Science Foundation for the support of the Summer Institutes in Science and Mathematics, which are designed to meet the needs of teachers in those subjects.

The first SLI Summer Institute was held in 1959 and attracted widespread notice with fifty-five teachers selected from a field of over 250 applicants for attendance.

Emphasized at the Institutes are the subject matter of science and mathematics rather than the methods of teaching.

Students registering after Thursday will be charged a late fee of $1. Registration will close on Feb. 11. Classes will begin Friday, Feb. 5.

Seniors and graduate students who expect to graduate in May will register Wednesday as follows:

E-K, 9-10 a.m.; L-Q, 10-11 a.m.; R-T, 11-12 a.m.; U-Z and A, 1-2 p.m.; B, 2-3 p.m., and C-D, 3-4 p.m.

All former students who have completed four or five semesters at Tech and all new students will be given a physical examination in the T. H. Harris infirmary to men students Wednesday and Thursday and to women students Thursday.

Delinquency

Treatment of cases of juvenile delinquency in this year of 1960 certainly has changed from early times. It occurred in ages past, but was greeted with treatment that was a far cry from courts of today. Someone gives report as shown in a publication in the year 1820. It refers to the 1650 code of Connecticut General Court which is as follows: "If any man has a stubborn and rebellious son of sufficient years and understanding, viz sixteen years of age, which will not obey the voice of his father or that of his mother and that, when they have chastened him, will not harken . . . such sonne shall be put to death!"

Civil Defense

The Magnolia Study Club, in its monthly session, gave attention to Mrs. Helen Agnew's detailed explanation of Civil Defense. As this is a topic that is all too little known, many new ideas and highly essential ones were studied in a review of the subject.

Mrs. Henry Poulan, president presided. Refreshments were served to the following: Misses Athlene Connell, Mattie Connell, Ole Mae Passman and Medadames Aline Banister, P. O. Bedford, L. N. Copes, Harold Gill, J. W. Golson, L. T. Harper, Ed Hislop Jr., C. C. Lucky, Floyd Mathews, W. R. Mosley, Osterland, F. V. Reitzel, W. E. Young and the guest speaker, Mrs. Hinson.

Meeting

The regular meeting of El-Miro Temple No. 187, Knights of Khorassans, will be held Monday at 8 p.m. in Castle Hall, 127 1/2 St. John Street. Installation of the new officers for 1960 will also take place.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Handsome Dick Clark, TV idol of the teenagers, faces more headlines in the near future—and not because of the congressional investigating committee in Washington, but because of his nervous network. . . . Louis Prima and Copacabana boss Julie Podel are enjoying a feud. It's supposed to have started when Louis took an ad costing more than $200, and sent it to Julie. Julie sent it back. . . .

Michael Meyerberg flew West to catch Julie Wilson in "Playgirls" and wound up signing Dagmar for the comedy lead in his new Broadway musical, "The Bishop's Jaeger," which goes into rehearsal next month. Dagmar, noted more for her astonishing curves than her singing, will be assigned five songs in the show. . . .

Mrs. Yul Brynner, professionally known as Virginia Gilmore, doesn't intend to be lenient in the divorce settlement: she'll make him pay plenty for the privilege of marrying his never-younger love. Meanwhile Virginia is keeping busy with acting classes, a video soap opera, and the decoration of a new apartment on the West Side. She's moved out of Brynners' duplex in the E. 60's.

Novelist James Jones is following the Françoise Sagan pattern in Paris. He's recovering from his second automobile accident in just a few months, although neither of his crashes was as serious as the near-fatal Sagan crack-up. . . .

Both Democratic and Republican political conventions will be plagued by a determined effort of women delegates to have a female nominated for the vice presidency. They haven't a prayer, of course, but the girls intend to have fun trying. As an argument for their cause, they'll point out that there are more women than men of voting age in the United States, as if that made any difference. (There probably are more brunettes than blondes in the United States, but that doesn't mean the brunettes constitute a solid bloc as voters.) . . .

If Brendan Behan sounds relatively sober to you in his new album, "Irish Folk Songs and Ballads," it's because he was — on so goes the startling rumor. He has been quoted as saying he was "off the gargle" at the time of the recording session. . . .

Funniest of the current movie magazine titles is one over a story on Elvis Presley. It's "Can Elvis Ever Be Another Cary Grant?" (Do you really want an answer, sweetie?) . . .

When Debbie Reynolds walked down the aisle just before curtain time at "The Miracle Worker," the audience burst into a round of applause that amounted to an ovation. . . . Showgirl Theda Nelson of "Gypsy" is wearing a diamond engagement ring from Lawrence Meyers, a non-pro. . . . Pat Boone's ease at conducting a recent telethon may result in ABC's expanding his network TV show from 30 minutes to a whole hour. . . . Billy Eckstine's ex-wife, June, has put together a song-and-dance-and-comedy act with Bobby Lucas. They'll tour the night clubs. . . . The name of the bass player in the swingy Jacy Parker trio at the Left Bank is Don Cinderella. When a customer commented, "That's an odd moniker," his manager, Leo Magid, retorted, "Yeah, man, like Ben-Hur!" . . .

Mijanou Bardot, Brigitte's younger sister, won't go through with her projected lawsuit against an American magazine. She lost interest when she got the word that it wouldn't make much of a splash in the newspapers, here or abroad. . . . Teenage drinking now has a theme song — a ballad titled "Tender Bender" . . .

The United Nations will be asked to check on reports that Red Czechoslovakia is shipping large quantities of arms to Egypt. . . . Hal Wallis thinks he has "a new Shirley MacLaine" in Barbara Lawson, who'll be unveiled in "Visit to a Small Planet" . . . Rudolph Bing, boss-man

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Husband Who Beats His Wife Needs Some Help

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Whenever anyone writes to me about cruelty in any form I feel baffled. If the individual has the capacity to do a mean or cruel thing to a child or adult, what can anyone do to make him see the enormity of his offense? He should be incapable of it, if he has a sense of decency; and if he hasn't, then who can change him?

Mrs. C.M. writes: "Dear Mrs. Eldred: I want to know how to be a good parent and will appreciate your leaflet on that subject. We have a boy of seven and a girl of six and they are sweet and well-mannered. I simply 'adore' them."

"Please write something in your column about what a terrible thing it is for a father to beat the mother of his children in front of them while they look on helplessly and screaming in terror?"

"My husband did this to me just a few days ago and I know in my heart that I will never be able to forgive him for it."

ANSWER

This is confusing as it would seem after eight years of marriage that this must have been thorized at an initial price of 18.72 cents a thousand feet instead of the 21.2 cents proposed by the producer.

The producers are Humble Oil and Refining Co., Houston, and Ohio Oil Co., Findlay, Ohio. They began deliveries under temporary authorization in 1953 from the American Island and North American Island fields in St. Martin Parish, La.

a unique incident. If it never has happened before and you could not blame it upon drunkenness, don't you think it would be smart to have the husband examined by a physician to determine if there is any physical condition which would account for this change of character and behavior? I would not be too sure that he could help himself—if this is the first time such a thing has taken place.

Also, it would be a good idea for both of you to take your problem to a marriage counselor—or your own priest, rabbi or minister. Any of these might be able to unravel the mystery of why a husband suddenly would go berserk and act in this uncontrolled and frightening way.

No one—knowing as little as you have told me—could rule out the possibility that you may have goaded him into this exhibition by something you may have done or said. An unbiased outsider hearing both sides of the question would be in a better position to discover what motivated this conduct.

I agree that it was "terrible" and inexcusable. Gentlemen simply don't beat their wives. It isn't done.

COULD SPARK MART RALLY

Analyst Notes Good Things

NEW YORK (AP) — While most Wall Street observers groped for the causes behind the stock market's persistent slide, one analyst Friday produced some reasons which he said could spark a rally.

What are some of the good things that could turn the market around, asked Eldon A. Grimm of Walston & Co.

Supplying his own answers, he listed these:

"1. A great big batch of dividend boosts. That is solid, basic news."

"2. Volume has evaporated on this decline. Last week's volume was the lowest for any five-day week in 15 months. This week's volume is skimpy, too."

"3. Short-term interest rates have dipped sharply. Easier money is good news because bull markets traditionally feed on cheap money and down-markets often suffer from tight money."

"4. It still looks as though business activity in 1960 will set a record."

ord despite the relatively slow start in the sales volume of certain automobiles. Dozens of companies in 1960 should chalk up steep earnings gains over strike-torn 1959."

Walter K. Gutman of Shields & Co. said he thinks a rally should develop but cites the possibility of the market going down to 620 on the Dow Jones industrial average.

"If it slides down there it will go through," he said. "If it does go through, it will induce a lot of professional selling and go below the 600 level to something around 560."

Bache & Co. says it sees no evidence that any sort of substantial rebound will occur in the immediate future, adding:

"Of course, in view of the sharp drop that has been sustained by many individual issues, some sort of technical rally could develop at any point. Unless such an upswing can maintain favorable technical characteristics over a period of time, we could continue our cautious attitude."

"There still remains good basic support in the 613-625 area of the Dow Jones industrial average," comments Van Alstyne, Noel & Co., "and it would seem now that a test of this zone is in the making. We do not look for any further dip or extended correction from these levels and technically the list could turn around at any point here."

Frank X. White, vice president of American Machine and Foundry Co., says he expects U.S. industry to invest four billion dollars abroad this year. Half would be in Europe.

Speaking in Milan, Italy, he said the investments would be made to keep from being frozen out of the common market areas being set up.

"It is necessary for U.S. industry to start producing from the inside of these new trade organizations," he said.

When Academy Award time comes around, Charlton Heston and Simone Signoret should win hands down for their respective performances in "Ben-Hur" and "Room at the Top," but very few Hollywood prognosticators think they will. The Oscars often are more of a popularity contest than a true indication of talent. Ballyhoo counts, too — which is why the contenders take ads in the trade papers and hire press agents to plant items reminding the public (and the movie studio employees eligible to vote) how wonderful their clients were in the parts up for consideration. Sentiment is important, too; Elizabeth Taylor is likely to win a statuette not only because she gave a splendid performance in "Suddenly Last Summer" but because a lot of her colleagues in the industry think she's suffered enough from the unattractive publicity attending her marriage to Eddie Fisher and wish to make it up to her with the highest award Hollywood can bestow. (Next to a million dollars a picture, of course.)

Rights Battle Is Fought On Three Fronts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The politically explosive battle over civil rights legislation was fought on three congressional fronts Friday with Southerners centering their main attack on a poll tax repealer pending in the Senate.

Sens. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) and Strom Thurmond (D-S.C.) led the Southern fight on the Senate floor against moves to outlaw the poll tax which still prevails in five states.

Both indicated they were ready to talk at length on the issue, dimming prospects that the Senate could begin voting on the proposals this week.

Equally sharp skirmishing was waged in the Senate and House Rules Committee which are weighing broad civil rights bills for the election-year session.

A series of Southern witnesses testified before the Senate group in opposition to a bill which would authorize the federal government to appoint special registrars to remedy abuses of voting rights.

One of them, McDonald Gallion, attorney general for Alabama, declared the registrars "once in power, would perpetuate themselves on the public payroll" forever and would recreate another "carpetbag" era in the South.

In the House, Rules Committee Chairman Howard W. Smith (D-Va.) was accused of using "simply another dodge" to stymie a civil rights bill.

Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.), sponsor of the legislation, said Smith was resorting to such tactics by scheduling rules committee hearings on the legislation for Monday. Both Celler and Rep. Ray Madden (D-Ind.) said the hearings were not needed. The Senate met an hour early Friday to resume debate on the poll tax issue.

FAMILIAR NAME

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Only the name was familiar at the spot where Air Force Lt. Tom Barnett parachuted to earth from his crippled F102 jet fighter.

The young pilot ejected from the flamed-out jet at 25,000 feet above Ohio and drifted for a number of miles as icy winds carried his parachute long. He finally landed near the Ohio River on Barnett Ridge.

THRIFT

Thrifty, a welcome traveling companion, steps in when you select the revolutionary compact Corvair.

The economy begins with the Corvair's initial low cost, and every mile you drive is money in the pocket. Your gas dollars will now go farther . . . because the Corvair delivers miles and miles and miles per gallon. And when you change oil, the refill is only four quarts.

Because of Corvair's low weight (1,335 lbs. less than conventional cars) and extra-low price, you'll realize added savings in many states in licensing and insurance costs.

When winter comes, just let it. Corvair's air-cooled six-cylinder engine rides you forever of antifreeze bills. Corvair has no radiator so you can forget about leaks and worn hoses.

Important as economy is, it tells only part of Corvair's glad story. It is a delight to handle and you couldn't ask for a smoother ride.

The aluminum engine in the rear supplies willing power to the rear wheels, giving superior traction when it's needed most. (Transmission parts and rear axle drive gears are neatly contained in a single compact unit.)

As you glide along, you'll marvel at how easily the Corvair steers (no power assistance needed there) and the sure braking action front and rear. That's the payoff on precise weight distribution. Corvair makes parking a cinch. You'll find yourself tucking it into spaces you never looked at twice before.

There's room enough inside for six adults and the floor is practically flat for remarkable comfort. A wonderfully handy folding rear seat makes it virtually a station sedan.

There's really nothing quite like the ride you get in the Corvair. Independent suspension at every wheel, Corvair's "spring quartet," waits you over bumps with feathery ease. Engine noise and heat are largely left behind you. (The engine's in the rear, you know.) For coziness in cold weather Corvair has a fast, efficient aircraft type heater.*

And the Corvair is as pleasing to the eye as it is to the pocketbook. Its singular styling is new from the road up—the lines charged with motion. Interiors are smart and bright, sprucely tailored with two-tone upholstery of patterned cloth and vinyl. Corvair is available in nine solid colors and seven two-tones.

We modestly submit, and are certain you'll agree, the Corvair is the product of inspired precision engineering—the compact car you'll recognize as the one you've been waiting for.

Why don't you have your Chevrolet dealer introduce you to Corvair today?

Younger Group At Worst It Seems, In New York

Juvenile delinquency is a nationwide problem, but it is in New York City where the younger generation is seen at its worst, where the gang rumbles are the most serious. Here is a detailed look at what the nation's largest city is trying to do about one of its biggest problems.

NEW YORK (AP)—It was night in the city, hours past a youngster's bedtime.

At 2:45 a.m., four Puerto Rican teenagers got into a brawl on a subway train. Patrolman James Littlefield tried to break it up and was mauled, but he arrested three.

At 3:15 a.m., Patrolman Edward Goff told 25 teen-age girls who were creating a disturbance on a street in the Bronx it was time to go home. Goff was bitten, scratched and beaten. He arrested three.

At 5:15 a.m., Patrolman Robert Erickson spotted a youth behaving suspiciously on the west side of Central Park. "Go on home," he told him. Instead the youth yanked a stick from a litter basket and began beating the policeman. Erickson arrested him.

At 8 a.m., throughout the city, nickels were traded for bold headlines reading: "Young punks beat 3 cops."

Again the public wondered: "Why isn't something done?"

The answer is complicated. New York has a whopping problem with delinquent kids. There are more than 70 teenage gangs which can cause trouble, terrorizing neighborhoods and conducting open warfare with rival gangs.

But juvenile delinquency is not limited to the gangs. There are many more conflicts with the law involving individual children. In the first nine months of last year, 8,748 children under 16 were arrested, more than half charged with felonies. In the 16-20 age group, there were 14,180 arrests, 5,814 for felonies.

In five years, the number of New York youngsters arrested each year has doubled.

The city is fighting hard to check the problem, but its campaign is complicated, often confused and disorganized.

Involved is a conglomeration of special courts, schools, social agencies, public and private organizations, treatment and training centers, special police, probation officers, youth field workers, and several thousand volunteers.

Not even those persons most concerned have a clear picture of everything that is being done. Since 1956, City College of New York researchers have been trying to evaluate the city's juvenile delinquency program, and the end of its study is not in sight.

Meantime the kids keep getting into trouble.

The CCNY study describes these problem children as "unruly, thwarted, alienated children who have not known affectionate care or wise discipline, blindly destroying their future because their past has been evil, rebelling against authority with a combination of scorn and fear."

Many are Negroes and Puerto Ricans, who now comprise 10 per cent of New York's population.

This is "no indictment whatever against the Puerto Rican or Negro people," says a CCNY faculty member. "These people should have our help and our sympathy, and if any condemnation is in order, it should be for those who fail to see that the children of these people are brought up under conditions that breed delinquency—conditions of overcrowding, promiscuity, of poverty and dirt, of ramshackle houses."

Three state schools handling hundreds of delinquent children from the city list half their inmates as Negro and from 10 to 20 per cent as Spanish-speaking.

New York's delinquency program is divided into prevention and cure. The City Youth Board is in charge of prevention; the courts oversee the cure.

The board has a referral unit in every school—a detection center which locates troubled children, diagnoses their problems, and prepares them and their families for referral to the appropriate agency for treatment.

Another project, Service to Families and Children, works with families that have problems which are likely to breed delinquency in the children.

A third, the Street Club Project, works with the teen-age gangs.

A field worker is assigned to each gang. It is his job to establish such a sincere relationship with the members that, in time, he will be able to influence them.

The courts take over when a delinquent is arrested.

If he's over 16, he goes to Adolescent Court. If he's under 16 his case is handled in Children's Court. From a treatment standpoint, youngsters under 16 get the most attention.

A director of one of the larger institutions, who pioneered in the treatment of disturbed and delinquent children, says he has given up on rehabilitation of older teen-age delinquents. They are too hardened to respond, he says.

While the lad is waiting to appear in Children's Court, he likely will find himself in one of the city's youth houses. These are not jails. The youngsters can roam about—though under watchful eyes. They go to school in small classes where they get special attention.

Some learn for the first time to brush their teeth, dress properly, make their beds and use a fork. Sometimes a child coming to a youth house for the second time will announce, "I asked the judge to send me back."

At a youth house a new boy is taken under the wing of a case worker who studies him carefully for about three weeks. Then the worker makes a report which goes to the probation officer. The officer gives the report to the judge, along with his own on the child's family, school record and other background.

When the youngster appears in court, he has a better than 50-50 chance of being excused or placed on probation. If his home situation is bad, he might be sent to live with relatives, or occasionally, to a foster home.

The judge may decide the boy needs institutional care.

If the psychiatrist's report shows he is psychotic, he will go to a mental institution. If he is mentally retarded, he will be assigned to one of the state schools.

More and more experts are coming to view the defiant child of various ages as a whole person, not considered psychotic, he will be sent to one of the privately operated residential treatment centers in rural areas which are specially equipped to treat his problems.

Several years ago the city was enraged at the wave of brutal beatings that ended with the torture death of at least one victim.

The convicted ringleader was Jack Koslow, 18. Eleven years earlier, a psychiatric worker said the boy was seriously disturbed, possibly schizophrenic, and needed treatment. The expert had been called in because Jack showed violent, aggressive tendencies in school. But his middle-class family didn't agree with the diagnosis and he never received treatment.

Now he is in prison serving a 10 to 20-year sentence. End Adv. for Sun. Jan. 24.

FOR DISTRICT

Third Judgeship Request Is Seen

A recommendation for a third judgeship to serve the Ouachita-Morehouse district seems certain to be presented soon by the Fourth District Bar Association, it was learned yesterday.

The formal recommendation is expected to be presented at the next meeting of the Association, before the state Legislature convenes in May.

Association president Murphy Blackwell has pointed out that the judgeship must be established by legislative act, and that the proposal will call for a two-thirds majority vote in both houses.

The present system, with two judges, was established in 1926. At that time, the combined population of Ouachita and Morehouse parishes was approximately 75,000. Since then, there has been a population increase in the two parishes of around 80 per cent. "As a result of this tremendous increase in the caseload in the Fourth District," said Blackwell, "it has become almost imperative that we have an additional judge to cope with the need."

APPOINTED Blackwell has appointed six district lawyers to officially draft the proposal. Those named to the committee were Joseph S. Guerrero, Fred Fudickar, Murray Hudson, McVea Oliver and George Fink, all of Monroe, and Woodrow Wilson, Bastrop.

Blackwell stated his hope that the new judgeship can be established in time to elect the third judge this fall, when election for the two established judgeships will be held.

The two judges presently serving the Fourth District are David I. Garrett Sr. and Jesse S. Heard. Both are expected to seek reelection.

Members of the legal fraternity are in apparent agreement on the need for a third judge.

It is believed that a proposal for an additional judgeship would receive routine approval in the Legislature. The measure would have to be introduced by a member of the legislature, probably a member of the Ouachita or Morehouse delegation.

GIBBS VIEW Representative Lawrence Gibbs said last night, when asked to comment, "I shall be most happy to cooperate with the Fourth District Bar Association in any way possible. This situation was realized by myself and other interested parties last year. I realize that it is long past due."

Gibbs and Rep. Gilbert Faulk in 1956 introduced a bill to create a position for another assistant District Attorney for the two parishes.

Gibbs further stated, "I will be happy to introduce the bill with the rest of the Ouachita delegation, if my colleagues so desire."

Ouachita's other House member, Representative - elect Mike John Jr., made the following comment:

"I will be concerned to actively support and vote for any worthy and judicial legislation deemed necessary by the Fourth District Bar Association which, in their considered recommendation, is for the cause of good government and for the effective and efficient operation of our courts."

The senior Fourth District judge, David I. Garrett Sr., could not be reached for comment last night.

Respite Granted Veniremen Here

The 30-man petit jury venire was given a two-day respite from jury duty yesterday.

Assistant District Attorney Gilbert T. Brown announced that jurors need not be in Fourth District Court at the Ouachita Parish Courthouse until 10 a.m. Wednesday.

Two cases slated for Monday are expected to be disposed of without trial, and the man scheduled for trial Tuesday has indicated he will plead guilty.

FRENCH L. SMITH dictates to secretary, Mrs. Vera Grove, in his new office. The commission is now enjoying a more efficient operation in ample space, Smith says.

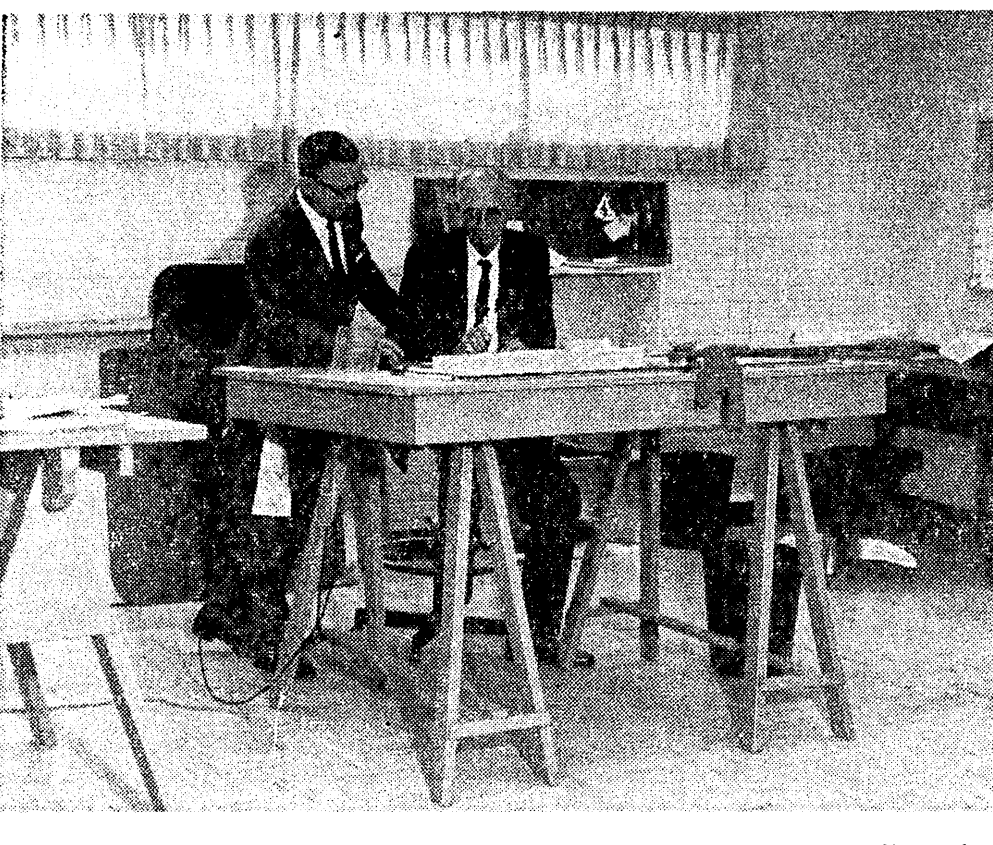

PURCHASING NEEDS are discussed in Monroe Utilities Commission new offices by Mrs. Ethel Horne, purchasing agent, and L. L. Nunley, power plant superintendent.

Utilities In New Home

By SAM HANNA

Not many American families can build a new home and then pay for it in cash. The same is true for the average American business moving into a new location.

Even the thought of an American government agency paying cash for a new building is absurd, especially in an era when government is so badly in debt.

Yet, this is exactly what the Monroe Utilities Commission has done. They built a new office building at a cost of $53,395, paid cash and moved in without fanfare.

FROM EARNINGS

Manager French L. Smith said the building, located at the corner of 12th and Grammont street was paid for from the commission's earnings, meaning, of course, revenue from the Monroe power and water systems.

This is not to say that the commission built a new home simply to show that it could be done. Actually, the move was one to reduce expenditures — to cut down on the outflow of the taxpayers' dollar.

"By moving to this office, our operation is consolidated," Smith explained. "I think it makes our operation more economical for the commission, for the city for the taxpayers."

The commission, an infant branch of Monroe city government, has been in existence for only three years. Informed Monroians know that the commission was created to take the power system out of politics and put it on a payable basis.

This new office building is a result of that intention.

All commission departments are located in the new plant, with the exception of the collection department, which was left behind in the Penn Hotel building strictly for the convenience of the customers.

It was in the Penn Hotel building where the commission first set up its young operation, moving there from the over-crowded City Hall.

Now that the commission has its own building, money for rent once spent, for office space in the Penn can go to the operation of the Monroe power system.

OTHER OFFICES

The commission still pays rent for its collection department offices on S. Grand St., however.

But the idea of getting all departments under one roof rang a bell for commission members. They figured they could save the city money. So bids were called for and the low one was accepted.

By January 1, 1960, contractor H. W. Chapman of Monroe had the building ready for the commission to move in.

Built of concrete, the new commission headquarters has ample space for all departments, a respectable office for Smith where he can meet business and professional men on an equal basis and a spacious conference room for meetings.

In addition, there is plenty of elbow room for the engineers, accountants and other office personnel. The building from the outside has a misleading appearance, but on the inside, it's extremely nice to look at.

It's well-lit, well-ventilated and big enough for a growing operation. It has 4,900 square feet of floor space.

Smith noted that since the commission moved in January 1, the efficiency of the operation began improving.

"We're all under the same roof now," he added. "We know where we're going."

Before the construction of the new plant, the electrical and water departments were housed in a building at the same location of the new one.

The commission consolidated the entire operation by merely adding on.

Now it's paid for and the commission stands ready to meet the challenges of a growing Monroe, challenges that must be met if the city is to continue providing services for its people.

Lights and water spell "bread and butter" for the City of Monroe. The Utilities Commission, in an already-paid-for new building, is doing a good job of holding up its end of the bargain.

Arctic Lab Duties Told As Trying

By JAMES LEVEQUE
Fairbanks News-Miner Staff Writer

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — Imagine yourself all taped up with some 20 temperature recording devices, placed in a not-so-warm sleeping bag in an unheated tent, your head in a plastic box.

Then your friends say, "G'night. See ya in the morning."

That, with variations, is just what has gone on at the Arctic Aeromedical Laboratory at Ladd Air Force Base. An expert team made up of University of Washington and Air Force personnel is conducting tests of heat loss and recovery.

For the two airmen volunteers involved, it means $53 extra monthly plus the satisfaction of having contributed both personal interest and cooperation to a scientific experiment.

For the seven technicians, it means an original thrust into a new field of basic research.

For basic research, it means just that much more knowledge which is available when necessary and appropriate to some probe of science.

This particular project is under the supervision of Dr. Loren Carlson, University of Washington professor who is noted as a leading expert in cold weather and altitude physiology.

The experiment goes something like this:

For three-quarters of an hour, the subject is submerged in a tub of constant temperature water. He breathes through a tube and from this device, and several oth-

OWNERS COMPLAIN

Maintenance Cost Of Housing Great

NEW YORK (UPI)—Talk to a homeowner a while and sooner or later he will gripe about maintenance costs.

Yet, many of the complainers bring about these costs themselves through a lack of elementary construction knowledge.

Surprisingly, many homeowners have not taken the trouble to investigate the most basic structural features of their dwellings, according to Allied Homeowners Association (AHA), nationwide organization of franchise homeowners clubs.

Such an attitude would be unfavorable if carried over into business or employment.

AHA President Arthur Yeckes said that although he does not believe a homeowner must undergo an intensive training course in order to properly maintain his house, he cannot adopt an ostrich-like policy unless he is prepared to suffer the financial consequences.

Yeckes said that since the parent AHA club was formed in Roslyn, N.Y., three years ago he has met dozens of homeowners who had no firm idea where the shut-off valves on their incoming water lines were located. They found out the hard way by watching or recorders, his adjustments to the temperature of the tub—or environmental acclimatization—transcribed.

The subject is then hurriedly dried and taped with heat-and-cold sensitive thermocouples—about 20 in all—and hustled outside. He's placed in a sleeping bag and his head slipped into an air-tight plastic box. A rubber gasket fits tightly around the neck. Air is pumped into the box, and an alert buzzer or "panic button" is put into the subject's hand.

He's then abandoned, but certainly not forgotten.

Those thermocouples are attached to a battery of recording graphs: temperatures on a minute-to-minute basis are recorded for each part of his body.

About eight hours later, it's the bath all over again. Now the scientists determine how long, in consideration of the night's heat loss, it takes the subject to re-achieve the body temperature he had when taken from the first bath.

The basic question How rapidly does the human body recover from heat loss?

The answer is somewhere in the thin inked lines on miles of graph paper.

ATOMIC DUMPS PLANNED

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) says it plans to turn a small portion of state or federal land into atomic waste baskets.

The AEC said in a statement it had decided that regional sites for permanent disposal of "low level" packaged radioactive waste materials would be established on state or federal government-owned land.

small lakes form in their basements.

Many homeowners are unaware of the locations of the shut-off valves for the various branches of their plumbing systems. Should a faucet jam or a washer break, they could only hope that the sink or tub drain could handle the steady flow of water until help arrived.

A few minutes of advance investigation by a more knowledgeable neighbor, plus a simple tagging of each valve, can prevent much future damage, Yeckes emphasized.

Unfamiliarity with plasterboard is another major reason for needless expense. AHA records contain many cases where attempts were made to hang large mirrors and heavy shelves or ornamental objects without the proper devices or a basic knowledge of this type of wall construction.

No effort was made to put nails or screws into the 2x4 wood supports, or studs, which usually are spaced 16 inches apart behind the plasterboard. Nor had toggle bolts or other special shallow wall attachment devices been used.

In some instances, Yeckes pointed out, entire rooms have had to be repainted as the result of damage to plasterboard walls.

And there also are homeowners who are completely unaware of sewage disposal systems serving their homes—sewer lines, septic tanks or cesspools. Many women habitually pour cooking oils and grease down their kitchen drains, which can result in clogged cesspools and septic tanks, and costly repairs.

The AHA has received many calls to repair damage to eaves, walls, carpets and furnishings, caused by water backing up in leaf-choked rain gutters and leaders. Some people were completely unaware of the need for keeping these drain lines clear.

Failure to put the prescribed few drops of oil in heating system circulator motors, or to lubricate ventilating fans occasionally are other frequent cause of damage and expense, the AHA found.

And some homeowners have gone through uncomfortable winters complaining about such little understood things as "not enough insulation" or "too weak heating system." Investigation revealed in some cases that the homeowner had only neglected to bleed from a hot water heating system the normal amount of air that finds its way into the lines.

Roof damage often is a source of great expense to the unknowing homeowner. Yeckes does not advocate a personal roof-climbing inspection tour by the average person because of the danger involved. However, the homeowner should be aware that wind, rain, snow, ice and heat can damage roofs, and that inspections are necessary from time to time.

An experienced roofer can detect possible trouble spots before they manifest themselves in the form of leaks. The small fee he will charge can help the homeowner avoid a sizable bill in the future.

Chessman Is Being 'Realistic'

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Calif. (AP)—"I am one piece of paper removed from the gas chamber," Caryl Chessman told a news conference Saturday.

He is scheduled for execution Feb. 19 for several crimes including perverted sex acts, rape and kidnapping at Los Angeles.

Chessman didn't know it, but about the same time Gov. Edmund G. Brown said he would review his denial of executive clemency for the convict.

The man who has spent 11 years on death row told newsmen the "piece of paper" would be an appeal to the U.S. appellate court of Friday's denial by U.S. Dist. Judge Louis E. Goodman of his appeal for release from prison.

However, the judge suggested the governor might reconsider clemency.

The San Francisco News - Call Bulletin reported Brown, at Santa Barbara, said: "I have a deep respect for Judge Goodman. Anything he said I would take a serious look at."

Chessman also said, "Almost certainly we will get again to the U.S. Supreme Court."

He said no action will be taken on a request for a stay of execution until the appellate court rules.

He told newsmen he felt Judge Goodman did not make a decision on the merits of his case.

"Let me say for the record," Chessman declared, "that I am not the red light hand. Ultimately I have no doubt that will be established."

Asked about his frame of mind—whether it is optimistic—Chessman replied "realistic."

"You don't have time to be subjective or think with your intestinal tracts—viscera," he remarked. "If I did I couldn't answer your questions. I'd be so nervous I'd be gibbering."

Asked if another stay of execution was inevitable, he said: "In law nothing is inevitable. Law and logic are readily distinguished. What is logical is not always legal, and what is legal, is not always logical."

As the newsmen departed one asked, "Shall we see you again?"

"That's up to you," Chessman replied. "But if you do, I hope it isn't at that glass-paneled, octagonal little room"—the gas chamber.

Discussion Set On Beef Cattle By Association

JONESVILLE (Special) — A discussion of the beef cattle outlook for 1960 and the election of new officers will highlight the meeting of the Catahoula Parish Cattlemen Association for Wednesday, Feb. 3, at 7 p.m. at Harrisonburg.

H. E. McFatter, beef cattle specialist of LSU, will discuss the beef cattle outlook and will also cover trends in marketing of livestock.

T. E. Kirby, president of the organization, pointed out that beef cattle income to farmers in Catahoula parish ranked next to cotton in 1959.

The election of officers to serve in the association for 1960 will be conducted at the meeting. Present officers in addition to Kirby are E. B. Knott, vice president and E. E. Johnson, secretary-treasurer.

Delegates to the state convention, to be held in Alexandria Feb. 15 and 16, will be selected to represent the parish group. All members and those interested in the beef cattle industry of

Monroe Area Burglaries Net Cash, Jewelry

Two Monroe safe burglaries Friday night netted thieves approximately $1,000 in cash and a large amount of jewelry, it was reported yesterday by city police Chief James C. Kelly Jr.

Burglars removed around $500 in cash and a large amount of jewelry from the safe of Louisiana Parts and Supply Co., 114 Washington street, after breaking a window and entering the establishment. The value of the jewelry, consisting of several rings, brooches, a necklace and other pieces, has not yet been determined.

In the second burglary, Hill Lumber Co., Seventeenth and Louisville, was entered and approximately $300 taken from the safe.

Although similar methods were used in both instances, no definite connection has been established. Catahoula parish should attend this meeting Wednesday night.

Senate Race High Court Hearing Set

Oral arguments in the Cruthers vs. Jones state senate dispute will be heard before the state Supreme Court Thursday morning at 11 o'clock, according to information from attorneys in the case.

The hearing in the high court will be on an appeal from a District Court decision favoring Howard M. Jones as the Democratic nominee for senator from the southern half of the 32nd district.

Jones' election was contested in court by Brenham C. Crothers, defeated incumbent, and W. E. Person, another eliminated candidate. Crothers and Persons contended that Jones was ineligible to seek the office because of disfranchisement. Jones served a sentence in a federal prison after conviction on a felony charge.

RULING

The court, however, ruled that Jones' nomination is legal and that he should be the nominee. Crothers filed an appeal with the Supreme Court. Person did not contest the decision.

Attorneys said that the arguments will not last more than the one day because the court limits such debate. It was also indicated that there is no way to determine when the court's decision will be rendered.

Crothers, at the outset of the contest, said that he would carry the fight all the way to the floor of the state senate to stop Jones from being seated. Jones is a St. Joseph oil man and Crothers is a Ferriday cattleman.

Police Blotter

CHARGED

James Newton, Negro of 319 North Eleventh street, was booked on a burglary charge by city police yesterday. Newton was charged with the burglary of a residence at 910 1/2 Adam street, in which a radio was stolen. The radio was recovered.

ARRESTED

L. B. Lavender, 31, Negro, 18-D Texas Avenue, was arrested and charged with aggravated battery.

A. Borger, Texas man, James Alford, Tullos, 20, was arrested by city police and charged with the Sept. 15, 1959 burglary of a residence at 710 Wood street.

DRIVING CHARGES

Two persons were arrested by Monroe police on charges of driving while intoxicated and reckless driving. Those arrested were William S. Hill, 44, Rt. 3 Box 1257, West Monroe, and Albert H. Herandres, 21, 608 Stella Street.

IN CUSTODY

Monroe police Chief James C. Kelly Jr. announced the arrest yesterday of Joe Reppond, 18, 1700 Roselawn, on two charges of felony theft. Reppond was charged with the theft of coin changing machines from two local self-service laundries.

BOOKED

Grover De Johnette, 22, Negro of 79A Carver Homes, was booked by city police last night on charges of aggravated and simple battery.

CHARGED

West Monroe police yesterday arrested two persons on driving while intoxicated. They were Clayton Barriere, 24, 3302 1/2 Cypress, West Monroe, and Mildred Strang, 40, of Rt. 1, Box 144, Columbia. Mildred Strang was also charged with reckless driving.

CHARGED HERE

Willie Smith Jones, 24, Negro of 805 Adams street, was arrested last night by city police and charged with simple battery.

Association Contract Let For Building

The Peoples Homestead and Savings Association has awarded the contract for the building of their West Monroe office to Rammy Terral, of Farmerville. He made the low bid of $186,596.00 and a contract was let on Friday for that firm to proceed on the project starting February 1st, with completion expected by early fall, according to an announcement by C. A. Easterling, president.

The site of the building is at the intersection of Pine and Cypress streets. The structure will include 6,875 square feet of office area on a one floor level. One drive-in window is included in the original plan and the design makes possible the addition of a second one when needed. The land properly measures 200 feet on Cypress and 186.77 on Pine, and parking space for 40-50 automobiles will be provided.

Easterling said, "This additional facility, which will represent an expenditure in excess of a quarter million dollars, will enable about one-third of our present customers to transact their business with us without crossing the river. Furthermore, it will relieve the heavy traffic brought on by the growth we've shown in our present location, thus enabling us to give better service to all our customers. This new office will maintain all its own records and provide complete service to customers who find it more convenient to do business there."

This marks the first venture by any savings and loan institution in the Twin Cities toward multiple office operation. Peoples Homestead was organized on March 4, 1954.

Johns and Neel of Monroe are the architects for the project.

Receives Army Award At NSC

Fred L. Reeves, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Reeves of 702 Roselawn, Monroe, was one of two distinguished Military Graduates at mid-year commencement ceremonies held during the past week at Northwestern State College, Natchitoches.

He received his degree in business education in the School of Applied Arts and Sciences at NSC and was commissioned as a second lieutenant in the U. S. Army Reserve at the graduation exercises.

Reeves, along with Truman Maynard of Natchitoches, received special recognition as recipient of the DMG Award. Eight other men and one woman also received Second Lieutenant's commissions. Reeves was president of the senior class at Neville High School in Monroe, from which he graduated. He was also vice-president of the senior class at Northwestern and a four-year varsity baseball letterman with the Demons. Among ten others who also received commissions was James E. Brister, of Bastrop, who majored in Business education.

To Participate In Conference

Students from West Monroe High School will participate in the 14th annual State Leadership Conference of Distributive Education in Shreveport, Jan. 31 through Feb. 2.

The announcement was made by Loyd Puckitt, West Monroe High School coordinator, who will be a member of the finance committee. Edwin Nappier and Reggie Hinton are scheduled to serve on constitutional and nominating committees.

David McClung is a candidate for state president and Woody Puckitt has his name on the slate as a candidate for state treasurer.

A banquet will highlight the meeting and the outstanding club and student of the year will be announced. Contest winners will also be revealed at the affair.

Reserve Beauty Title Awarded

At a buffet supper held Saturday night at the Rendezvous Restaurant for the members, officers and men of the officers Naval Reserve No. 8-19, Miss Diana Cobb, a Louisiana Tech student, was chosen Miss Naval Reserve for 1960.

Miss Cobb, who makes her home in Monroe, defeated nine other young ladies, ranging in age from 18-25, to win the title. The runner-ups were Pat Holloway, of Sterlington and Kathy Talton, a Northeast student.

House Damaged

A stucco house at 805 Thomas street was extensively damaged yesterday evening when it caught fire while the owner was away.

Fire companies 102 and 104 and car 3 were dispatched to the building, owned by B. N. Smith, and battled the fire for two hours before bringing it under control. No estimate of damage was available last night.

The cause of the fire had not been determined last night, but it has been established that the blaze started in the rear of the house and spread into the attic.

IN ALEXANDRIA

Three Scouters To Be Awarded

Three Monroe Scouters, including the late John F. Brown, will be cited for "outstanding leadership" in Catholic scouting in a special Scout Sunday ceremony at Alexandria February 7.

J. W. Webster Sr., president of Ouachita Valley Council, and A. L. (Tony) Embanato, a local scoutmaster, will be among five recipients of the St. George Award.

John F. Brown, who died several weeks ago after many years of work in scouting, will receive the award posthumously. A member of his family will accept it in his honor.

They will be the first in the Alexandria Diocese to receive the St. George Award, highest honor that can be conferred upon Catholic lay leaders engaged in Scout work.

Bishop Charles P. Greco, D. D., will make the presentation during a ceremony in St. Francis Xavier's Cathedral on Scout Sunday, Feb. 7, at 3 p.m.

OTHERS

Besides the Monroe Scouters, others receiving the award will be J. Numa Damiani and Dr. E. M. Laborde, both of St. Joseph's Parish, Marksville.

Webster is a layman of Jesus the Good Shepherd Parish while Embanato represents St. Matthew's Parish. Before his death, Brown was of St. Matthew's also.

Candidates for the St. George Award are selected by a special committee appointed each year for that purpose by the diocesan Scout chaplain, who also concurs in the final selection.

Recipients of the award must be active Catholic lay leaders registered in the Boy Scouts of America. They must be certified by their local Scout councils and currently serving in active positions.

Full approval of their respective pastors is required before the award is given and all candidates are subject to approval of the Bishop of the diocese.

According to official regulations, the Diocese of Alexandria is allowed a maximum of three St. George Awards per year.

Of the five to receive the award February 7, three were selected for 1959 while two were approved in former years, but never received the award itself.

SELECTED

The three Monroe men were selected for this year's presentation. Webster, besides being president of the Ouachita Valley Council which covers the Fifth Congressional District, is the Catholic committee's representative to that same group.

He is a recipient of the Silver Beaver Award, highest award that can be presented to a Scoutmaster.

Embanato, a Silver Beaver recipient also, serves as a scoutmaster and an adviser to the Order of the Arrow, honor society for Scouts.

Brown, before his recent death, served as Explorer adviser in the council and was an instructor in all phases of the Scout training program.

Highlight of his Scouting career came last December when he received the Vigil, highest order in the Order of the Arrow.

Gray Ladies Brighten Lives Of Aged

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

Monroe is showing the nation how to care for its aged. The city is regarded as a Mecca for the aged, for the homeless, for the persons in their twilight years.

Boasting nine convalescent homes housing 360 senior citizens, this town of 20,000 has been given another first by the Gray Ladies organization.

It was here that the Gray Ladies initiated the practice of visiting, entertaining and brightening the lives of those in their later years.

LOOK AHEAD

The Gray Ladies, proving that they and their mother organization, the Red Cross have heart, also are pointing up that a person in his late years has plenty to look forward to and be thankful for.

"These old people are so glad to see someone from the outside world, it warms your heart to visit them," Mrs. H. H. Land, one of the newest members of the 10-year-old group, tells.

The Monroe women who organized the local Gray Ladies group initiated the idea of visiting the guests in rest homes.

The local organization is a guidepost for other cities.

"Surveys show that every day, 1,000 persons observe their 65th birthday in this country. Family situations often make it necessary for these older people to become guests in rest homes," explains Mrs. C. M. Strauss, local chairman who also guided the group in its first efforts.

NEED FRIENDS

"They feel lonely, and need a friend — so the Gray Ladies become their friends. We're known by our uniforms. We sit with them, tell interesting things, write letters, do their shopping."

"We try to make them see we sincerely care about them . . . and we do," she stressed.

Once a week, rest home guests look forward to the Gray Ladies visit.

The men "slink up" and sit on the porch chairs. The ladies wait inside, and watch the clock.

"Oh, oh, it's Friday the 13th, a bad day," groaned one retired gentleman. "Ain't a bad day for me," laughed his friend. "This is the day the Gray Ladies are coming."

The ladies in the crisp gray and white uniforms spend from two to three hours with their "second family".

Many old people are blind or have arthritis. The Gray Lady writes their letters, reads to them.

Others enjoy playing dominoes, cards and other games with the Gray Lady.

ASSIST

Does a guest have a doctor's appointment, or need to go shopping? The Gray Lady provides transportation.

Refreshments are brought to delight the guests each week, and once a month a Birthday Party is held.

"A Gray Lady once took flowers to a home where the older men outnumber the women. The men took one look and grumbled 'can't eat flowers'," laughed Mrs. Taunton Veezy, executive secretary of the Ouachita Parish Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Ages and outlooks vary. Guests may be 65 or 98, active and alert or quiet and withdrawn.

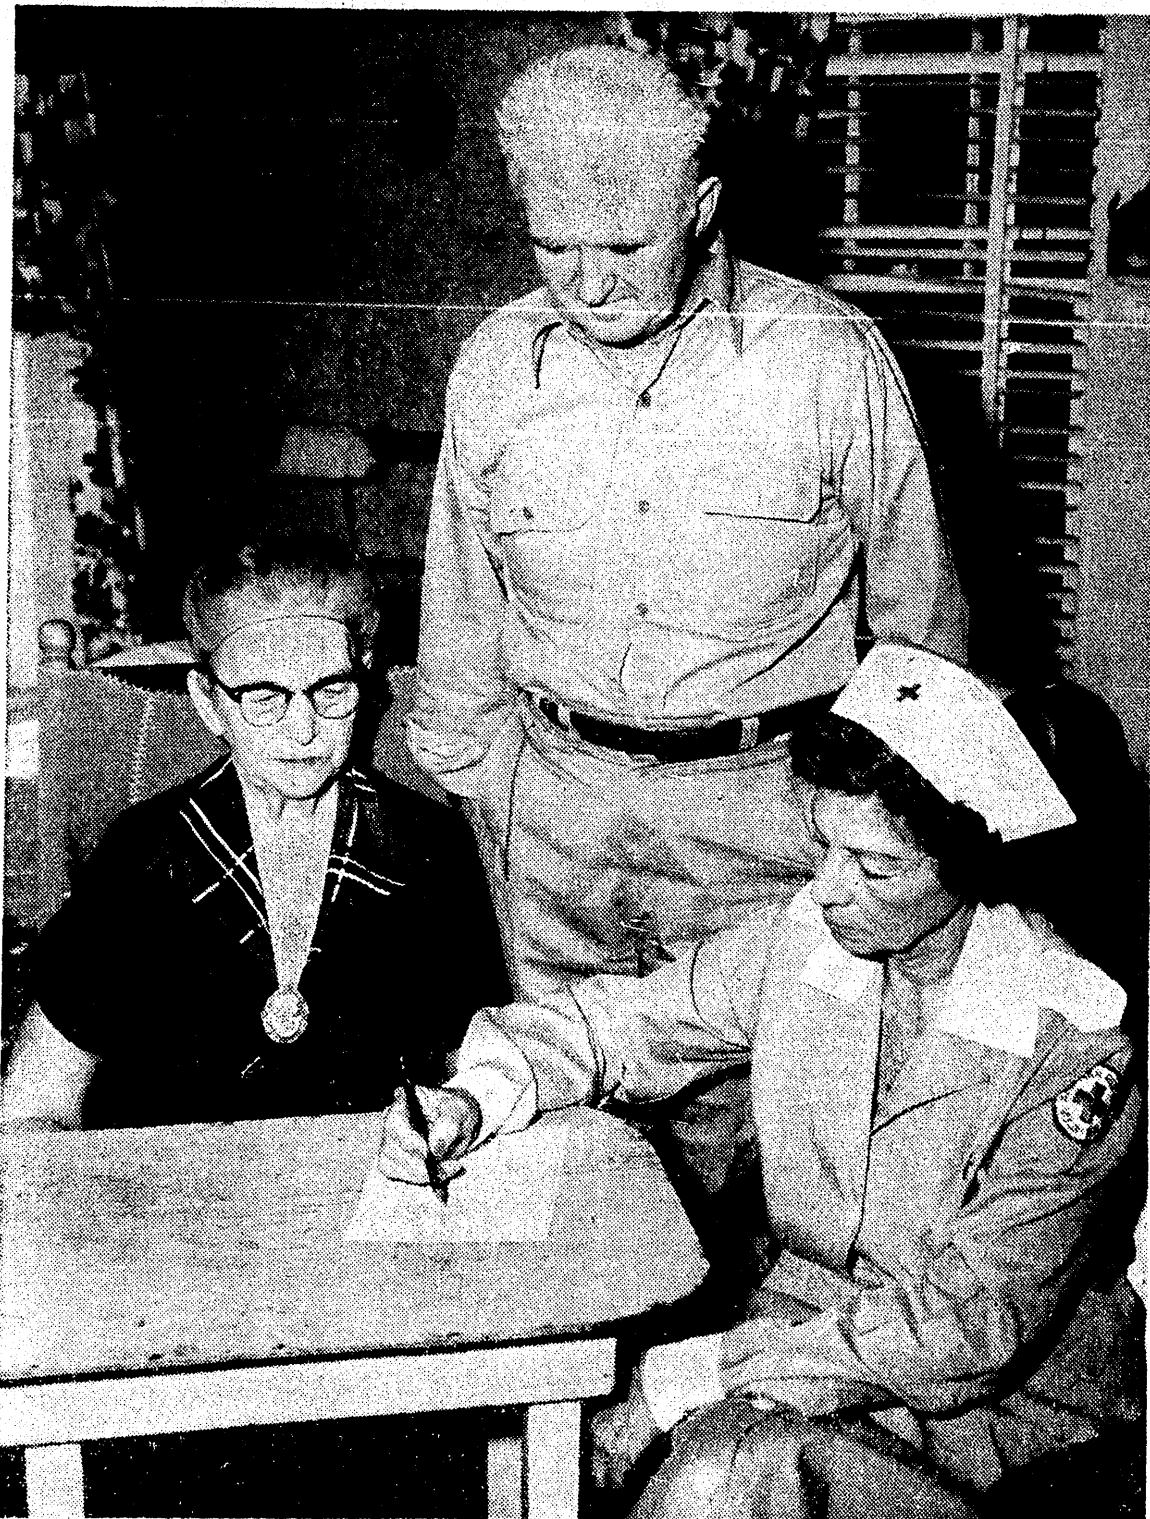

A 78-year-old man asked the Gray Ladies to shop for three sweetheart Valentines.

Another resident described her point of view in this way: "Lady, I had six children, always said when I reached old age, I was just going to sit and rock. And that's what I'm doing."

WAITING

Often, a Gray Lady may look up from writing a letter for one guest, to see an elderly man waiting, Bible in hand, to have a special portion read aloud.

The Gray Ladies do not criticize or attempt to change existing conditions. But they did talk Monroe's two representatives and senator into visiting some rest homes a few years back. And legislation then was enacted so fire extinguishers and sprinkler systems were ordered for rest homes in the state, revealed Mrs. Land.

FEATURES

"The home operators have been very receptive, and always seem glad for someone to come in and visit with the people there. It gives the guests someone else to talk with, and something to think about besides their illnesses," she added.

Recently the Gray Ladies, as a part of the American Red Cross, began the "Firewise" operation."

QUESTION

"What would you like the most to have," asked the Gray Ladies.

"A ride — just to go somewhere," was the overwhelming reply.

So the monthly Fireside program started . . . with a Christmas party at Red Cross headquarters. Local service clubs donated transportation.

One carload arrived outside the Red Cross building on S. Grand Street — but the elderly people refused to get out until they saw that "their Gray Lady" was waiting.

"It's amazing how much the work at the homes makes you love and care for these people. They become as close to you as members of your own family," Mrs. Strauss mentioned.

Just as in a family, different problems crop up.

One elderly gentleman refused to accept his present at the Fireside Christmas party.

"I can't take it. I'm not worthy. I haven't done anything for the Gray Ladies," he frowned. Gentle persuasion finally changed his mind.

NO BARRIER

Age is no barrier to romance. The Gray Ladies, who often shop for an apron, thread or some other item which an elderly guest has "saved up for," also bought a wedding gown.

The gentleman and lady met in the rest home, fell in love, and decided to wed.

"We don't often receive such requests," smiled Mrs. Strauss,

"but the Gray Ladies went shopping for the bride's dress and items for their apartment. They decided to set up housekeeping outside the home."

"The wedding took place in the convalescent home."

"Any time you can help your fellow man, it's worthwhile. There are no meetings for Gray Ladies, except the chairmen's meeting, no dues to pay, no expenses except the $4 for your uniform," commented Mrs. Land.

NEED VOLUNTEERS

Even so, the Gray Ladies are "desperately in need of volunteers."

Approximately 25 persons now belong, and should family needs interfere with visiting day, the elderly people in a rest home may not see "their" Gray Lady for a week or two.

"We all can't always get to the homes. If we had many volunteer members, there always would be enough people for the visits," a Gray Lady mentioned.

A new, brief orientation class for Gray Ladies starts in February. Requirements for a Gray Lady are: dependability, stabil-

Surplus View

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maybe the Food and Drug Administration, say capital political wags, has found a way to cure surplus farm production.

This is something that farmers, Congress and the Agriculture Department have failed to accomplish.

This reference to the Food and Drug Administration is being made in connection with the agency's recent actions against agricultural chemicals.

It knocked a lot of cranberries off the market because they were found to have been contaminated by a chemical weed killer that caused cancer in rats. Then it halted production and marketing of poultry fed a hormone designed to hasten weight gains. Next it issued an order greatly restricting the use of another weed killer chemical known as heptachlor.

These actions against agricultural chemicals, and hints of others to follow, have aroused farmers and farm circles as perhaps no other government move in recent years.

AT STAKE

At stake is the future of a long list of agricultural chemicals developed in recent years and given Agriculture Department blessing when used as prescribed on labels. They include chemical fertilizers, insecticides, weed killers, antibiotics, antiseptics, feed additives, fumigants, fungicides and preservatives.

Agriculture Department scientists estimate these chemicals contribute around 20 per cent to the level of farm production.

Wheels Speed Mail, Spare Weary Feet

By AUSTIN MILLER JR.
Staff Writer

The Post Office Department has discovered the wheel.

For years the postman was forced to stare in green-eyed envy as other deliverymen chugged nonchalantly down the street in their various vehicles, while he walked, and his feet hurt.

But this situation has been changed, almost overnight, by a gadgeteering masterpiece called the mailster. This queer-looking creature, although small, is virtually a complete truck. It is equipped with hydraulic brakes for all three of its wheels, and its nine-horsepower engine breezes along with never a flut-

ELECTRICAL

Its electrical system is the same as the one in your car — 12 volts. The mailster is equipped with turn signals and emergency blinkers, and can be completely enclosed for cold weather or left open for summer driving. Letters are kept in a compartment under the windshield, while the entire rear half of the vehicle provides storage for packages.

For a look at the mailster program in action, we go to the West Monroe Post Office. What is the reaction to the mailster here?

"We're very enthusiastic about the program in West Monroe," says postmaster Homer Roark. "We feel that it is one of the greatest steps yet."

ONE TRIP

One improvement that Roark points out is that the postman now takes all of the mail, including packages, on one trip. Before the mailster program was inaugurated, a special carrier was needed for parcel post delivery. The packages were stored in relay boxes — the boxes you used to see on street corners here and there — and the postman had to arrange his route to begin at one relay box and end at another. This, of course, called for a good deal of step-retracing. Now the postman simply loads both packages and letters into the mailster and delivers all of your mail on his regular run.

This time-saving aspect also applies to the outlying route. Previously, the carrier with a route on the edge of the city had to be driven to his starting point, deliver the mail on foot, and then be picked up and taken back to the post office. This presented obvious complications. Now, though, he simply drives out to his route in the mailster, makes his deliveries and drives back. No delays, no missed connections, no aching feet.

What of the financial aspects of the program? Each mailster costs $300; is it worth it?

"The program is definitely economically sound," says Roark. "Although the original intention of the mailster program was to relieve some of the carrier's burden, the expediting of delivery and the mileage gained just about write off the original cost."

DOGS

And then, of course, there is the dog situation. What effects has the mailster had on the classic battle between dog and postman?

"The mailster has relieved the situation," says Roark, "since the postman is now somewhat more protected. However, he may still be bitten when he gets out of the mailster, and this always presents a terrific public relations problem. All of the sympathy seems to be with the dog."

The West Monroe department still has one foot-carrier, who delivers mail to business areas where the mailster would be impractical. All other routes, however, have been mechanized.

How does the mailster affect the postman? "It certainly improves his disposition," says Roark. "You have to take into account that before we received the mailsters (in February, 1959) the carrier had the same duties as a packhorse. You can't expect a man to walk all day and not be beat at night."

D.A.R. And Patriotism

To the people of the United States the month of February is identified with that great American, George Washington, first president and father of our country. In more recent years February has also become identified with one of our greatest patriotic organizations — the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The memory of Washington, the dedicated and self-sacrificing patriot, deserves and receives the highest homage and respect of every true American. Because of its inspiring work in behalf of ennobling and devoted patriotism, the D.A.R. also is becoming enshrined in the minds and hearts of the people as a symbol of duty and loyalty to this great and humanitarian nation of ours.

Along with Washington, the D.A.R. firmly upholds religious conviction and faith in God.

In a convention message in 1959, Aileen W. Graves, president general of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, said in part:

"It is of considerable significance that our greatest patriots have been men of deep religious conviction. Our country was founded by sturdy, staunchly religious men and women, and most of our heritage has always brought into the foremost place the right man at the right time to lead our country in emergencies."

"Throughout the Revolutionary War, it is worthy of note that General Washington never wavered in his allegiance to God. On June 22, 1775, just before leaving for Philadelphia to take command of the continental army, he wrote to Martha, his wife: 'I go, fully trusting in that Providence which has been more bountiful to me than I deserve. . . . On September 8, 1775, from camp at Cambridge, the general sent a circular to his principal officers regarding a proposed attack on the British at Boston and included these words: 'The success of such an enterprise depends, I well know, upon the All-Wise Disposer of events, and it is not within the reach of human wisdom to foretell the issue.'"

Five years ago, the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, launched a movement to have February, birth month of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, proclaimed American history month, with a firm conviction that knowledge of country and pride and love of country go hand in hand.

Reports in the office of the historian general of the D.A.R. show that American history month was observed in all of the states in February 1957, 1958 and 1959. Governors of nearly all states, including Hawaii and the Panama Canal Zone, issued proclamations or similar designations proclaiming February as American history month.

Reports at national headquarters show increased interest in the study of American history in all states and overseas units in school activities, at all levels. Medals, prizes, certificates of award and scholarships by state societies of the D.A.R., chapters and individual members, have been awarded to outstanding students of American history through competitive examinations throughout the nation.

Knowledge of the United States presents a challenge to all loyal Americans and the study of its history a thrilling experience. The story of war and sacrifice that marks our history as the young nation — now a giant — goes with a record that stirs the heart and mind. There is never a dull moment in becoming familiar with the great story of your land and mine.

Mrs. Graves said: "It is the privilege of the Daughters of the American Revolution, as one of the objectives of the National Society, to perpetuate the memory and spirit of the men and women who achieved American independence."

In this patriotic work, the D.A.R. has achieved an outstanding accomplishment.

Rifle-Shooter Taxes

As a do-gooder, our federal government has got all the charitable organizations in this country backed completely off the board. Not only does it play Santa Claus to about 72 of the world's 82 or 83 nations but is a most generous Uncle Sam to the country's weekend private rifle shooters.

This is a surprise to most of us. We were aware that Uncle Sam buys guns and ammunition for the armed services, national guard and other military or semi-military institutions but didn't know he helps out with the ammunition for civilian, small-caliber rifle shooters who go out Sunday afternoons for a little noise and maybe a few shots at the road signs.

A long time ago, in a different world and almost in a different century, an item showed up in the federal budget for the first time.

The year—1903. The item—civilian rifle practice.

It has been in the budget ever since.

It started with a $2,500 appropriation. On page 468 of the 1961 air space budget, the army's national board for the promotion of rifle practice is down for $300,000.

This is in addition to the $1,350,635 worth of army ammunition the board will issue to several thousand civilian rifle clubs.

Possibly the program was sound in 1903, when justification was offered on the ground of building a strong militia. Today it is extremely questionable. The government spends plenty of money in providing ammunition for national guard units throughout the country.

The present expenditure is inexcusable unless, of course, one feels that the financing of pleasant Sunday recreation for members of civilian rifle clubs is a proper function of the federal government.

The army seems to feel so, as do the National Rifle Association, the small arms manufacturers and the rifle clubs.

When it comes to financing private recreation, the government might undertake to furnish top-quality golf balls for the hundreds of thousands of golfers who patronize municipal and private golf clubs every week. The ability to hit a straight golf shot might improve one's aim with military weapons if we engage in another war or another skirmish, such as the Korea "incident."

Thanks to the sturdy efforts of the national board for the promotion of rifle practice, the number of rifle clubs and rifle users is steadily increasing, with Uncle Sam helping to foot the bill.

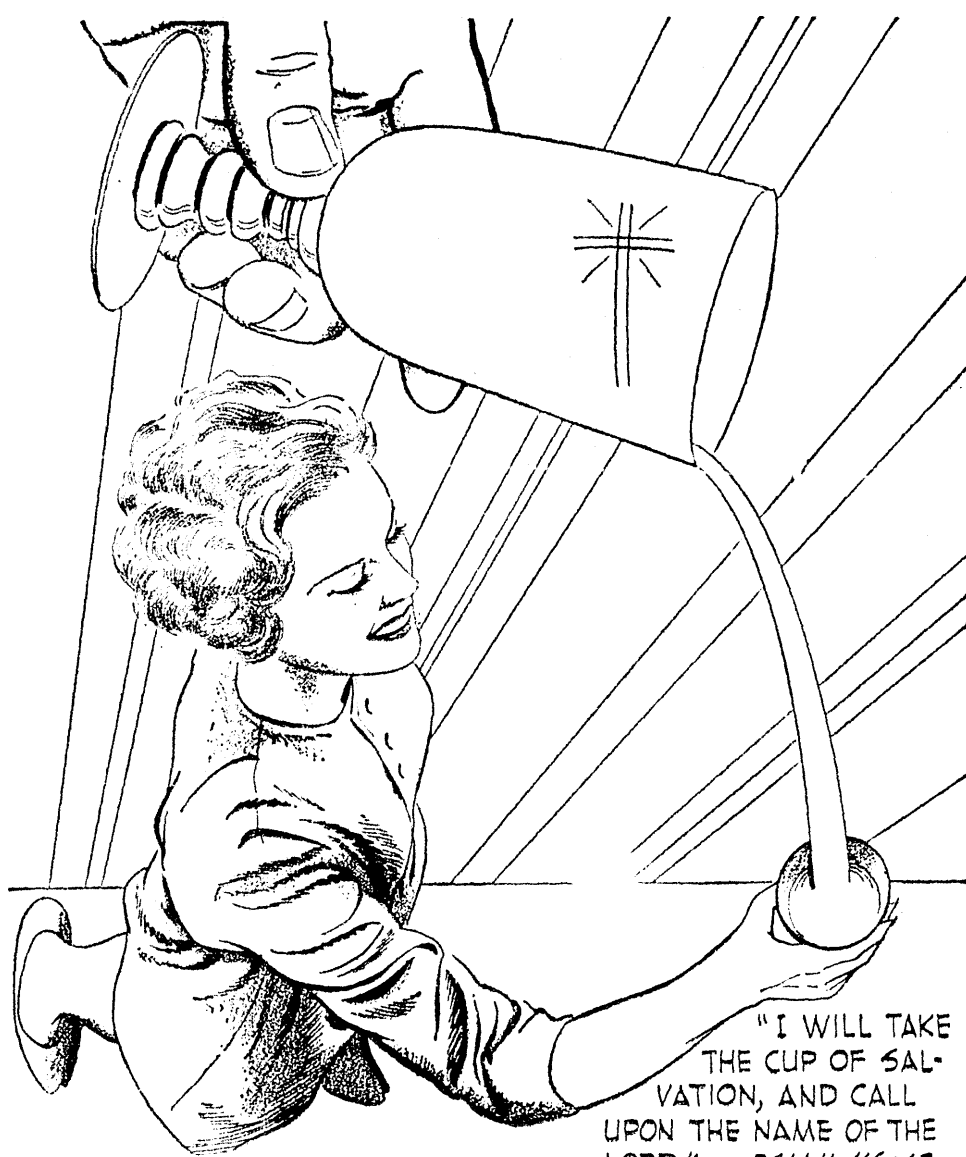

Think how nice it would be for fishermen if a national board for the promotion of bait casters could be organized and the federal government would furnish the bait.

As it says in the 1961 budget book, the board "continues to promote the American tradition of interest in small arms marksmanship." It provides assistance to 4,320 rifle clubs and schools with 249,429 members.

A national budget of more than $80 billion has been set for the coming fiscal year and even that is expected to be exceeded.

Louisiana's fifth district congressman, Otto E. Passman, who carries a sharp pruning knife and slashes around with it every chance he gets, has submitted figures to show that the national budget will cost Louisiana about $650 million and the fifth district about $60 million.

Pattern Of Candidates

Senators John Kennedy And Lyndon Johnson Are Placed In Lead For Democratic Nomination

We are different—very different. Our candidates must be widely popular. They cannot depend upon the mathematics of proportional representation to assist them. They cannot depend upon seniority to reach the top. They cannot even use murder and assassination to elevate themselves. They must be widely popular, first within each man's own party and finally among the people.

The Republican problem has solved itself. Richard Nixon is the only Republican candidate. He will be nominated. The Republican problem at the National Convention will be to find a vice president and curiously few candidates present themselves for that office.

The Democratic situation is different. It is now a race between Senator John Kennedy and Senator Lyndon Johnson. These two, of all the candidates, have emerged to the top. Most of the others who keep their names aglow are hoping that Kennedy and Johnson will become tied and that after many ballots, Stevenson or Stevenson will emerge as a compromise. Others are aspiring to the vice presidency. There are Democrats who favor Adlai Stevenson or Dean Acheson for secretary of state for which no one runs and from which a prudent man would seek escape, things being as they are.

Senators Kennedy and Johnson are not the two ends of a pole. Lyndon Johnson is, of course, regarded as the more conservative. He comes from Texas as did President Eisenhower. His experience in the Congress has been long: He was a member of the House of Representatives from 1937 to 1949 when he was elected to the Senate. Prior to being elected to the House of Representatives, he was secretary to Representative Richard M. Kleberg of Texas. This has given him a 25 year experience with Congress of which he is now the leader of the majority. His age is 51.

Senator John Fitzgerald Kennedy has also served in the House of Representatives for six years and has been in the Senate since 1953, giving him an experience in Congress of 13 years. He is 42 years old.

Neither Johnson nor Kennedy has had administrative experience but both have been very close to the operations of government. As a matter of fact, because of the peculiar condition that President Eisenhower has had to work with a Democratic Congress, the President had to depend greatly upon Lyndon Johnson to protect the administration's legislative program. In this President Eisenhower faced the same circumstance which so belabored the second half of President Hoover's administration, but with the difference that whereas the Democrats in the Hoover administration put party above country, Lyndon Johnson served his country first of all. Many Democrats have criticized Lyndon Johnson for this attitude, but it has served the country well in our present difficulties. A divided nation, while Soviet Russia is fighting us on all but the military fronts, could have had tragic consequences.

John Kennedy has a measure of Liberal support because of his closeness to certain labor elements, particularly Walter Reuther of the United Automobile Workers Union. Johnson will find support among Democratic regulars, among conservatives and among those Democrats who are not ready to vote for a Roman Catholic for President.

The latter issue is increasing in its sinister connotations, as much as everybody on all sides and in all parties seeks to fight down religious politics. Those who continue to keep the issue active are unjust to all the candidates. No man wants to be elected with the sneer of bigotry upon his record. Lyndon Johnson in his Brooklyn speech went out of his way to establish his opposition to bigotry, particularly anti-Catholic bigotry. John Kennedy said very cleverly at the Al Smith Memorial Dinner that he did not object to Nelson Rockefeller because he is a Protestant.

This issue will one day be settled by a Catholic being elected President. After all, Benjamin Disraeli, Lord Beaconsfield (1804-1881), was born a Jew and although a convert to the Anglican Church, never dissociated himself from his Jewishness. There have been several Jewish Premiers of France. In an age of religious enlightenment and tolerance, it is very difficult to understand why the issue of a man's religion should arise at all. In the present campaign, religious bigotry is presenting itself in its most ugly aspects. The literature on the subject is disgusting.

And this is where the canvass stands now.

Profits In Steel

Industry This Year Will Chalk Up Best Record In History

The steel industry will chalk up the highest profits in its entire history this year.

The companies will earn their spectacular profits WITHOUT any across-the-board hikes. Earnings will smash every record ever DESPITE wage boosts and freeze benefits granted in the recent steel contract.

Even today, it's a certainty that when the companies report their results for the first quarter's operations in the spring, they'll show profits at unprecedented peaks. It's a virtual certainty they'll repeat the performance in the second quarter.

For production and sales are at a roaring pace now, and the steel industry traditionally makes fat profits when its sales are high. In recent years, the industry has poured billions into the building of new, efficient plants and modern machinery and much low-cost steel is coming out of these new factories.

And while some slowing-down in the second half of the year would be logical after the fantastic boom of these months, experts right now are calculating that steel's profits this year may top $12 billion, far above any total ever attained before.

This is the outlook, I repeat—WITHOUT any across-the-board steel price rise this year. If prices are raised, the profits may be so high they'll embarrass the industry.

The more I dig into the terms of the steel wage settlement, the less basis I can see in the settlement terms for general price boosts in this period.

Consider, as one illustration, the basic 7-cent an hour wage increase granted by the companies effective Dec. 1, 1960, and again on Oct. 1, 1961—a penny more than the 6 cents the companies proposed in their "last offer" under the Taft-Hartley injunction.

A first key point is that the first cash wage hike won't be paid until Dec. 1—a full 11 months after the contract's effective date. Until then, the worker's gain is restricted to their take-home pay increase resulting from the companies taking over their insurance costs.

There's more to it than that, though—for the Dec. 1 date for the increase is later than any discussed during the negotiations. The union had asked that the increase be effective July 1; the companies had proposed in their "last offer" an effective date of Oct. 1.

What do the companies save by not having to pay the cash wage boost during October and November of this year?

According to Dept. of Labor economists, the saving is enough to finance the extra penny they granted over the 6 cents they offered for about 14 months—or until almost the end of the contract in mid-1962.

Since the companies said their "last offer" was non-inflationary, presumably this crux of the wage contract cannot be called inflationary either.

Or let's consider the dates for the cost-of-living adjustment—a maximum of 6 cents over the contract's life. The workers never will get the 6 cents, but assume they might and assume that prices rise sufficiently in 1960 and 1961 to dictate a cost-of-living adjustment of 3 cents in 1960 and another 3 cents in 1961.

PORTRAITS

By James J. Metcalfe

Pray For Hope

HOPE is our strongest tool in life . . . Stronger than faith itself . . . Or any other implement . . . That may adorn our shelf . . . So dead-end and so blind could be . . . The alley where we grope . . . Unless along the path of life . . . We always had some hope . . . It is a gift from God to us . . . While we are on this earth . . . Our inspiration constantly . . . To be of better worth . . . Without it we would walk with death . . . Despair, defeat and fear . . . And pass the sign, "Abandon hope . . . All you who enter here" . . . So let us pray to God that we . . . May keep our hope alive . . . And give His grace to reach the goal . . . For which our souls would strive.

Flower Fight On

Annual Battle Might Be Carried Into Presidential Voting

The annual fight on Capitol Hill has started up again over designating the National Flower and the battle of the posies could very well be carried on into the coming presidential campaign.

Firing the first gun in this year's behind-the-scenes skirmish is David Burpee, President of one of the Nation's largest mail order seed firms.

Burpee, who calls himself the "seed king," established beachheads outside both the House and Senate chambers last week and bombarded the Congressmen with his choice for the National flower—the marigold.

Unlike the American bald eagle which has been accepted since Colonial times on the Great Seal as the bird representative of the country, neither the marigold, nor any other flower for that matter, has ever been called the Nation's own.

Congress has been called upon from time to time since 1919 to designate one of several flowers native to the United States as the National Floral emblem. So far, Congress has failed to take any action and it's unlikely they'll do anything about it this session.

Their reluctance to accept any particular flower over another is understandable. Every state has its own flower ranging from Alabama's goldenrod to Wyoming's Indian paintbrush. For any Congressman to support anything but his own state's flower would be high unto political suicide.

The first recorded attempt in recent years to designate one particular posie as the National Floral Emblem was in May, 1919, when a resolution was presented to the 66th Congress calling for the Columbine to represent the country. Another resolution favoring the Mountain laurel was also sponsored that year.

The two flowers vied unsuccessfully with each other until 1944 when the dogwood came upon the scene as a contender for the title. In April, 1949, the rose made its first appearance in a joint resolution sponsored by a House member. The rose was sponsored again in 1955 and lead the field until the corn tassel was offered in 1957.

Burpee and his marigold nomination are relatively latecomers in the race but their presence has brought forth some new contenders such as the carnation and grass plant.

He was successful last year in arranging an informal flower debate in the Senate Caucus room during which four Congressmen argued for their choice for the National Floral emblem. Burpee, touting his own marigold, won an unofficial victory over the rose, corn tassel, carnation and grass plant.

According to Burpee the marigold is the logical choice because it is native to this country and can be grown anywhere in the Nation. He stresses the fact also that the marigold is not the national flower of any other country as is the rose which represents England, Honduras, Iran, and Luxembourg.

Burpee's argument against the rose because it is the floral emblem of other countries is similar to protests lodged during the founding days of this country against the Eagle. The eagle at the time was on the coat of arms of Spain, Russia, Poland and other countries.

On July 4, 1776, Congress set out to acquire a Great Seal for the new government and delegated Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Jefferson and John Adams as a committee of three to draw up a new design. Each submitted a different seal and one bearing the eagle was finally accepted on July 20, 1782 over the protests of Franklin.

Franklin favored the turkey as the national bird pointing out that the eagle is of bad moral character, steals its food from other birds, is usually vermin ridden and by nature a coward.

The Star Spangled Banner also came in for prolonged abuse before it was accepted as the National Anthem by Congress in 1831—40 years after it was first proposed. Some objected to its wide musical range, others claimed the tune was an English drinking society's theme song.

With Congress, eyeing the coming presidential race it's quite possible a rash of new contenders might crop up in the floral emblem battle to join likely favorite snipers.

For instance, some Republican Congressmen from California might propose the Golden Poppy on behalf of Vice President Nixon. Then there's the Trailing Arbutus of Massachusetts (Kennedy) and the Snowy Ladyslipper of Minnesota (Hubert H. Humphrey). The state of Texas might get into the act should Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson formally announce and there's always a chance for a dark horse like the mountain laurel of Connecticut (Rep. Chester Bowles.).

Defense Politics

Democrats, Republicans Obligated To Snipe At Each Other

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Congressman (D): "Mr. Secretary, how many ICBMs do we have on hand?"

Congressman (D): "Mr. Secretary, how many well-placed (Russian) ICBMs would it take to incapacitate the United States?"

These two back-to-back queries to Defense Secretary Thomas S. Gates, Jr., were probably the stand-out howlers of the open hearings of the House Committee on Space and Astronautics. Another Congressman (R.) asked a question about "that" bomb which our missiles would carry and another Congressman (R.) remarked that the Atlas missile had been operational "for several years."

This handful of questions is worth an exhibit. They were asked by lawmakers who are supposedly competent to criticize the Administration and to decide on how many billions should be allocated to individual programs. The queries present a picture that always shapes up in Washington at this time of year. Whenever Congress reassembles (and more so if the Congress is newly-chosen with many eager freshmen on hand), there are similar examples of where and why the American system is hurting in competition with the Communists. Perhaps there is nothing we can do about it (since nobody would favor a military dictatorship any time soon), but it helps to what trouble is.

The opposition party except for a few of its very best informed members, feels compelled to try to make the Administration look ignorant and stupid. The Administration feels compelled to answer back. Thus, Democrats accuse the President of being a budget-firster and of allowing the country to become a second-class military power. The President replies in a press conference that he knows more about national defense "than almost anybody else." Democrats snicker at this perfectly honest reply. They press the President's man, Defense Secretary Gates, to name some numbers—to show whether we are ahead, behind, or on a parity with Russia.

Mr. Gates, I am glad to say, did not answer the utterly foolish questions at the head of this column. He referred the question about "that" H-bomb to his science advisor, Dr. Herbert York, who replied innocently that he didn't know what the questioner was talking about. The questioner who thought that the Atlas has been "operational" for years, was told it became operational in September, 1959.

But how can Congressmen—and the American public for that matter—be educated in these matters? How can the President and his helpers give assurances as to national safety? Dare we get down to bare-boned facts? Should we expect General Eisenhower, of all persons, to hand over vital military information to the enemy in order to help himself, or his party in the political wars?

It never occurred to me how much information we do give away, and how foolish we are in so doing, until I read Oskar Morgenstern's "The Question of National Defense"—by far the best available book on the subject. Dr. Morgenstern says that the second-hand conflict in political-military science is least understood by those who refer to it as a "game." If anything, it is more like poker—containing bluff, false information, true information, and mixtures of all.

Plainly the Russians are far better equipped than we at this business. They never tell anything—except for effect. They do not hesitate to dissemble. The truth doesn't matter. Nor does human life. During the 1939 Russo-Finnish war, Stalin permitted huge losses of second-line troops and inferior weapons. He was practicing deception on a grand scale to make the Germans "complacent" about their Eastern front. Today, Khrushchev shows himself to be a master at timing the release of his military "information" if that's what it is. He rattles his missiles. He cuts his army. He is withholding—it is indicated—an announcement of a faster-than-ours nuclear submarine.

This is what we're up against. Congressmen should know it. The public should know it. Administration officials should know it. We should stop asking—and stop giving—vital military information.

Sabotage Fear In Crashes Made Many Nervous

By JOY MILLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

If you're the nervous type of plane passenger, the past few weeks may have been more unsettling than an air pocket.

Have recent reports of possible sabotage in two airline disasters made you look uneasily at travelers around you?

That grandmotherly soul sitting across the aisle. Is the click of her knitting needles covering the tick of a bomb some hopeful beneficiary tucked under skeins of wool in her cavernous bags?

Or that edgy fellow who checked in his luggage just ahead of you. You saw him slip a package inside her hatbox when she wasn't looking. Candy, no doubt — or maybe something else?

You dismiss your suspicions. Nobody is plotting to get grandmother's insurance. No inamorata is waiting for the jittery man to return from disposing of his wife. Nothing is likely to happen, you know — and yet two airline crashes in the past few months have raised the question of bomb plantings.

One plane crashed into the Gulf of Mexico last Nov. 16, taking 42 lives. Investigators are looking into possible connections between the tragedy and a man named Robert Vernon Spears, a heavily insured ex-convict who was supposed to have boarded the doomed craft but didn't.

And 34 died in the mysterious crash of a DCB near Bolivia, N. C., Jan. 6. Among the victims was a young New York lawyer, Julian Frank, who had nearly a million dollars worth of insurance.

Whatever the outcome of investigations of the two crashes, the FBI and other agencies, the problem of preventive steps has once more come into focus. How can you avert plane sabotage by people bent on dramatic suicide or mass murder for gain?

As far as accidents go, the airlines have an excellent safety record. The average death rate for the last few years, per 100 million passenger miles, is about 0.38 for domestic scheduled airplanes compared with 2.5 for automobiles.

But air crashes are far more spectacular, more costly in human lives per single accident — or plot.

CONCERNED

Airlines are concerned about the situation. A spokesman for the Federal Aviation Agency, which writes and enforces civil air regulations, says the problem is being studied from all angles. So far, however, a feasible plan has not been advanced for detecting bombs, and it seems just about impossible to check all baggage.

Inspecting every piece of luggage at every loading point isn't practical, even if airlines had enough personnel. Passengers would resent the delays, even the snooping.

For general checking, two frequent suggestions are to use gadgets which fluoroscope baggage, or examine it with magnetic devices.

The fluoroscope, though, would ruin any photographic film. Furthermore, it only supplies a shadow outline and couldn't detect bomb devices that hadn't been assembled.

Use a metal-detecting device, and it would sound alarms when it spotted innocent traveling clocks, electric shavers, irons. Even a thorough inspection of all luggage wouldn't necessarily hamper a determined psychopath, says one airline official.

"There are lots of possible ways around it. The bomb could be hidden in his clothing. Bags can be switched. Things like that."

All this doesn't mean that airlines aren't doing something about the threat, he adds. Employees at ticket counters, on the ramp, and in the hangars, are alerted for suspicious baggage, cargo, or people.

Trained security personnel of airlines have methods of detection which, understandably, they don't like to publicize.

The other day James Pyle, FAA deputy administrator, said it was not so much a problem of inspecting passengers' luggage as it was of checking their minds.

Air flight is just one of the ways in which now and then someone chooses to act out his aggressions or criminal urges.

On Nov. 1, 1955, an airliner exploded in flight over a sugarbeet field near Longmont, Colo., 11 minutes after taking off from Denver. It was the United States first commercial plane sabotage disaster.

Among the 44 killed was Daisie E. King. Her 23-year-old, crewcut son, John Gilbert Graham, had taken her to the airport, bought her $37,000 worth of flight insurance. Inside her suitcase he had slipped a bomb made of 25 sticks of dynamite, set to go off 90 minutes later.

Ironically, the insurance policy was invalid because Mrs. King hadn't signed.

Graham, who helped his mother in her drive-in restaurant, was married, with two children. His wife said he had told her, after reports the plane had been sabotaged, that "anybody that would do a thing like that would have to be completely out of their mind."

He refused an appeal after his conviction, asked to be executed as soon as possible. Before his death in Colorado's prison gas chamber, he told a minister he hated his mother. He felt she hadn't loved him because she had put him in a welfare home to be raised after the death of his father.

As a means of suicide, planting a bomb aboard an airliner is not always effective. But it worked for a 62-year-old retired jeweler of North Hollywood, Calif., named Saul F. Binstock.

In the summer of 1957 he hurled 7,500 feet to his death in California's Mojave Desert. The CAB said he dynamited himself out of the plane. The blast ripped a 40-foot hole in the aircraft, but 15 others aboard were unhurt in the emergency landing. His wife was beneficiary of $125,000 in flight insurance.

It didn't work for the Alfred del Valle in 1953. His packaged bomb exploded just after it was removed from a Mexican airliner at Mazatlan. Three airport employees were killed.

Del Valle, a middle-aged Hermosillo, Mex., banker, confessed planting the bomb so relatives could collect insurance. In any event, the plan wouldn't have worked: His luggage accidentally had been loaded aboard a different plane from the one he took. He received a 20-year sentence, but the next year he took poison in a Mexican penal colony. That time, he succeeded in suicide.

In another bungled job, nobody got hurt. John Henry Grant of Los Angeles took his wife and two children to the airport, in April 1950, insured them for $25,000, and took tender leave.

As luggage was being loaded aboard the plane, the bomb inside the Grant's suitcase began smoking. Grant grabbed the suitcase and tried to run. His sentence: one to 20 years for attempted murder.

Sabotage doesn't always mean disaster.

In 1952, a bomb exploded in the luggage compartment of a plane bound from Mexico City to Oaxaca. Air rushed in through a huge hole just above the wing; the plane wavered and plunged downward.

Skilfully, the pilot righted the crippled craft, brought it to a safe landing. Of 20 persons aboard seven had been hired to work in a new tourist court outside Oaxaca. It seemed unusual to send servants by air instead of bus, even more interesting that the seven had been insured for more than $200,000. Investigation uncovered two men back of the plot—they got 30 years in prison.

A couple of years earlier, a similar explosion tore holes in a plane 32 aboard. It was brought safely flying to Paris from London with back to London. The saboteurs were never found—consequently their motive remains unknown.

Equally obscure is the back ground on a crash of a sabotaged plane en route from Hong Kong to Indonesia in 1955. Sixteen persons including eight Chinese Communist officials were killed. British police issued a murder conspiracy warrant against a Chinese man who never returned to Hong Kong.

Cupid, not cupiditas, triggered what is believed to be the first plane bomb plot.

In May, 1949, a Philippines inter-island plane carrying 13 exploded over Lamon Bay. Police detective work, starting with a mystery package bearing a nonexistent destination, uncovered Crispin Verso, a theater employee in love with the boss' wife. Verso paid two ex-convicts to help him put the bomb on the plane carrying Fructoso Zuzara, movie chain head. Mrs. Zuzara denied knowing anything of the plot, or of being in love with Verso, but she paid his trial expenses anyway. The three men were sentenced to death.

Far off in Canada, the Philippine tragedy set J. Albert Guay to thinking. He was a dapper, 32-year-old Quebec jewelry salesman with a blonde, teen-age mistress in a love nest and a wife who had just made a scene about it.

Guay talked his wife Rita, 28, and the mother of their daughter, into a visit to Baie Comeau. He bought her a roundtrip ticket, but thrifflily paid for one-way insurance, 50 cents for $10,000.

On Sept. 9, 1949, the plane carrying Mrs. Guay and 22 others, including three top Kennecott Copper executives from New York, crashed 40 miles from Quebec. Investigators found evidence of an explosion in the baggage compartment.

The trial eventually led to Guay and two confederates: a half-paralyzed watchmaker who had made the time bomb; Guay, "to clear some stumps," and the watchmaker's sister, who had delivered the package to the plane thinking, she said, it contained a statue. The three were hanged.

Shortly before he died on the gallows, Guay boasted to guards: "At least I die famous."

How does anyone guard against that?

POPULAR

"FUNGULI - FUNGULA." Beloved Italian Melodics. Armando Foresio and L'Orchestra Di Napoli. Kapp KL-1166 (LP). KS-3050 (Stereo). Armando Foresio interprets the melodies in this album with true Neapolitan ardor, bringing to the listener the sound of his people — the ballads, the popular songs and, of course, the magnificent operas which have enthralled millions. So for the stay-at-home traveler, settle back and close your eyes and let Maestro Foresio take you on a Roman Holiday. This album is another of Kapp's series of "The World In Music." The sound is good and the stereo effect is above average.

"MARK MURPHY'S HIP PARADE." Arrangements and conduction by Bill Holman. Capitol T1299 (LP). ST1299 (Stereo). Mark Murphy might be called a jazz singer, or a natural balladier, or a number of other things—all good. It's actually pretty hard to catalogue his easy, swing style, for it's simply a natural music style. Mark's approach to a song has already gained him cheers from all sides: critics speak highly of his performances; people who've heard him in clubs and in his first Capitol album, "The Start of Something," are building a strong network of Murphy fans. Some of the finest jazz musicians work with Mark in this number after each tune on the album jacket so you can identify each artist.

"DAVID HILL." David Hill with Orchestra directed by Richard Wolfe. Kapp KL-1143 (LP). KS-3031 (Stereo). To David Hill, music is not so much a profession as an addiction. Capable of presenting most any type song, his choice is folk music — the medium through which he finds true self-expression. Although he received some formal training at the Juilliard School of Music, his com will find this a very fine album for their collection.

CLASSICAL

The Berlin Municipal Opera Presents — highlights from Offenbach's "Tales of Hoffman" and Humperdinck's "Hansel and Gretel." Chorus and orchestra conducted by Wolfgang Martin. Telefunken TC8028 (LP). The musical performance of these two highlights is superb. For the price of $1.98 this is a much better value than some of the more expensive versions. Technically the sound is excellent and the surface noise is none.

"THE MAGIC BOW." Michael Rabin and The Hollywood Bowl Symphony Orchestra conducted by Felix Slatkin. Capitol SP8510 (Stereo). PS10 (LP). Favorite short pieces of the solo violinist's repertory are heard in this album in their most powerful form performed by a very gifted young violinist, Michael Rabin. "The Magic Bow" is an extraordinary demonstration of the art of ensemble between soloist and conductor. Works by Kreisler, Massenet, Paganini, Rimsky-Korsakov and others in this album indicates Rabin's versatility.

The New York City Ballet presents Bizet: Symphony in C and Gounod: Symphony No. 1 in D Major. The New York City Ballet Orchestra conducted by Robert Irving. Kapp KC-9039S. Here are two classic ballets which are performed regularly in the repertory of the New York City Ballet. Symphony in C was first performed by the ballet in 1948 and the Gounod Symphony was first seen in January, 1953. The musical performance is excellent and the stereo gives you the best seat in the theater.

TWO WEEKS IN ANOTHER TOWN. By Irwin Shaw. Random House. $4.95.

It begins picturesquely with a farewell at Orly Airport. Jack Andrus, middle-aged, American, and NATO employee, says goodbye to his French wife Helene and their two young children. It's an uneasy parting, his boss Morrison, according to Helene, really disapproves of this two weeks leave, why is Delaney who waited so long to get in touch now so urgent? On the plane there is one more bothersome moment: In a letter from Julia, his first wife, he reads that their college son is threatening to marry on no money, and is acting, furthermore, like a wild-eyed radical.

Delaney meets him at the airport. Jack earns $12,000 a year from the government, Delaney has offered $5,000 just for half a month for help on a film he is producing, a film that's falling apart. Jack as James Royal was once a mighty movie star, and one of the few Hollywood men who could talk back to the great Delaney; maybe with his encouragement the aging movie maestro may recover some of his lost magic.

But then we step into a hive of complications personified by Veronica, mistress of the neurotic Bresnah but susceptible to Jack's charm; Holt, oil-rich backer of Delaney projects; Barzelli, luscious actress who is rival to Delaney's wife; Carlotta, summoned up out of the past; Stiles, drunken actor; a brilliant French newsmag.

Coincidence plays a disproportionately heavy role. There are lively and no doubt naturalistic scenes of the habits of Americans living in Rome, and to sharpen your interest the threat of violence, though it sometimes seems spurious, hangs over these many pages.

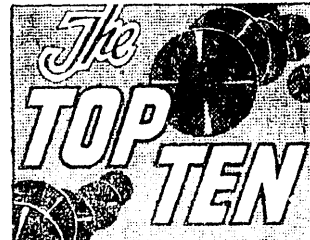

Shaw comes ardently to the defense of youth and its free ways. It's a worthy theme developed in a setting vividly described. But it is still not so good a novel as we have every right to expect from an author whose past accomplishments include "The Young Lions." We identify Shaw as a ground breaker and trail blazer; but this isn't pioneering, it's supinely digging in. "A readable popular novel," praise to some authors, is little credit to this one.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Several very interesting new books in the field of fiction are awaiting the patrons of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. "Wilder Stone" is the title of a new novel, written by John Leggett. This is Mr. Leggett's first novel and the book has been widely acclaimed by the reviewers. It is the story of an average American, who at first seems hopelessly lost, but who finds within himself the way to regeneration. H. E. Bates is an English novelist of note. His latest book is called "The Watercress Girl." It is a series of short stories, all set in the world of childhood, but definitely written for adults. "False Scent" by Ngaio Marsh is a mystery story with a setting in the theatrical world. It is exciting and interesting. Erle Stanley Gardner turns out his mystery stories so fast that it is hard to keep up with them. His latest is called "The Case of the Waylaid Wolf" and it follows the usual Perry Mason theme. Van Wyck Mason is outstanding in the field of international intrigue. His latest title is

1. RUNNING BEAR, John Preston.
2. WHY, Frankie Avalon.
3. EL PASO, Marty Robbins.
4. WAY DOWN YONDER IN NEW ORLEANS, Freddy Cannon.
5. THE BIG HURT, Toni Fisher.
6. TEEN ANGEL, Mark Dinning.
7. PRETTY BLUE EYES, Steve Lawrence.
8. YOU'VE GOT WHAT IT TAKES, Mary Johnson.
9. GO JIMMY GO, Jimmy Clanton.
10. IT'S TIME TO CRY, Paul Anka.

Our Writings In Review Are Being Okayed

LITERATURE AND THE AMERICAN TRADITION. By Leon Howard. Doubleday. $4.50.

What's the connection between us and our country and our writing? Do our novels and poems bear us out politically, ideologically, spiritually, or veer off at irrelevant tangents?

Howard traces our writing from early days, when it was the diaries of newcomers, or religious tracts of the argumentative, if not downright quarrelsome, Puritans and Pilgrims, to the exciting present of Faulkner and Hemingway, Frost, Williams and Stevens.

He unerringly picks "Moby Dick" as the first novel to "bring a broad cultural heritage to focus within a single individual's capacity for realization." But he goes on to say that, to some extent, this just happened to be the case with this particular piece of fiction. It was not deliberately planned, it came out of no solid substantial ground, it was unconscious.

And this in effect places it in the fictional mainstream. We have never been far removed, creatively, from the spontaneous and the individual. Very astutely Howard associates our novels with the Declaration of Independence. It was drawn up, to generalize, not by the mind but by the heart, it was not reasoned out but dreamt up. And the government which followed it by more than a decade shared this characteristic of the experimental rather than the speculative, the expedient in place of the inspired. We shall observe this in Poe, Whitman, Faulkner.

Through all the social challenges like the depression of the 1930s, writers have maintained this personal independence. It is a kind of free-wheeling, of defiance, a hands off attitude.

Perhaps a few of the obscure names could have been omitted. On the other hand, there is no Nathaniel West, only a phrase for Sarah Orne Jewett, and little over a page for Emily Dickinson who, however, like Melville, tended to require more of writers than an idiosyncratic knack for observation. But these are minor in this bold systematization of the American creative pattern. Howard calls our persistent individual creative power "tacit" instead of rational, and sees in it a strength comparable to the country's strength. In a recent book on our country, Father Bruckberger took something of the same view of democracy. Neither man asks whether this literary or social lack of a philosophical content, this absence of a sort of intellectual bone-work, is not a weakness.

Books

Secret Mission to Bangkok. It is another Colonel North novel and will be eagerly received by those who have read previous ones of this type. An interesting collection of short stories is "The Wayward Wife" by Alberto Moravia. A most humorous novel is "The Hamilton Club" by Alexander Rose. This is the account of a group of ladies to break into one of the few exclusive men's clubs still left in the world. "The Hamilton Club." It will make diverting light reading for men and women.

Marcia Davenport is one of the best of current day writers. She always brings a depth of background to anything she writes. Her latest novel is called "The Constant Image" and deals with a winter in Milan and the love affair of an American writer and a member of the Milanese aristocracy. It is a book which everyone will want to read and we predict a great success for it.

Men will especially enjoy "No Room in the Ark" by Alan Moorehead. This is an account of the world of wild animals in Africa. It is written after the author made four journeys to Africa and he knows what he is talking about. His power of description is excellent and I am sure that many readers will enjoy this book. A discerning new novel, dealing with the period of the American Revolution is "Enough Good Men" by Charles Mercer. It gives us an excellent picture of what the struggle meant to the people who took part in it, and we see how what a vision of liberty means to many men.

There is a variety of material in a factual nature waiting for the readers at the Ouachita Parish Public Library. "The Lands and Peoples of the Living Bible" by Bernard R. Youngman is a beautiful book and will have wide use. Another book of a religious nature is that of "The Gospel According to Thomas." It is a reprint from a recently discovered manuscript and will interest scholars of the Bible. "A Social Program for Older People" by Jerome Kaplan will be most helpful to all who work with making their lives interesting and happy. "A Chronology of the United Nations" by W. H. Chamberlain contains much factual information about this body.

Books dealing with the subject of salesmanship are always popular with our patrons. The latest one is called "How to Outsell the Best Salesman" and was written by William W. Frank and Charles L. Lapp. It contains a great deal of worthwhile information. In the field of literature a recent addition is "The Satires and Epistles of Horace." It demands scholarly reading, but will interest many people. A very unusual book is "The Ten Pains of Death" by Gavin Maxwell. This is an account of the people of present day Sicily. The author is angry at the abuses under which the people live and has painted an extraordinarily vivid picture of the land and the people. An unusual new book is "Seaports and People of Europe" by Addie Clark Harding, which gives a great deal of background information about the harbors and ports of Europe. Many of the books mentioned above have been gifts to the library and I would like to remind you again, how much we need them since we are working on a book collection for the Anna Meyer Branch. If you have good books which you do not need, please remember the library.

Among the new additions this week are a number of new books for young adults. "Shadow Over the Back Court" by Matt Christopher is an absorbing basketball story. "Assignment in Ankara" by Lucile McDonald is an unusual career story for girls. "Mission in Mexico" by J. R. Williams will appeal to boys and girls too. "The Moon Car" by Hermann Hesse is a factual book which will interest everyone who is keen about the world of space.

Franklin Letters History Treasury

THE PAPERS OF BENJAMIN FRANKLIN. Vol. 1, January 6, 1703 through December 31, 1734. Leonard W. Labaree, editor. Yale. $7.50.

From Franklin's birth in 1706, and his first verses in his early teens, to his establishment in Philadelphia and the successful launching of "Poor Richard's Almanack," this begins a Franklin edition as near to complete as possible, with an uncounted number of volumes to follow.

"This edition will present the full text of every document of Franklin's career, signed or unsigned, that we can locate and establish to our satisfaction to have been written by Franklin or by Franklin with others," we read in the introduction.

There are more than 100 items here, though they are culled from his least productive years, the 15 or 20 when he was apprenticed to his brother James in Boston, ventured bravely on some rash political essays after the fashion of his imprisoned brother, and was just finding his way in Philadelphia.

Not that he does not already know the rules for writing.

ing, though he realizes it "so much easier to offer rules than to practise them." Claiming no accomplishment is more necessary than "writing well," he shows how to marshal arguments, would omit all unnecessary words, would write only what is useful, warns against assuming that readers know very much, and praises "that Gentleman, who would use no Word in his Works that was not well understood by his Cookmaid."

Cooks were better educated then, maybe, for Franklin did not hesitate in his own short paragraphs to quote the Latin poet, Ulysses in Latin of course, and to regret that his printer's font had no type that allowed him to quote Greek, too.

But for all his learning, there was the basic common sense. He wrote the language of the man of the street. He could redeem erudition with a salty humor that our meeker age is apt to condemn as vulgar.

Not that he does not already know the rules for writing.

John Fulton Short He Paints-Fights Bulls

By LOUIS NEVIN
SEVILLA, Spain, (AP) — A New Jersey boy is working hard to break into the big time bullfighting this season. And he started a new mode in bullfight painting to pay his way.

John Fulton Short, 27-year-old, ex-GI from Ocean City, N. J., fought in Spain last season as an apprentice matador under the name of John Fulton "El Yankee."

He had five apprentice fights with three-year-old bulls and picador horse lancers in Spain last season and one in Morocco. He also appeared in two benefit bull festivals in the Sevilla area, one of the top arenas in Spain.

Experts say Short shows more promise than any American hopeful since Sidney Franklin, the Brooklyn matador.

IN TRAINING NOW

Short is training hard on ranches around this capital of Andalusia for the coming season in April. He hopes to obtain his doctorate as matador of the big bulls toward the end of the season.

When he's not out with the cape and muleta he's hard at work at his easel in the studio apartment he rents in the heart of this ancient city.

Short seems as good with the brushes as he is with the muleta. Art critics say he has brought a breath of fresh air to the traditional romanticized style of treating bullfighting. Short's style is neo-realistic.

He has done about 20 paintings a year since arriving in Spain in 1956 and sells about half of them at an average of $200 each. This covers his basic needs.

At present he's working on a series of six gouache paintings to illustrate the poem "Lament for the Death of a Bullfighter" by Federico Garcia Lorca.

A British publishing firm has already contracted for their publication and distribution. "The proceeds of this should give me more free time to devote to bullfighting," Short says.

Short was first attracted to bullfighting in Mexico. After completing three years of study at the Museum College of Art in Philadelphia, Pa., he studied for a year on a scholarship at the Allende Institute in San Miguel Allende, Mexico.

He started studying the art of bullfighting then. The next year, 1953, he was drafted into the Army but was assigned to a Texas post not far from the border. He was able to slip over to Mexico occasionally for fights.

On leaving the service, he came to Spain, homeland of brave bulls.

Last year was his most successful season but Short is handicapped by having an "apoderado" or manager with little influence in the world of toreros. It has been the difficulty most non-Spanish bullfighters have had to face.

The good apoderados don't want to waste their time with them because 99 times out of 100 they develop into nothing more than curiosities.

But John has style and flair for the fiesta brava. He has promises for nearly 20 novilladas this season. He hopes to show enough art and promise to get another and better manager who in turn should be able to get him more and better fights.

"Then I can really show what I'm worth."

A Forgotten Corner Seen

The Breakfast War, by Rupert Furneaux (Crowell); Plevna, an obscure Bulgarian town, was a focus of world attention for four months of 1877 while an out-numbered Turkish army held it against repeated Russian attacks. This siege was the main event of the last great conflict between Great and Crescent, and the Russians won. The war was most notable because it was the first extensively covered by the foreign press. The reporters took their notes on the battlefield, often under fire, and then rode up to 200 miles on horseback to file their dispatches. The book illuminates a forgotten corner of history.

City Recreation

The annual report of the Monroe Recreation Department gives a hearty "thank you" to various individuals and organizations for their contributions in making 1959 the biggest year yet in recreational operations of the city, but it's very apparent the saturation point has been reached, or, more correctly, is near rupture.

The report doesn't say so, but it's evident either more facilities must be provided or Monroe hits a recreational recession.

"We hope that we will be able to give you a bigger and better recreation program in the future and we ask your cooperation in all our endeavors," says George Riser, chairman of the 20-man (it includes two women) recreation board, in the report's introductory.

Optimistic is the report that the city council has purchased 30 acres of ground in a southern section of the city to be used as a future recreation site. It is a hope that this site, adjoining 40 other acres owned by the city school board and possible site for a new city high school, will soon be equipped with a community center, swimming pool, ball fields, tennis courts and various playground equipment. The location is in the vicinity of Plum and South Twelfth streets.

But any further advancement in the program apparently will depend entirely on a bond election. Such has failed in the past, but last year more than 2,000 signatures appeared on a petition asking the city fathers to call a bond election to try to put across the necessary program.

Don't look for such a bid before the voters soon, at least not until after the city elections for mayor and commissioners in May. Only the past week the city was granted a loan from the federal government to pay expenses for preliminary planning of the city's needs. If the voters approve the ultimate plans at a bond election, then the government loan will be repaid interest free. Should the plans be rejected by the voters, that will be the end of the federal loan.

"Recreation is just something the people have got to have," says Jack Hesketh, recreation director. "But we have gone as far as we can go with what we have. It's up to our people now if our recreation program keeps pace with a growing city."

Anybody without the capabilities of Jack Hesketh would have long ago brought a halt to recreation advancement as we have it today with such inadequate facilities. Anyone else would probably have been content to let a skimpy program rock along for a very few, but Hesketh has long believed in recreation for everybody and has added hours to his own working schedule to see that the best is available for the most. In sports alone right now he is supervising play of 102 basketball teams—that's 510 boys and girls in starting lineups alone of games each week. Even more are playing. These figures are exclusive of the regular high school teams of the Twin Cities.

Sports provide just a small part of the recreation program, but it's sports that this department is most familiar with. Here are some figures from the annual report on the sports side of the ledger that includes figures for both white and colored programs:

Softball, 646 games before 68,200 spectators; basketball, 701 games, 40,550 spectators; Little League baseball, 289 games, 28,900 in attendance; touch football, 59 games, 5,700 fans; and Dixie League baseball, 50 games, 5,000 attendance.

Plans to expand Little League have stalled and a proposed third league won't operate this year for the simple reason of no facilities. However, a new playing field for Dixie League will, in all probability, be made ready for boys of this baseball age on that 30-acre tract already mentioned.

Prep All-Americans

Congratulations, Mickey Cox! The 226-pound Neville High football tackle, already acclaimed all-state and with an athletic scholarship to LSU tucked away, today is named a first string tackle on the National High School All-America football squad. All-America Mickey should be a focus of interest at the Neville football banquet tomorrow night.

Delhi's Ken Newton, another all-state and another LSU enlistee, also joins Cox on the All-America squad announced by Mose Simms, chairman of the football committee for the sponsoring Wigwam Wisemen of America. Newton was named on the sixth team. Cox and Newton thus join such as Neville's guard Leland Sims, Ferriday's center Max Fugler, and Tallulah's Danny Neumann who have been high in All-America selections in the last few years.

La-Ark Plans

Plans for a second season of operation for the La-Ark Baseball League, an amateur organization of baseball teams in Louisiana and Arkansas, will develop when Ed Head, nationally known baseball figure and president of the league, meets with club leaders at the Morehouse parish courthouse in Bastrop this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Crossett, Ark., and Dubach, Oak Grove, Bastrop, West Monroe, and Monroe in Louisiana, the charter members of Head's circuit, are expected back, and the league also entertains expansion with the possibility of growing to eight or ten teams.

With The Golfers

Bayou DeSiard Country Club will host the Louisiana Junior Amateur Tournament here June 27-28-29, reports John W. Waters Jr., corresponding secretary of the Louisiana State Golf Association, following the association's mid-winter conference at Alexandria.

At the same time Palmetto Country Club at Benton was selected as site of the annual Louisiana State Amateur Championship meet on June 16-17-18-19.

Bossier Beats Forest, 50-48

SHREVEPORT, La. (Special) — Triple-A powerhouse Bossier knocked class B standout Forest to win the championship of the Fair Park Tournament here last night. The loss was the first in 32 games for Forest while Bossier pushed its record to 31-3. Cecil Upshaw, 6-6 center, scored 16 points to lead Bossier while all-state candidate Larry Butler put in 16 for the losers.

Forest defeated Springhill, 47-36, and Bossier downed Coushatta, 67-59, in the tournament semifinals. Butler got 20 points to pace Forest's victory over Springhill.

Coushatta edged Springhill, 48-46, in the consolation game.

Holly Ridge Boys Take Meet Title

HOLLY RIDGE, La. (Special) — The Holly Ridge boys won their own tournament here last night when they downed Winnfield, 50-48, in the final game. Newellton girls topped Lake Providence, 37-34, in the other final contest.

Alvin Russell paced the winning boys with 16 points while Smith was high for Winnfield and the game with 20 markers.

Betty Johnson scored 28 points for Lake Providence in a losing effort, while Harper was high for winning Newellton with 19. Johnson had scored 45 points in an earlier semi-final game against the Winnfield girls.

The Holly Ridge boys gained the finals by defeating Rayville 52-39, while Winnfield was topping Epps 69-67.

Newellton's girls went into the finals with a 49-27 victory over Start. Lake Providence beat Winnfield 54-29 in the semi finals.

The following boys were named to the all tournament team: Overby, Lake Providence; Hawsey, Montecello; Albritton, Holly Ridge; Guinn, Epps; Smith, Winnfield.

On the girls all tournament team were: Harper, Newellton; Johnson, Lake Providence; Fortenberry, Lake Providence; Smith, Newellton; Maxwell, Winnfield; Clement, Lake Providence.

Sportsmanship trophies were presented to Delhi boys, and the Start girls.

Neville, Smith Capture Titles At Sterlington

STERLINGTON, La. (Special)

— Smith girls and Neville boys were winners in the A. L. Smith Jr. High School basketball tournament here last night.

Sterlington's girls defeated West Monroe 35-16, to take tournament honors, while Neville was topping the hometown Sterlington boys 47-35 in the other final contest.

Roy Bryant paced Sterlington boys' effort with 11 points, while Howard was high for winning Neville with 15 tallies.

Sherry Smith got 13 points for the winning girls, while Gate was tops with six for the losers.

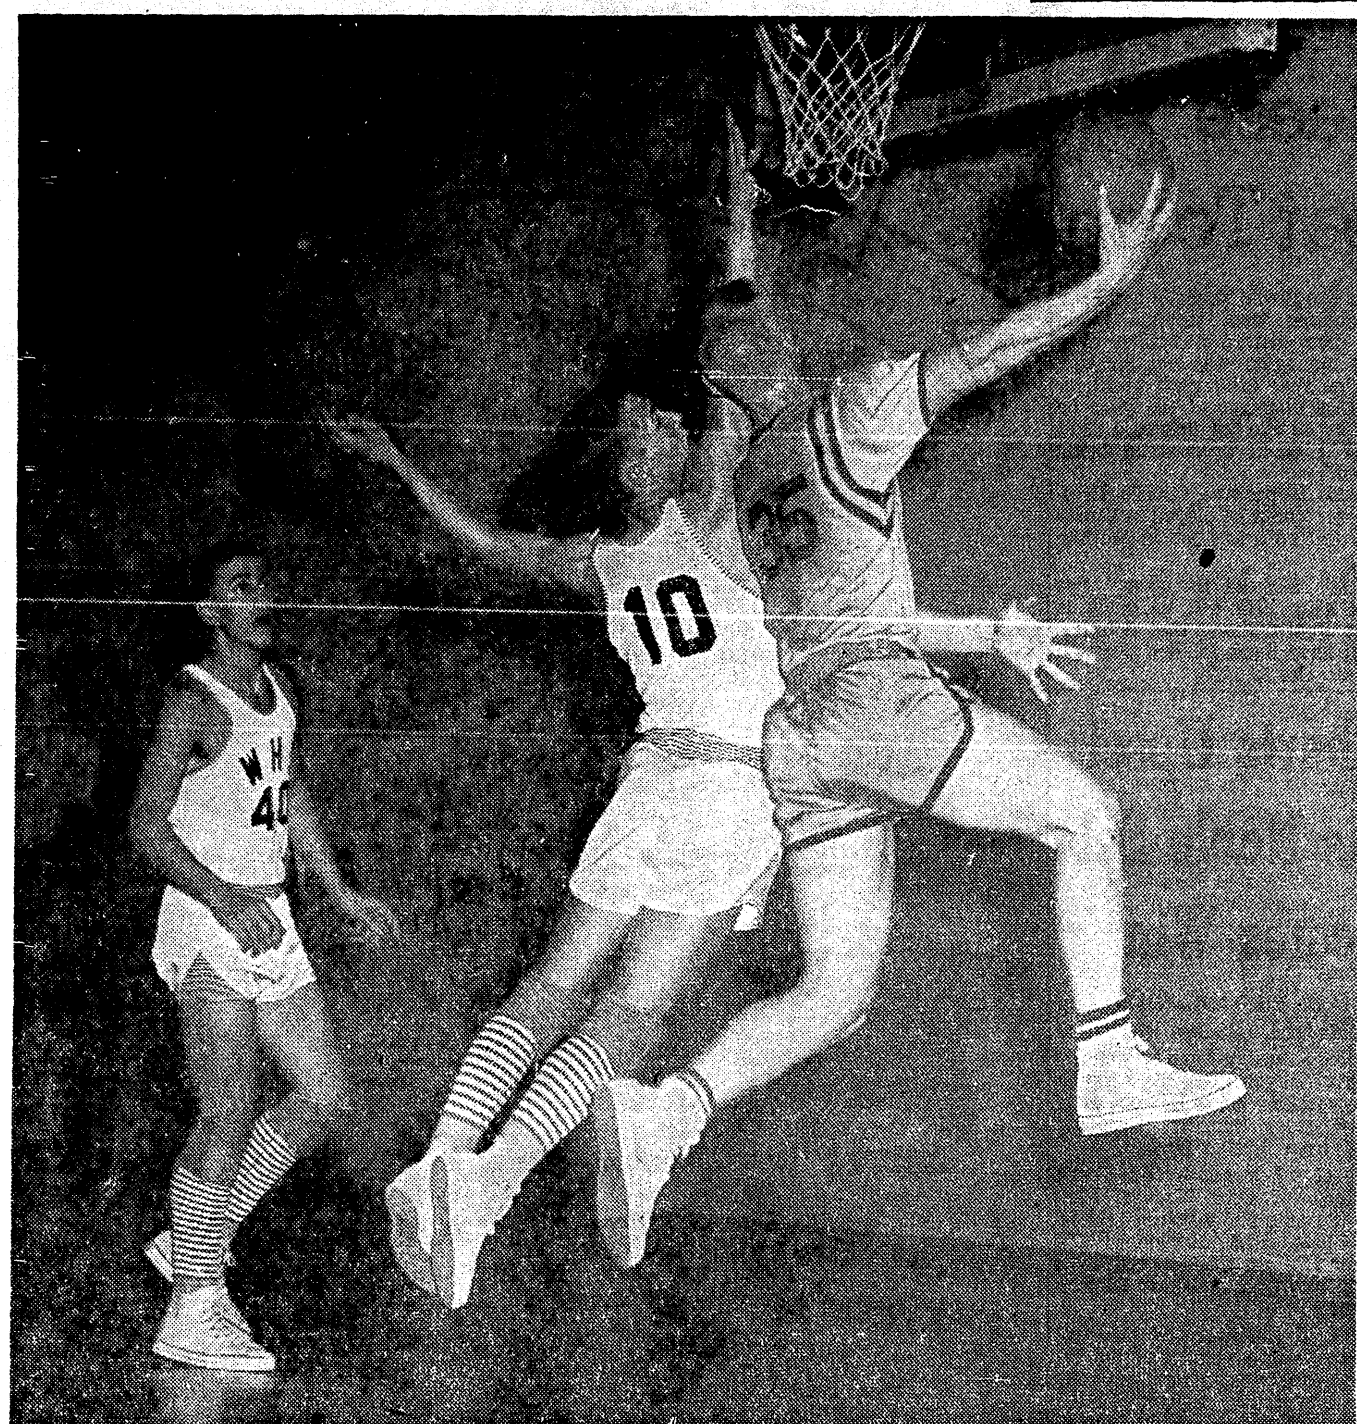

Earlier in the day Calhoun nipped Neville, 40-39, in the semifinals to get a shot at the Irish who whipped Grayson, 49-42.

Sims dropped in the winning bucket for Calhoun in the final seconds and took scoring honors with 25 points.

Neville led most of the game through the third quarter but the Chiefs knotted the score in the fourth and went on to pull it out. Dooley Haddad was high for Neville with 13 counters.

Grayson, now 33-5 for the season, assumed a 16-8 lead over the Irish after one quarter and held a three-point spread at the half before the Irish found the range.

Embanato was high with 15

Reb Girls Rout Neville Lasses

By JIM CALHOUN
Staff Sports Writer

Calhoun's Chieftains, proving the third time that a single point can be a charm, staged a furious second-half comeback here Saturday night to squeeze out a 48-47 decision over St. Matthew's to win the West Monroe Invitational Basketball Tournament. The West Monroe girls smashed Neville, 73-51, in the other championship game.

The home-standing Rebel boys followed the hot foul shooting of Roy Lee Scroggins in beating Winnsboro, 55-51, to grab top honors in the losers' bracket. Calhoun, which had beaten West Monroe, 45-44, and Neville, 40-39, in previous one-point victories, came from 15 points behind in the half after Jim streaked to an apparently commanding lead.

Lanky Sam Marsala sent St. Matthew's into a 34-19 advantage on a jump shot with 5:30 to play in the third stanza. Moments later Coach Jerry Lovett sent his Chieftains into a full court press and the long haul to the top began.

Spike Smith sacked two field goals and four foul shots and his teammates pitched in five more charity shots as Calhoun pulled to within five points of the lead at the third quarter turn.

Scottie Sims, held in check much of the game by the blanket guarding of Charley Biggar, hit three big fielders as the Chiefs narrowed the count to 44-42 with 2:30 remaining. Smith then stole a pass, and drove in for the tying two-pointer.

Sims followed with a field goal and Ronnie Griggs added two gift tosses. Marsala dropped in a foul toss and Buddy Embanato hit a jump shot with 13 seconds to play, making the score 48-47.

Griggs missed a foul shot in the final furious action and the Irish took the ball out of bounds with two seconds to play. Embanato barely got off a shot after the horn but it was no good.

The victory boosted Calhoun's chart to 34-3 for the year while St. Matthew's suffered its 6th defeat in 42 games.

Sims was the game's top scorer with 16 points while Smith contributed 14. Embanato notched 14 for the Irish and John Varino pushed in 13.

Earlier in the day Calhoun nipped Neville, 40-39, in the semifinals to get a shot at the Irish who whipped Grayson, 49-42.

Sims dropped in the winning bucket for Calhoun in the final seconds and took scoring honors with 25 points.

Neville led most of the game through the third quarter but the Chiefs knotted the score in the fourth and went on to pull it out. Dooley Haddad was high for Neville with 13 counters.

Grayson, now 33-5 for the season, assumed a 16-8 lead over the Irish after one quarter and held a three-point spread at the half before the Irish found the range.

BEHIND MIKE

Ol' Diz, Reese
Make Great Team

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—When Pee Wee Reese met Dizzy Dean shortly after he had been engaged to team up with the Hall of Fame pitcher to telecast the game of the week on CBS next season, he moaned:

"Gee, Diz, we should make a great team. I can't read."

Reese and Dean are here for the New York baseball writers' dinner. Dean arrived in cowboy regalia, including boots and a 10-gallon hat. His weight has zoomed to 280 pounds.

"It's going to be a pleasure working with a real big leaguer like Reese," enthused the former St. Louis Cardinal. "I understand he's a 10-handicap in golf. I'm an 8-handicap. We ought to make a lot of money this summer." Actually both shoot in the low 70s.

Reese still isn't sure he's going to enjoy his new job but he's going to give it a whirl. If, after his two-year contract has expired, he still feels he doesn't belong, he can always return to baseball, where he spent 22 years.

The Dodgers, whom he left last fall after 20 years, have assured him they will welcome him back to the organization any time he wishes to return.

"I hated to leave baseball," said Pee Wee. "I enjoyed the association with other players. I enjoyed going to spring training. I enjoyed being a coach last year. I took this job because it meant that I'd be able to spend more time with my family. I missed seeing my daughter grow up. Barbara is 16 now. I didn't want the same thing to happen with my son, Mark. He'll be 3 this week."

As a telecaster, Reese will do a great deal of weekend traveling but he'll be home from Monday through Thursday.

The discussion got around to managing. Reese could have had the Dodger job, succeeding Charlie Dressen in 1954. He turned it down and Walter Alston got the job.

"I never wanted to be a manager," he said. "It's too nerve-racking. Just seeing what fellows like Birdie Tebbetts and Fred Hutchinson went through made me more determined than ever that managing was not for me.

"One year after each was honored as manager of the year he was booted like the dickens. I don't think I could ever stand being booted."

Reese is positive Charlie Dressen, for whom he played in Brooklyn, will do a fine job in Milwaukee.

"He's a great manager," Pee Wee said. "He will be tough to beat. He'll shake up that club, too. He'll have those fellows going all out or else."

Charts Upset
As Noble Sel
Scores Win

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Noble Sel, a Florida-bred, stunned the form players Saturday when he won the $53,250 Bougainvillea Turf Handicap, speeding home in front of 12 other grass runners, including eight from foreign lands.

Nobel Sel, owned by Dr. Frank J. Recio of Coral Gables, Fla., ran the mile and 3-16th in 1:56 4-5 and beat Mrs. Herbert Helf's Tudor Era, an English-bred, by a neck in a tight finish at Hialeah Park.

Mrs. T. Christopher's Amerigo, another English-bred and the favorite with Hialeah's crowd of 23,939, was third, a head behind Tudor Era and a neck in front of Mrs. W. E. Leach's Sinton.

Nobel Sel, son of Nobel Hero out of Sealbuhl, is a 4-year-old gelding and was bred by Carl G. Rose at Ocala, Fla.

He paid $34.50, $13.00 and $5.00. Tudor Era returned $9.80 and $3.70. Amerigo was $2.70 and just got into the money after a strong stretch run, coming from sixth after they turned for home.

Other finishers in order were One-Eyed King, Muscadell, Mar-10-2nd, King Grail, Rally, Amos 2nd, Ekaba, Mr. Punch 2nd and Pointer.

Pointer was first out of the gate but Tudor Era soon took over the lead and was still in front after a mile. Noble Sel, seventh at the start, had moved up to second and took the lead coming into the stretch.

"He ran a real big race for me," said jockey George Gibb. "I stayed to that horse that was in front (Tudor Era) and he carried me out a little on the turn for home but I started to whip my horse all around the bend from the far turn and all through the stretch."

First Landing
Takes Santa
Anita Purse

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Favored First Landing beat back the challenge of Bagdad in the drive to the wire Saturday and survived a claim of foul to capture the $166,400 Santa Anita Maternity.

Jockey Eddie Arcaro pushed the 4-year-old pride of Kentucky to win the $80,400 net purse by half a length over Bagdad, with Limmad third.

The official result of the mile and one-quarter thriller was delayed several minutes when jockey Don Pierce on Limmad lodged a claim of foul on Arcaro.

It was disallowed.

The time was a fast 2:00 3-5 for the struggle, unrec'd before 20, 087 fans.

Bagdad, owned by Howard Keck and ridden by Willie Shoemaker, was the second best choice in the field. He beat Limmad, owned by L. I. Nelson, by 2 1/2 lengths.

Pierce claimed Arcaro bore over him approaching the 16th pole. But a hasty glance at the race film indicated that it was Shoemaker who did the bettering.

Tommy Lee, 1959 Kentucky Derby winner, faded after building up a healthy lead in the early stages of the race and finished a well-beaten seventh.

Seniors' Margin

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—Plodding through rain, sunshine and wind, big Charles Farlow of Greensboro, N.C., carded a 2-over-par 74 for his third round in the PGA Seniors Golf Tournament Saturday to retain the two stroke lead he held at the halfway point. His three round total is 212.

The runner-up at the three-quarter point in the 72-hole tournament over the 6,609 yards National PGA Course, was a different man, however, Charles Sheppard of Highland Park, Ill., who was second after the first two rounds with 140 to Farlow's 138, soared to a big 78 Saturday for a 218 total.

Dick Metz of New Orleans jumped into the runner-up spot by carding a 73 to add to his 141 for a 214 total.

NEWTON ON 6TH TEAM

Cox First Team Selection
On Prep All-America Team

OKLAHOMA CITY (Special) — Representing the cream of the nation's prep grid talent, the thirteenth annual National High School All-America Football Team was announced today (January 31) by J. C. Mose Simms, chairman of the Football Committee of the Wigwag.

Wisemen of America. This benevolent sports organization of Oklahoma City originated the Prep All-America Football Team with the naming of its first mythical nation-wide selection after the 1946 season.

The 1959 All-America Team drew 6,006 nominations, an increase of 950 over last year's total of 5,056. Assisting in the selection were 6,426 gridiron critics, including sports writers from 1,190 daily newspapers and 360 weekly and semi-weekly publications; broadcasters from 1,879 radio stations and 615 TV telecasters.

Ballots also were cast by 629 high school coaches, 237 prep football officials, 301 prep teachers and superintendents and sports writers on 168 high school newspapers. Fifteen pro football talent scouts and 372 college gridiron talent hunters also participated in the poll.

With slightly more than 15,000 high schools in the United States and Hawaii fielding football squads in 1959, it is easily understandable why every section of the nation is well represented on the first seven All-America teams.

In addition, many top players in the various sections had been relegated to the honorable mention list, even though a lot of them undoubtedly will rise to the top as collegians and further bestow credit on their home towns and high school elevens.

Because of the bulkiness of the field of 6,006 nominations for the 1959 All-America, it was again decided to select seven teams. Simms was quick to point out, however, that there is very little difference between players named to the first team and those placed on the second.

And once again, players who landed on the seven teams, as well as those listed in the honorable mention group, will be eligible to play in the twelfth annual All-America Prep Football Classic, scheduled for Baton Rouge, La., the third week in August.

They must, of course, meet the requirements of the selecting committee as well as the East-West Prep Game coaches. In addition, they must be high school graduates or seniors.

Although the choices for the first team stretched from Rochester, N.Y., in the northeast to Stockton, Calif., on the West Coast, the southland landed most of the places on the '59 team. Dixie's Deep South representatives, four in number, hail from Memphis, Tenn., Fayette County, Ala., Monroe, La., and Natchez, Miss. The southeast landed two places with grid stars from Atlanta, Ga., and Asheville, N.C., while the south-west cooped another pair with boys from Norman, Okla., and Dallas, Texas.

Mose admitted that the tabulation of this year's ballots had difficulty in lining up the backfield. While there was an abundance of good backs, the voting was so predominantly in favor of several outstanding quarterbacks that four of them landed positions, three as halfbacks, on the mythical selection.

One of these was Jay Wilkinson, son of Coach Bob Wilkinson of Oklahoma University. Named honorary captain of the 1959 Prep All-America, Jay, normally a quarterback, was assigned to the left halfback position on the national selection.

To share "Back-of-the-Year" honors, Jay wound up a brilliant career at Norman, Okla., High School by quarterbacking his team to the state finals. With young Wilkinson calling the signals, Norman, ran up a three-year record of 8-2 for 1957, 8-1-1 for 1958 and 9-1 in 1959. He rushed for 742 yards and 12 touchdowns in 1959, passed for 448 yards and six TDs and was regarded also as a fine defensive back. A basketball regular as well as a track star and a national delegate to Boys' State, Jay says he will not attend Oklahoma U. to play for his dad. Instead, he likely will go to Stanford or the University of Illinois.

Mickey Cox of Neville High, Monroe, La., and Larry Plotrowski of Central High, Bay City, Mich., ran off with highest honors at the tackle.

Cox played a leading role in helping his team win the Louisiana state championship. A tremendous star on defense, Mickey was greatly responsible for holding opposing elevens to only three touchdowns against the first team during the tough 1959 schedule.

On offense, this 6-foot-2, 226-pound youngster proved fast enough to pull out of the line and lead 14th interference on a quarterback rollout play.

His success in this department is emphasized by the fact that his play resulted 15 yards per try the past season.

Jerry Byrd of the Shreveport Journal, summed up Mickey Cox this way: "He's the best prep lineman I've run across. He's aggressive, has great speed and I'll predict he'll be a collegiate great." Cox is reported to be headed for LSU.

Pontastic Don Caum of Central Dauphin High, Harrisburg, Pa., landed the quarterback spot, though here the opposition was exceptionally stiff. This 17-year-old 5-foot-11 155-pounder scored 31 touchdowns in three seasons and had a total offensive record for that period of 2,639 yards gained, 213 points scored and 18 touchdowns via his passes. So great has the fame of this youngster spread throughout the land that he has received scholarship offers from 70-odd schools including Notre Dame, most of the Big Ten institutions, Army, N.A.V.Y., Penn State and Pitt.

Besides Wilkinson, who was named honorary captain of the 1959 All-America selection, two year-other quarterbacks were chosen. Jerry Rhome of Sunset High, Dallas, Texas, and Bob Garibaldi of Alonzo Stagg High, Stockton, Calif.

Because of his fine running from the pass-option play, as well as his excellent punting and good defensive play, Rhome was selected to a halfback post, though he played quarterback at Sunset High. Jerry completed 95 passes out of 170 tries for 19 touchdowns and a yardage yield of 1,633. He had a 33.9 yard punting average and booted 27 of 29 extra points from placement.

Another who played quarterback but was shifted to half on the All-America was Garibaldi. Generally regarded as the outstanding prep back in California, this young man was equally as good on defense as offense and had a kicking average of 40 yards. He intercepted eight passes and passed for 448 yards and six TDs during the past two seasons as Amos Alonzo Stagg Senior High won 16, lost 2 and tied one game. During those two years he completed 123 of 233 passes for 2,200 yards and 23 touchdowns, scored 48 points and rushed for 400 yards. His play was so outstanding that Bob was named to the California All-State team both in 1958 and 1959.

The final outstanding member of the Dream Team's backfield is Perry Lee Dunn, 18-year-old senior 4-year letterman — an almost-unheard-of feat in the tough Big Eight Conference of Natchez, Miss., High. He established a new total offense mark for Natchez High with 2,609 yards gained and also set a new school record by tossing 14 touchdowns passes. His 53 per cent efficiency mark — 57 completions in 98 attempts — also was tops for Natchez High's football teams. In sparking the Mississippi team to its first unbeaten season in modern times, Perry passed for 14 touchdowns and carried the ball over the goal-line himself on 20 occasions. Swamped with collegiate offers, Dunn probably will wind up at Ole Miss.

8-C Tournament Set For Ogden

WINNSBORO, La. (Special) — The District 8-C basketball tournament will be held at the Ogden High School gym February 12 and 13.

According to Ogden principal, Barney E. Cottingham, games will get underway at 2 o'clock p.m. Friday, February 12, and will include both boys and girls teams from Ogden, Fort Necessity, Enterprise, Monterey, Waterproof, St. Joseph and Central of Book.

Fort Necessity boys, are defending Class C state champions and the Ogden girls were second in the Class C state finals last year.

ATLANTA LEFT OUT

Oakland Lands Final Berth
In New Pro Football Loop

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, Tex., (AP) — The American Football League filled its eighth franchise with Oakland, Calif., Saturday and looked toward its first season and a battle for the entertainment dollar with the long-established National Football League in four cities.

In a switch, the league picked Oakland to wind up its first annual meeting that struggled through five days.

Atlanta had fought Oakland for the last remaining spot but finally the California city came through mostly because of Barron Hilton, owner of the Los Angeles franchise.

Oakland, it was disclosed led on the first ballot, but the vote switched until at one time Atlanta was reportedly ahead 5-2. Friday night there was a caucus, as Hilton, who had gone home several days before, returned to speak for Oakland. He said he wanted that city because it would provide a natural rivalry for his Los Angeles club.

The club owners and Commissioner Joe Foss would not disclose the vote on the four ballots that followed the first, but Lamar Hunt, Dallas owner and president of the league, said it was close. Foss merely announced that Oakland had been picked unanimously. A unanimous vote was necessary.

Oakland has Kezar Stadium and Candlestick Park in San Francisco, just across the bay, available, but Foss said the league had asked the California city to obtain a stadium in Oakland if possible. There are two that may be available, Foss said, but he was not certain that Oakland could get either for the first year.

Foss said the Oakland City Council had decided to put the question of building a stadium on the ballot in June. Oakland was picked because it would furnish natural rivalry for Los Angeles, was better from the geographical standpoint—furnishing a better balance—and make travel more convenient for the clubs, Foss said. He also stressed that it was considered more economical and also because of the tremendous interest in pro football in the Oakland - San Francisco area.

Peresich Ups
Lead In Miss.
Tournament

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — Giles Peresich of Biloxi Saturday increased his lead in the Sunbelt Country Club mid - winter golf tournament to five strokes.

Peresich turned in a 75 on the 6,219-yard par 72 course for a 144 total. Ronnie Webb of Gulfport was runner up at 149 after his 77.

High winds and a wet course continued to plague the field. Peresich, who had a 69 Friday, and Webb, who had an opening round of 72, remained the only ones to break or equal par.

Some 143 entries are registered from eight states in the amateur tournament. The final 18 holes will be played Monday for all divisions.

Dudley Geigerman of New Orleans, defending seniors champion led the seniors field by five strokes with a 77-78-155. J. J. Baker of Biloxi was second with an 81-79-169.

Little Boys

Officials Meet

WINNSBORO, La. (Special) — The Winnsboro Little Boys Baseball organization will meet in the Louisiana Power and Light Co. office here Monday, February 1, at 7:30 p.m. for the purpose of electing officers for the coming year.

According to Hebert Davis, Little Boys Baseball president, plans will be formulated at this meeting for the 1960 baseball season.

All persons interested in little boys and little boys baseball are urged to attend this important meeting.

Oakland will be considered as competition for the San Francisco club of the NFL. Other NFL clubs that will be competing with the AFL clubs will be in New York, Dallas and Los Angeles.

Oakland will be in the Western Division of the league with Denver, Los Angeles and Dallas. The Eastern Division will have Houston, Boston, Buffalo and New York.

NBA Verdict

CHARLESTON, W.Va., (AP) — The immediate post president of the National Boxing Assn. said Saturday he thought Sugar Ray Robinson's defeat justified the NBA's decision not to recognize him as middleweight champion.

Dr. Ward Wylie of Mullens, now a member of the NBA Board of directors, said Robinson is over the hump, and neither he nor Paul Pender, who recently beat him, can be considered up to other fighters in their weight class.

"Either Gene Fullmer or Carmen Basilio could beat Robinson or Pender," Wylie said. "I think Robinson's showing proved that the NBA was right in recognizing Fullmer as the champion."

Pender won the title for New York and Massachusetts, the two states which didn't go along with the NBA in conferring it on Fullmer.

Basilio lately became another critic of NBA judgment. He called the organization a bunch of phonies.

Wylie argued in its defense that it had made possible Basilio's

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—Plodding through rain, sunshine and wind, big Charles Farlow of Greensboro, N.C., carded a 2-over-par 74 for his third round in the PGA Seniors Golf Tournament Saturday to retain the two stroke lead he held at the halfway point. His three round total is 212.

CAGE STATISTICS

Doyle Leading Indian Scorer

Captains are supposed to lead their teams and Northeast Captain Ronald Doyle is doing just that.

The senior Indian forward from Calvert City, Kentucky, is pacing the Northeast basketball team in total points and average per game, according to statistics released by the college athletic office yesterday.

Doyle has 236 points after 17 games, the only Tribesman to go over the 200 mark. Sophomore guard Lanny Johnson is second with 197 points and guard and forward Fred Bradley has 152. No other Indian is over the 100 mark.

Doyle's 13.8 per game average is tops with Johnson behind at 11.5 and Bradley 8.9.

Freshman center Robert Cook is the club's top rebounder with 140. Doyle is second with 124 and pulled down 92.

Johnson and Bradley lead in assists with eight each.

Barnes is the club's top marksman with a percentage of 44 on field goal attempts. Johnson has the top free throw percentage among the regulars with 69 but reserve guard Stewart Toms has hit on 75 per cent of his charity attempts and another sub, Malcolm George, who is a Quitman product like Toms, has been perfect at the foul line with seven baskets in seven tries.

Here are the season statistics compiled by statisticians John Tannehill and Benny Hollis:

Player	G	RB	A	PF	FG	FT	RE%	FT%	TP	Av.
Doyle	17	85	8	40	55	42	35	53	132	8.8
Bradley	17	124	3	65	82	72	39	68	236	13.8

Soviet Officials Arrive For Tour

HAROLD CLINGER-MANN, regional representative of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, will be in Monroe Wednesday to consult with local realtors and other business leaders according to F. O. Seymour, president of the Monroe-West Monroe Board of Realtors, Inc. He will address a meeting of the officers and directors of the realtors' organization at a meeting at the Paragon Club.

KANSAS STATE SEN. Paul Wunsch (R-Kingman) were a perplexed expression while presenting a statement to a delayed press conference. The statement said that he would not announce yesterday, Kansas Day, whether or not he would seek the Republican nomination for governor. Wunsch was expected to announce for the race before the conference was delayed an hour and a half. (AP Wirephoto)

NEW YORK (AP) — A dozen high-ranking Soviet officials arrived in spectacular fashion Friday for a 24-day tour, briefed in advance by another recent visitor to America, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Leading the delegation was D.S. Polyansky, a member of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet, who told reporters at Idlewild Airport: "We have come here with open heart and good friendly intentions. Before our departure N. Khrushchev spoke very warmly of his visit to the U.S.A., the meetings he had to the big plane made three passes here, and asked us to give him best regards and convey his best wishes to the American people."

Broadcasting Heads Giving Advice To FCC

By JACK ADAMS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Two top broadcasting executives gave conflicting advice to the Federal Communications Commission Friday on what the government's role should be in radio and TV programming.

President Frank Stanton of Columbia Broadcasting System said that if FCC is to intrude on program content, as he put it, "then we turn our backs on democracy."

But President Robert F. Hurleigh of Mutual Broadcasting System, operating exclusively in radio, said the commission should fix program standards for radio stations so as to reach what he termed insensitive operations in that field.

Hurleigh, who submitted a written statement in lieu of a personal appearance, said that if FCC has doubts about its authority to do this, it should go to Congress and ask for precise enabling legislation.

Mutual's position differed sharply from that of most industry spokesmen, who have been telling FCC's hearings on possible program controls that it has no powers of program censorship and should not seek them.

Public Meetings To Be Held Soon On City Planning

A series of public meetings to air Monroe's soon-to-be-completed Master Plan has been scheduled, planner George Parsons announced yesterday.

The meetings, to be conducted by the Monroe-Ouachita Regional Planning Commission, will be held as follows:

February 15, 7:30 p.m. — Lexington School.

February 16, 7:30 p.m. — Jefferson Junior High School.

February 17, 7:30 p.m. — Carroll High School.

February 18, 7:30 p.m. — Ouachita Parish High School.

Parsons explained that the purpose of the meetings was to give citizens a chance to review the Master Plan and then make comment.

Details of the Master Plan will be explained at the meetings, along with the presentation of maps and drawings designed during the past several months.

Eight phases comprise the Master Plan and maps and studies will be presented depicting each phase, according to Parsons.

"We could not live without Radio Free Europe!"

A quote in a letter received from Poland! The best possible proof that RADIO FREE EUROPE is doing its job... telling the truth to combat Communist lies!

The truth hurts the Reds. It loosens their hold on the oppressed countries of East Europe. Exposes their lies. Keeps them worried. Helps the Free World.

But RFE is a private organization, and your dollars are needed. They pay for transmitter equipment, supplies, announcers. Your dollars help build a first line of defense for freedom—behind the Iron Curtain itself! So send your dollars today! Give the truth to 76 million people behind the Iron Curtain. Their arrival at Idlewild in a giant TU114 prop jet airliner provided an hour of tense drama at the field before the Soviet pilot finally set her down safely.

Airport crash equipment stood by until the plane was down.

At first it was assumed the pilot was having trouble with the airliner. But later it appeared that he was familiarizing himself with the landing terrain before coming in. Air Force Capt. George M. Matecko, aboard the Soviet plane, said later: "It's a big aircraft and you don't wheel it around like a C47."

The flight from Moscow took 11 hours, 54 minutes.

On the ground, the visiting Russians found 11 pickets waiting, with derogatory signs and huts of "Red murderers." The pickets described themselves as Hungarian refugees.

Polyansky, chairman of the Council of Ministers of the Soviet Federated Socialist Republics, spoke of last year's talks here between Khrushchev and President Eisenhower and added: "They resulted in a certain relaxation of world tension and improved the prospects of peace."

Speaking of a recent Soviet announcement that their armed forces will be reduced, Polyansky declared: "This reduction is undertaken unilaterally but we hope that other countries will follow this good example."

The city's welcome to the visiting delegation was extended at City Hall later by Deputy Mayor Paul T. O'Keefe. The Russians were late in arriving and Mayor Robert F. Wagner had another appointment and was unable to wait for them.

Five of the visitors, including Polyansky, detached themselves from the others for a private reception with Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller at his W. 55th St. office.

The governor and the Russians exchanged views on general subjects and Rockefeller relayed a hitherto unrevealed remark made to him by Premier Khrushchev during his visit to New York.

Rockefeller said Khrushchev was talking about foreigners immigrating to the United States because of the high wages. The Soviet Premier added that he thought once of coming here himself to live and work.

Monroe Morning World

January 31

Mrs. J. L. Adams III and young son, William King, recently moved to Monroe from Covington. Mr. and Mrs. Adams are being welcomed back home by their many friends after an absence of several years. They are settled temporarily in the Garnier Apartments.

At right: The approaching marriage of Miss Mary Sue Harrison to Samuel Andrew Hanna of Monroe is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rush M. Harrison of Mer Rouge. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew H. Hanna of Winnsboro. Dr. Ben Cliphint will perform the wedding Wednesday, February 24, at 5 p.m. at St. Paul's Methodist Church here.

A bride of Friday evening is Mrs. R. F. Seiler Jr., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Margen Henry Collet, who before her marriage at 7 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church, was Miss Susan Collet. Lt. Seiler, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Seiler of Monroe, is presently assigned to Orlando Air Force Base in Florida.

Below: Seen with her daughter, Mrs. J. R. Peot, at 1604 Park Ave. is Mrs. A. Sloan Oliver. She and Mr. Oliver are now making their home at 1001 North 7th St., having moved from St. Louis, Mo. to be near their children.

HAROLD CLINGER-MAN, regional representative of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, will be in Monroe Wednesday to consult with local realtors and other business leaders according to F. The flight from Moscow took 11 hours, 54 minutes.

On the ground, the visiting Russians found 11 pickets waiting, with derogatory signs and huts of "Red murderers." The pickets described themselves as Hungarian refugees.

Polyansky, chairman of the Council of Ministers of the Soviet Federated Socialist Republics, spoke of last year's talks here between Khrushchev and President Eisenhower and added: "They resulted in a certain relaxation of world tension and improved the prospects of peace."

Speaking of a recent Soviet announcement that their armed forces will be reduced, Polyansky declared: "This reduction is undertaken unilaterally but we hope that other countries will follow this good example."

The city's welcome to the visiting delegation was extended at City Hall later by Deputy Mayor Paul T. O'Keefe. The Russians were late in arriving and Mayor Robert F. Wagner had another appointment and was unable to wait for them.

Five of the visitors, including Polyansky, detached themselves from the others for a private reception with Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller at his W. 55th St. office.

The governor and the Russians exchanged views on general subjects and Rockefeller relayed a hitherto unrevealed remark made to him by Premier Khrushchev during his visit to New York.

Rockefeller said Khrushchev was talking about foreigners immigrating to the United States because of the high wages. The Soviet Premier added that he thought once of coming here himself to live and work.

Broadcasting Heads Giving Advice To FCC

By JACK ADAMS
WASHINGTON (AP)—Two top broadcasting executives gave conflicting advice to the Federal Communications Commission Friday on what the government's role should be in radio and TV programming.

President Frank Stanton of Columbia Broadcasting System said that if FCC is to intrude on program content, as he put it, "then we turn our backs on democracy."

But President Robert F. Hurleigh of Mutual Broadcasting System, operating exclusively in radio, said the commission should fix program standards for radio stations so as to reach what he termed insensitive operations in that field.

Hurleigh, who submitted a written statement in lieu of a personal appearance, said that if FCC has doubts about its authority to do this, it should go to Congress and ask for precise enabling legislation.

Mutual's position differed sharply from that of most industry spokesmen, who have been telling FCC's hearings on possible program controls that it has no powers of program censorship and should not seek them.

Public Meetings To Be Held Soon On City Planning

A series of public meetings to air Monroe's soon-to-be-completed Master Plan has been scheduled, planner George Parsons announced yesterday.

The meetings, to be conducted by the Monroe-Ouachita Regional Planning Commission, will be held as follows:

February 15, 7:30 p.m.—Lexington School.
February 16, 7:30 p.m.—Jefferson Junior High School.
February 17, 7:30 p.m.—Carrroll High School.
February 18, 7:30 p.m.—Ouachita Parish High School.

Parsons explained that the purpose of the meetings was to give citizens a chance to review the Master Plan and then make comment.

Details of the Master Plan will be explained at the meetings, along with the presentation of maps and drawings designed during the past several months.

Eight phases comprise the Master Plan and maps and studies will be presented depicting each phase, according to Parsons.

Monroe Morning World

January, 31

Mrs. J. L. Adams III and young son, William King, recently moved to Monroe from Covington. Mr. and Mrs. Adams are being welcomed back home by their many friends after an absence of several years. They are settled temporarily in the Garnier Apartments.

At right: The approaching marriage of Miss Mary Sue Harrison to Samuel Andrew Hanna of Monroe is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rush M. Harrison of Mer Rouge. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew H. Hanna of Winnsboro. Dr. Ben Cliphint will perform the wedding Wednesday, February 24, at 5 p.m. at St. Paul's Methodist Church here.

A bride of Friday evening is Mrs. R. F. Seiler Jr., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Margen Henry Collet, who before her marriage at 7 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church, was Miss Susan Collet. Lt. Seiler, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Seiler of Monroe, is presently assigned to Orlando Air Force Base in Florida.

Four ladies who will model in the Jr. Charity League Style Show at the Paragon February 6 are shown selecting gowns they will wear. From left to right they are: Mrs. T. J. Hyland, Mrs. W. J. Riley Jr., Mrs. G. L. Morgan and seated Mrs. A. G. McHenry Jr. The money raised by the show will help defray the expenses connected with the league's many worthwhile projects, which include several new ones this year.

Below: Seen with her daughter, Mrs. J. R. Peot, at 1604 Park Ave. is Mrs. A. Sloan Oliver. She and Mr. Oliver are now making their home at 1001 North 7th St., having moved from St. Louis, Mo. to be near their children.

MRS. CARL INZINA JR.

Savana-Inzina Wedding St. Joseph Ceremony

In a ceremony characterized by simplicity Miss Doll Savana became the bride of Carl Inzina Jr. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Savana and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Inzina Sr., all of this city.

Rev. Father Michael Hannon, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, solemnized the double wedding ceremony at 9:30 on Saturday morning, January 16, in the presence of immediate members of the families and close friends. The vows were spoken before an altar banked with white chrysanthemums and gleaming white tapers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was dressed in a suit of ice blue brocade satin with matching hat and black accessories. Her corsage was a single white orchid.

Miss Chris Inzina, sister of the groom, served as maid of honor and the bride's only attendant. She wore a rose faille suit with matching bandeau and black accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Harold Loyd Willis, brother-in-law of the bride, served the groom as best man.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Savana was attired in a navy and white model with navy accessories and a white carnation corsage.

The groom's mother wore a navy suit with matching accessories and a pink feathered carnation corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents where the bride's table was overlaid with a white Irish linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of white asters and greenery.

The bride is a graduate of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart School and the groom, a graduate of St. Matthew's School. They will make their home in Monroe.

Miss Hammett Wed In Chapel Ceremony

The wedding of Miss Phyllis Gayle Hammett, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace H. Hammett of Ferriday, and Dexter Byrd, the son of Benjamin Byrd and the late Mrs. Byrd, of Natchez, Miss., was solemnized on Friday, January 22, in the presence of the immediate families and close friends in the chapel of the Jefferson Street Methodist Church.

The Rev. B. B. Rogers, pastor of the church, performed the double ring ceremony at eight p.m.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Miss Patty Wallace of Natchez, attended her cousin as maid of honor, and Thomas A. Byrd of Natchez served as his brother's best man. Following the ceremony a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church.

The bride was graduated from the Ferriday High School and is employed in Natchez. The bridegroom is with the U. S. Navy, stationed at Long Beach, California, where they will reside after April 1.

Thomas Byrd Claims Bride in Tallulah

TALLULAH (Special) In a wedding distinguished by simplicity at the Methodist church here on Saturday evening, Jan. 23, at seven o'clock, Miss Marilyn Gail Batchelor became the bride of Thomas Wayne Byrd. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Neal Batchelor, and he is the son of Mrs. Prather Guy Byrd and the late Mr. Byrd. The Rev. William F. Mayo was the officiating minister, using the double ring ceremony.

Tall baskets, filled with white gladioli and chrysanthemums with fern and potted palms, stood on either side of the altar, and behind them, white cathedral candles burned in floor candelabra. White marble bows marked the reserved pews.

Preceding the entrance of the bride, Mrs. Libbye Heffelfinger of New Orleans read a program of appropriate organ music and accompanied the soloist, Jon Hall of Shreveport, who sang, "Through the Years" and "Because." The traditional wedding marches were used.

The bride had as her only attendant, Miss Jacqueline Naylor of Bossier City, who wore a waltz-length dress made with pink velvet bodice and full skirt of matching tulle over taffeta. Her headpiece was a band of flowers with short circular veil of net.

The bridegroom had as his best man, John D. Mitchell of Monroe, and the ushers were Bert Batchelor, brother of the bride, and Isaac T. Crothers.

A reception followed the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church, which was decorated with white flowers and greenery.

The bride's table, overlaid with a lace cloth, was centered with an arrangement of white tulips, carnations and small chrysanthemums. Mrs. I. T. Crothers presided at one end, serving the embossed, tiered wedding cake, and at the opposite end Miss Jo Ann Sorey of Rayville served punch from the crystal bowl. Mrs. James Mitchell registered the guests in the bride's book.

When the couple left for a trip to the Gulf Coast, the bride was wearing a suit of charcoal wool, black accessories, white hat and gloves, and a white orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Tallulah High School and will graduate in May from the School of Nursing at Northwestern Louisiana College. Her sorority is Pi Kappa Sigma.

Mr. Byrd graduated from Tallulah High School, received his B. S. degree in geology from Louisiana State University, and his M. S. degree from Mississippi State University. He is a member of Sigma Gamma Epsilon, honorary scholastic fraternity, and the Mississippi Academy of Science.

Mrs. H. W. Madison Jr. Feted at Lotus Club Tea

At a tea given Wednesday afternoon at the Lotus Club by her aunt, Mrs. H. Flood Madison Jr., Mrs. Hillman W. Madison Jr. a newcomer to Monroe, was the honoree. Bouquets of spring flowers were everywhere in evidence in the lounge, and the library and massive arrangements of magnolia and loquat leaves, were at vantage points throughout the club rooms.

The hostess, the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Benjamin F. Hawkins of Lake Village, Ark., and Mrs. H. Webb Madison of Bastrop greeted the guests as they entered the lounge. The honoree was wearing a becoming turquoise lace dress with matching slippers. The hostess wore a gown of beige lace over peach satin with slippers of the same shade.

Identical tea tables in the lounge and the library were covered with white lace cloths and centered with bouquets of spring flowers on silver candelabra holding tall white tapers. Silver tea services placed at both ends of the tables were presided over during the afternoon by: Mrs. H. Flood M. Garrett, Mrs. Duke Shackelford, Mrs. David I. Garrett, Jr., Mrs. Mary Madison Henderson, Mrs. Thomas C. Holmes, Mrs. Emmett J. Hobgood, Mrs. Alden Shotwell and Mrs. Roy Skillman, and Mrs. Charles McKenzie.

Assisting with the courtesies called during the afternoon.

Home-School Topic Chosen By Mrs. Boggs

The regular monthly meeting of the Georgia Tucker P. T. A. was held January 21 with Mrs. J. Floyd Stone, Jr. presiding in the absence of Mrs. Marcus Swayze. The P. T. A. prayer was led by Mrs. B. T. Johnston; minutes were read by Mrs. Van Clark and treasurer's report given by Mrs. Rabin Wooten.

Mrs. G. E. Boggs was guest speaker and her subject was "Home and School — A Winning Combination," an interesting and enlightening topic.

Mrs. Jean Ward, the newly elected treasurer was introduced by Mrs. M. S. Lippman.

Room count was won by Mrs. LeBlanc and Mrs. Hart, second and fifth grades.

Seiler-Collet Wedding Event of Friday Evening

On Friday January 29, at 7 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church Miss Susan Collet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marjien H. Collet, became the bride of Lt. Reginald Frederick Seiler Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Seiler.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Dr. Wave McFadden, before a setting of seven-branched tree candelabra and white chrysanthemums and gladioli on the altar, with strengerit fern on the altar. Nuptial music was played by Mrs. Eloise Stanhope, organist, who also accompanied Mrs. Redwick, Martin, the vocal soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a lovely gown of white Italian silk taffeta combined with Chantilly lace embellished in seed pearls. The molded bodice featured a portrait neckline. Bracelet-length sleeves were applied in lace and trimmed in the pearls. The magnificent skirt was made with a princess panel in front and fullness sweeping to the back in a graceful chapel train. Her tiered finger-tip veil of French silk illusion fell from an imported crown of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis blossoms.

Miss Dian Collet, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, wore a maize silk organza frock over taffeta, with a scoop neck, cap sleeves, and with a bell skirt encrusted with Chantilly lace. A double bow of the organza formed the back panel. Her headdress was a softly tucked bandeau of the same material. Matching shoes of maize and white gloves completed her costume. The bridesmaids were: Linda Collet, sister of the bride; Martha Seiler, sister of the groom; Jeanette Brooks and Rosemary McClelland. They wore identical dresses to the maid of honor except in delft blue, with matching hats and shoes. All carried nosegays of golden rapture roses and miniature ivy.

The groom chose his brother, Richard Seiler, to serve as best man. The ring bearer was Thomas Stephen Collet, brother of the bride. Bill Stevens, Eugene Windes, Jos. Ledoux and Harry Petty were the groomsmen, and Frank Webb and Wayne Warren, the ushers.

Mrs. Collet wore a blue silk chiffon gown made on princess lines, with an empire bodice of Alencon lace, and softly draped panels of chiffon inset in the narrow skirt and matching shoes. Her corsage was a white Phalaenopsis orchid. The groom's mother chose a gown of Arcady blue chiffon with a scoop neck, draped bodice, cap sleeves, and a softly draped sheath skirt. With it she wore matching shoes and white gloves. She, too, wore a white Phalaenopsis orchid.

Following the wedding the bride's parents were hosts at a reception at Bayou DeSiard Country Club. In the foyer was a mass arrangement of white gladioli and yellow tulips. In the lounge the round bride's table overlaid with a white satin cloth and garlanded with smilax and yellow roses was partially covered with a large mirror on which was placed the bride's cake. The embroidered ecru cloth on the refreshment table was centered with a silver candelabra entwined with miniature ivy and yellow roses, and burned white tapers. Silver punch bowls were at each end.

When the young couple left on their wedding trip to Orlando, Florida, the bride was wearing an indigo blue wool suit with jet accents, and accessories to match. Pinned on her shoulder was a white orchid. Lt. and Mrs. Seiler will make their home at Orlando, Air Force Base, Florida.

The bride is a graduate of the Graded School, Sao Paulo, Brazil, and attended Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., and Northeast Louisiana State College. The groom is a graduate of Neville High School and West Point Military Academy, Class of '58.

Local Members Attend VFW Conference

Members of the Rodney J. Hobbs VFW Post 1809 and the Ladies Auxiliary attended the Veterans of Foreign Wars Mid-Winter Conference held in Alexandria January 23-24.

The State Department Commander, Pat Carr, was the presiding officer for a joint meeting. The group heard an address by the national representative, Omar B. Ketchum.

Mrs. Dixie Ritchie, department president, was the presiding officer for the Ladies Auxiliary Program. Reports and awards were given by the department officers and chairmen. The "Dixie Dame Awards" were made by the department president. The local Ladies Auxiliary president, Mrs. Odie Lee Gossett, was a recipient of one of these awards.

The second auxiliary meeting was a school of instructions. Floor work was demonstrated by the department conductress and color bearers. The secretary and treasurer's work was discussed by the department secretary-treasurer.

The second Veterans' meeting was classes of instructions for service officers; quartermasters and adjutants; commanders, senior vice-commanders and junior vice-commanders.

The following members from Rodney J. Hobbs Post 1809 and the Ladies Auxiliary attended the meeting: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Webber, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Gossett, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth High School and the United States Military Academy, West Point, N. Y. Class of '58.

Girl Scout News

It was an inspiring sight to see so many adults in the green uniform at the annual meeting. Those who wear the uniform say it solves the problem of what to wear, as well as showing the public who we are. With girls present in uniform, too, Georgia Tucker auditorium was a sea of green. A few Brownie uniforms stood out, but, as everyone knows, night meetings are not planned for Brownie Scouts.

Those present had come with their parents.

Nobody kept count of the troops represented, but there was a long line of leaders, each of whom was introduced by a girl member of her troop. All the girls of Troop 104, Bastrop, were there, with their leader, Mrs. Leroy Martin, and Mr. Martin. Four girls and two adults came from Epps, and a group from Farmerville. Certainly, the out of town ones deserve a lot of credit for coming. Troop 23, West Monroe, deserves mention for having five adults present, three of them in uniform.

The speaker, Mrs. Charles

Jones, of Fort Smith, Arkansas, last meeting, presenting her with a gift. Jeanette, who has been a member of the troop for four years, has already found out that there are 15 troops in Hurst, Texas, where she will live. We are glad to hear that Jeanette and her Brownie sister will be able to continue in Scouting. Mrs. J. P. Corley, leader of Troop 14, says that Jeanette has almost completed First Class Rank. She has attended day camp for four summers, has taken advantage of Girl Scout swimming classes, completing junior lifesaving requirements last summer.

Troop 17 had a going-away party for Jeanette Bush at their

MRS. JAMES C. LOVE III

Patricia Chapman Is Bride of J. C. Love III

Little Creek Methodist Church in Archibald was the scene of the double ring ceremony which united in marriage Miss Patricia Chapman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Wilson Chapman of Archibald and James C. Love III, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Love Jr. of Ruston.

The vows were heard by Rev. Wm. M. Stokes Jr. on Friday January 29, at 6:30 p.m. before a setting of tall white tapers and massive arrangements of white chrysanthemums and gladioli. The pews were marked with mums and white satin ribbon. The organist, Mrs. B. N. Hixon of Mangham, played the nuptial music and accompanied Ben Laney, Junction, Ark. in rendering "Through the Years" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was given in a white bridal taffeta with an Alencon lace yoke trimmed in seed pearls, with a portrait neckline. Reembroidered Alencon lace also trimmed the skirt, the back of which featured an elegant back bustle panel extending midway of the full court train. Her fingertip veil of nylon illusion falling from a Juliet cap of Alencon lace was accented with seed pearls. Her bouquet was Lillies of the Valley centered with a white orchid.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Donald Wilson Chapman, sister-in-law of the bride. The bridesmaids were: Miss Mary Helen Love, sister of the groom, Miss Rosemary Merchant, Miss Judy Chapman, sister of the bride, served as Junior bridesmaid. They all wore blue peau de soie street-length dresses with rounded necklines, cap sleeves and adorned with self material flowers on the bodice. They carried crescent bouquets of pink carnations. Miss Penny Love, flower girl, wore a miniature adaptation of the bridesmaid's costumes. She carried a nosegay of pink carnations.

Mr. J. C. Love Jr., father of the groom served as best man. The groomsmen were: Donald Chapman, brother of the bride of Mangham; Gene Lacy of Shreveport, and Duane Spaeth of Longview, Texas. Joseph Rose, of Baton Rouge and Marvin McFarland of Downsville acted as ushers.

The bride's mother wore a beige lace dress over taffeta with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage. The groom's mother chose a green peau de soie with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride is a graduate of Mangham High School and Louisiana Tech. The groom is a graduate of Ruston High School and is a student at Louisiana Tech. He is a member of Kappa Sigma Fraternity.

Women Join Research Army

By DOROTHY ROE

A nun in austere habit bends over test tubes in a research laboratory at St. Louis University. She is Sister Mary Celeste of the Order of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, a doctor of medicine, studying the role of proteins in virus reproduction.

A woman in crisp white works among reports and slides at Yale University. She is Dr. Dorothy Hortsman, who has won fame for her research in polio virus and now is studying the science of epidemic diseases and the newer viruses.

These are two of a growing army of women research scientists fighting killer viruses throughout the country. Many of them are working under grants supplied by the National Foundation, under its broadened program of combatting the crippling diseases of birth defects, arthritis and polio.

Dr. Isabel Morgan Mountain is one of this dedicated group. As a member of the Johns Hopkins research group she demonstrated, some years ago, that animals could be protected against polio by a vaccine. This was one of the most important steps toward development of the Salk vaccine for humans.

Wife of a New York surgeon, Dr. Mountain is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Hunt Morgan, both of whom were well-known scientists. Her father won a Nobel Prize in 1933 as originator of the gene theory of heredity. Until recently she has been working with two other women research scientists at Columbia University — Dr. Hattie Alexander and Dr. Katherine Sprunt, who have added new knowledge to the field of contagious childhood diseases.

At Baylor University Medical School in Houston, Tex., Dr. Matilda Melnick, with her famous husband, Dr. Joseph L. Melnick, conducts experimental studies in a host of new viruses recently discovered in the course of polio research, conducted with March of Dimes funds.

Dr. Erna L. Gibbs also works with her husband, Dr. Frederic Gibbs, studying brain wave tracings for a possible link between brain lesions and contagious virus diseases in children. It is considered possible that viruses may cause lesions, which could produce mental illness.

So the long, painstaking work of research goes on, with more and more women playing leading roles. They are to be found in every section of the country, in laboratories, in clinics and in field units, making new breakthroughs in humanity's age-old fight against disease.

Wake-Up Service For Sleepyheads

By ROBERT D. LEWIS
INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—"Would you rather lose two hours' work because you oversleep, or spend a dollar a week to make sure you're there to greet the boss when he comes to work?"

With this logic, Mrs. Jean Danenfesler explains why her service for sleepyheads has become a thriving enterprise, not only for her but for several women in Indianapolis who copied it.

Several months ago Mrs. Danenfesler and her husband were at a party. She complained she would have to get to bed because as a neighborly gesture she was responsible for waking a couple of neighbors.

"Why don't you start charging for the service?" asked Danenfesler, who didn't want to leave the party.

Today the Danenfeslers "Wake-Up Service" has 35 customers and is growing.

Mrs. Danenfesler, the company's president, arises at 3:30 a.m. "I have my coffee and get awake myself before making my calls," she says.

For the next few hours, her telephone probably is one of the busiest in town.

"My conversation with the clients depends on how sleepy they are," she says. "I usually give them the temperature and weather report and anything I think will make their day brighter."

"If they seem tired, I tell them: 'I'm gonna call back and check on you.'"

There's not been a single complaint since the service began. "I'm very proud that I've never been late," the boss said.

Her husband, a molding superintendent, serves as business manager.

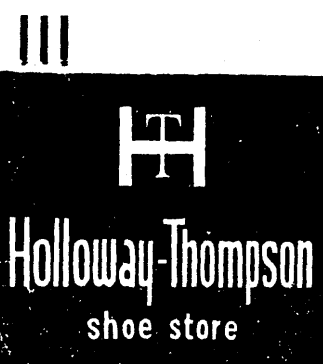

Most of the 35 customers are men. There are milkmen, cab drivers, floral designers, clerks and factory workers. And there are mothers who say, "It's worth a dollar just to be able to get the kids off to school."

Until recently the Danenfesler service was the only one in Indianapolis, but the idea is spreading. Now five wake-up services advertise in local papers.

"I've received calls from about 20 women in the past week, asking how to start into the business," Mrs. Danenfesler says proudly.

But she doesn't mind competition. "There's plenty for every one."

Sticky Iron?

Are you bothered with your iron sticking to starch? There are reasons for this. Excessive starching, excessive sprinkling or too cool an iron can cause starch to stick to the iron. Fabric should be just damp when ironed. Starch and water should be accurately measured each time and an iron that is too cool will cause slow ironing and cause sticking.

Home Setting Chosen For Spencer-Wells Wedding

A home setting was chosen for the exchange of vows between Miss Joy Wells, daughter of Mrs. James Malone Norwood and the late Matthews Wells, of Alexandria, and Hugh Spencer Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Spencer, also of Alexandria.

White peony - petal gladioli, carnations and stephanotis and seven-branched candelabra entwined with polished English ivy holding lighted white tapers formed the background for the service.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Charles Matthews Wells of Alexandria, wore a dress of white silk organza made with a re-embroidered bodice on fitted lines, a Peter Pan collar and elbow-length sleeves. The skirt featured the popular cluster pleats and deep hemline. White satin petals trimmed in seed pearls held her shoulder-length veil of silk illusion. White bride's roses and stephanotis formed her bouquet.

The maid of honor, her sister, Mrs. Lloyd Terry Leake of Baton Rouge, wore a street length gown of aqua silk organza, styled with fitted bodice, a high bateau neckline and full elbow-length sleeves and a full skirt with deeper aqua velvet sash. She wore a matching satin bow and veil as a headdress. Her bouquet was of carnations and stephanotis tied with aqua satin streamers.

Alfred A. Bardin of Alexandria served as best man. The bride's mother chose a gown of Guipure lace in shaded Paris pink, with matching slippers and a corsage of pale pink blooms. The groom's mother wore Chantilly lace in powder blue styled with inserts of two tones of blue satin on the bodice and slim skirt. She wore a white carnation corsage.

At the reception which followed, the bride's table was covered with a cloth of white satin overlaid with tulle caught at intervals with nosegays of valley lilies and centered with a silver candelabra holding white tapers flanked by the bride's and the groom's bouquets. The three tiered wedding cake and a silver punch bowl placed at either end completed the appointments of the table.

After the ceremony the young couple left for a wedding trip to Mountain Harbor Lodge on Ouachita Lake, the bride wearing a costume dress of beige and maroon brown silk outlined in black with a high collar and long sleeves. Her hat was beige straw and her accessories were black patent. Pinned on her shoulder was a corsage of white bride's roses.

The bride's maternal grandparents are Mrs. Richard Wm. Hockin of Alexandria and Annis-ton, Alabama and the late Mr. Hockin of Cornwall, England. Her paternal grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Matthews Wells of Wellswood Plantation, Meeker.

The bridegroom's mother is the former Jennie Ree Turner of Leesville, Miss. Her maternal grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Turner of Leesville and his paternal grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Spencer of Minden.

A graduate of Bolton High School, Alexandria, the bride received a B. S. Degree from the School of Medical Technology, Loyola University, New Orleans. She is a member of the Medical Technology Club, Theta Beta, National Biology Fraternity, and the American Society of Clinical Pathologists.

The bridegroom attended La. College, Pineville and LSU, and has served 2 years with the US Air Force.

Marriage Vows Exchanged In Vidalia

Mrs. Wendell H. Winke of Shreveport, announces the marriage of her daughter, Mrs. Katherine Anderson, to William L. Koerber, son of Mrs. Mabel Koerber, and Louis Koerber of Natchez, Miss.

The wedding was solemnized on Thursday, January 22 at 11 a.m. in Vidalia.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Winke and the late James G. Sims of Natchez.

Mr. and Mrs. James Holland of Natchez, the brother-in-law and sister of the bride, attended the couple.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Koerber left on a wedding trip and on their return will make their home in Natchez, Miss. He is a graduate of Tulane University of New Orleans, La., and attended Mississippi State University, Starkville, Miss.

The Navy Mothers' Club met on January 21 at the American Legion Home with Mrs. Thelma Coleman, Commander, presiding.

The Mothers have made many terry bibs and tapestry scuffies. A donation was voted to be sent to the V.A. Hospital at Alexandria to be used to sponsor a party, at which time the bibs and scuffies will be distributed to patients.

Refreshments were served to the members and to one visitor, Mrs. J. F. Russell.

Give Him A Valentine Portrait

By VIVIAN BROWN
If you like that boy, why not give him a Valentine portrait on Cupid's day? If he's your favorite date, you must be his special pin-up girl, so he surely will not think you are conceited for giving him the photograph.

The proper makeup and a pretty hairdo should put you in the photogenic bracket, but it'll take a bit of concentration to pull the photograph off just right. The camera has a way of playing tricks when you least expect it.

Before you sit down for the portrait, do a dress rehearsal and be your own critic. Put your makeup on as carefully for the trial run as for the big occasion.

Wear a light colored dress or suit — gray, beige or pastel if you are slim. Darker colors such as red or black can look like a deadly mass against the background.

Your hair should be neat, shaped or coiffed close to your head unless the effect is to be casual. But you should avoid the "frizzy look."

When making up your face for a photograph, it is a good idea to try for an oval shape, no matter what the shape of your face is now. This will not actually change the shape of your face, but if it is round and chubby, diamond shaped or square, trying to put it in the oval bracket will "erase" some of the squareness or roundness.

Here's what you do: Put an imaginary oval on your face, and keeping it in mind, apply a dark foundation all around the outside of the oval. Use a lighter foundation within the oval to bring it up to its proper proportions.

Let's say your face is chubby. (And if it is try to persuade the photographer to take a three quarter shot of you.)

All the roundness should be in the dark foundation and the light oval part in the light, overall you will use a dark powder which to the V.A. Hospital at Alexandria should be patted on your skin to be used to sponsor a party, at which time the bibs and scuffies will be distributed to patients.

Refreshments were served to the members and to one visitor, Mrs. J. F. Russell.

For a young girl, except that the line should go out completely to the corner of the mouth. Many young girls make the mistake of ending the lipstick line a half-inch away from the end of the mouth. You may not be aware that you do this unless you observe very carefully after you have made up your mouth. A little brush will help you make a good outline which you can fill in with lipstick.

If you aren't adept at tweezing your eyebrows, it might be a good idea to get a professional eyebrow tweezing and from there on to follow the shape used by the professional operator. Eyebrows may be tweezed in the area over the nose and under the brow, but the natural arch of the brow should not be disturbed. Short feathery strokes of black and brown eyebrow pencil should give you a natural looking pretty line. Bring a brown eyebrow pencil out about one-quarter of an inch from the corner of the eye, and if your eyes are very small, lift the eyelid and run the pencil around under the upper eyelashes.

If you do not know how to apply mascara, skip it. Eye-shadow should not be used either. If you'd like a perfectly natural picture.

A very large nose can be toned down by using very light foundation in the middle chin section and then using the dark foundation on the sides of the nose, and tip of the nose, and a light foundation down the bridge of the nose.

A too - square jaw can be improved by using very light foundation in the middle chin section and then using the dark foundation on the sides of the jaw.

The eyes may be made to look larger with eye liner, but it is a good idea not to use the liner unless you are good at it.

QUITE A PUZZLE

LOCKPORT, N. Y. (AP) — The loot apparently was just too puzzling for thieves who broke into a trailer parked in a trucking depot here. Police found the contents of the eight cartons the thieves took, scattered around a field at the west end of the city. The cartons contained jigsaw puzzles.

Y-Teens Meet Plan Parties For Valentine

The Senior Club of Y-Teens of the Young Women's Christian Association met at Ouachita Parish High School Monday with Ann Hobgood, president, presiding. Plans for the Y-Teens and Hi-Y joint meeting on February 2nd at the YWCA were discussed and completed. The plans for this activity and for the Annual Valentine Tea for the Faculty at OPHS were also taken up.

On Tuesday morning the Y-Teens met at Lenoir School with Regina Anderson, President, presiding. Wanda Frost, Vice President, and Program Chairman, was in charge of the program which consisted of games for the group to play. The Committees were appointed for the tea which this club will have for their faculty on February 8th.

The Sophomore-Freshman Club of Y-Teens met at Ouachita Parish High School with Dolores Moore, President, presiding. The club discussed plans for a party which they will have on February 26 at the YWCA. The program was "A Personal Inventory" with each girl evaluating herself and answering a questionnaire: "Watching Yourself Go By".

The Ouachita Parish "School time" Club met at the OPHS on Wednesday. The president, Beva McMillen, has moved and, so the vice president, Laura Gavoille was elected President and Jean Ford was elected vice president. The "Personal Inventory Questionnaire" was discussed by the group.

The Woodlawn Y-Teens met at Woodlawn School on Wednesday afternoon. Pat Clark, President, called the meeting. Sharon Evans, Program Chairman, presented the program: "How To Be Tops In Your Teens" with the following girls taking part: Betty Wink, Pat Hollingsworth, Glenda Hollingsworth, Rita Kennedy, and Marilyn Wade. The Committee, Mary Hutchins, Elaine Wheelis, and Marilyn Wade were asked to make the plans for the Valentine Tea which the club will have for the faculty on February 10th. The group discussed the calendar for the month of February, a project that the club sponsors, an activity calendar for the bulletin board at school.

Bright spot of the social calendar this week will be the style show to be given by the Junior Charity League Saturday night. Cruise clothes, from sports outfits to after-dark ensembles, will be shown on the program, scheduled for eight o'clock in the Paragon ballroom.

CHARLOTTIE DENT is general chairman, and clothes will be furnished by the Palace. ANN GARNER of Dallas, who comes to Monroe for shows of this kind several times a year, will narrate. Ann is flying in from Albuquerque, New Mexico, Saturday morning.

Models, all chosen from the League membership, will be MERILYN CLAY, ANN BERNHARDT, MILDRED VANDERPOOL, Cissy Ryan, FRANCES BROWN, CELESTE HART, DOT HYLAND, ALICE SMITH, JEAN GIFFEN, YVONNE ANDERSON, JEAN HAMILTON, HELEN LEDBETTER, PAT MADDEN, BETTY SUE PARKER, DOT WILLIAMS, JO ANN GREGG, CAROLYN GWIN, MARY DELL NEILL, CODY ROSAMUND.

Sustaining members of the League modelling will be LIL HALE, KATHERINE JORDAN, FRANCES ADCOCK, MARGE MULLENS, PAT RILEY, ADRIENNE DUCHKAR, BETTY MOORE, LOUISE MORGAN, JUNE M'HENRY, MARILYN TAYLOR, and CAMILLE WOOD.

Several parties this week honored BETSY OSEURN, who with her children will soon be moving to Jackson, Mississippi.

On Wednesday afternoon ELISE MAPP and LOUISE MCARTER entertained with a dessert bridge. Louise's home was decorated for the occasion with a line arrangement of clipped pine, and narcissus in a Japanese usabati. White chiffon butterflies accented the piths on the dining room table. The dessert was Louise's famous divinity fluff pie. Five tables played bridge, with MARY FRANCES PICKETT winning high; JEAN HAMMONS, the travelling prize; and MAYDRON JONES, low.

On Tuesday LAVERNE BURGESS had two tables for luncheon and bridge, with Betsy the special guest. The conversation piece at this party was Laverne's fresh home-baked cheese cake with strawberry filling.

When having their bridge club on Wednesday, TOMMY SARTOR and TEEDEE DIXON invited extra guests and made it a party. Four tables began play in the morning, and all gathered at one long table for luncheon. JEANNIE DOWNING won high, and CLARA MUNHOLLAND, low.

At this time of year, when the gardens have just enough frostbite to stop the blooms, MAXINE BOARDMAN's green thumb has a house full of potted plants providing the fresh - flower look. Tulips on the mantel, philodendron and ivy at other points bring spring indoors. Maxine this week began a series of small parties. She invited three tables for luncheon and bridge on Thursday, five couples for a seated dinner on Saturday night.

Visitors to Shreveport last weekend were LEONORA KELLER and KATY RENAUD, who were house guests of Leonora's children, BETTY and JACK CAPLIS at Magenta plantation, and MILDRED VOORHIES and LINDA GOLSON, who were guests of the ROBERT VOORHIES. They visited MRS. V. J. COLLIGAN of HEUNEFELDS, JR., the JOE DIXONS and the PAUL RANSON.

Here's a quote your reporter found eminently suitable for a woman's page:

"The mother who cannot get over 'that tired feeling' doesn't need psychoanalysis, says Dr. Leonard Jovshin of the Cleveland Clinic. 'She is not sick; she is not maladjusted - she is tired. She has a workday of 16 hours, a work week of seven days. She probably hasn't had a real vacation in years, and she may have various worries about finances, husband and children. Being conscientious, she gets involved in clubs, Brownies, PTA, heart drives, church work, hauling children.' In addition to her children, she usually has animals to raise, and in wear and tear on mother 'a puppy equals about one and a half children, and a cat with kittens equals two.'

How many children a woman has makes little difference, Dr. Jovshin found. "A woman with one child just worries four times as much about the one as the woman with four children, and it all comes out even." What does make a difference is age. "The nervous system can't take so much after 30; two hours of screaming is bad enough at any age, but after 35 it is unbearable."

Dr. Jovshin's prescription: thorough examination to rule out physical illness, then explanation and reassurance. Little things - a new hat, dining out or going to a ball game - help in mild cases. He is against giving tranquilizers to tired mothers. "A tranquilized mother would be about as good as a tranquilized Notre Dame football team," he says. But he thinks there may be a place for tranquilizers in handling these cases: "Give them to the husband, children and puppies."

On a more optimistic note, here is Sara Teasdale's "Barter":

Blue waves whitened on a cliff,
Soaring fire that sways and sings,
And children's faces looking up,
Holding wonder like a cup,
Life has loveliness to sell,
Music like a curve of gold,
Scent of pine trees in the rain,
Eyes that love you, arms that hold,
And for your spirit's still delight,
The thoughts that star the night,
Spend all you have for loveliness,
Buy it and never count the cost;
For one white singing hour of peace
Count many a year of strife well lost,
And take a breath of ecstasy

Drew PTA Enjoy Panel Discussions

The Parent-Teacher Association of Drew School held its January meeting with Mrs. David Smith presiding.

A panel entitled "An Overview of the Elementary Accreditation Program in Ouachita Parish" was planned for the program with Mrs. Cecile C. Burkett, principal, serving as moderator.

Introduced were the members of the faculty on the panel, Mrs. Pauline Welch, Chairman of the local school study, spoke on "What Makes a Good Elementary School". Second panelist was Mrs. C. A. Luttrell, recorder of the faculty study group, who gave the "Organizational Set-Up and a Summary of Ideas". The third panelist was Mrs. J. W. Winger, third grade teacher, who presented efforts and progress made by the individual school to meet the regional standards of elementary accreditation. The fourth panelist, Mrs. C. O. Wilson, second grade teacher, explained coordination of efforts of the community, parents, and teachers with the development of the child as a focal point. The last panelist was Miss Elaine Canady, fifth grade teacher, who talked on "The Visiting Committee and Its Work".

Winning the room count award was the third grade. Refreshments were served in the cafeteria by the room mothers of the fifth grade.

Bright spot of the social calendar this week will be the style show to be given by the Junior Charity League Saturday night. Cruise clothes, from sports outfits to after-dark ensembles, will be shown on the program, scheduled for eight o'clock in the Paragon ballroom.

CHARLOTTIE DENT is general chairman, and clothes will be furnished by the Palace. ANN GARNER of Dallas, who comes to Monroe for shows of this kind several times a year, will narrate. Ann is flying in from Albuquerque, New Mexico, Saturday morning.

Models, all chosen from the League membership, will be MERILYN CLAY, ANN BERNHARDT, MILDRED VANDERPOOL, Cissy Ryan, Frances Brown, Celeste Hart, Dot Hyland, Alice Smith, Jean Giffen, Yvonne Anderson, Jean Hamilton, Helen Ledbetter, Pat Madden, Betty Sue Parker, Dot Williams, Jo Ann Gregg, Carolyn Gwin, Mary Dell Neill, Cody Rosamund.

Sustaining members of the League modelling will be LIB HALE, KATHERINE JORDAN, FRANCES ADCOCK, MARGE MULLEN, PAT RILEY, ADRIENNE DUCHAK, BETTY MOORE, LOUISE MORGAN, JUNE M'HENRY, MARILYN TAYLOR, and CAMILLE WOOD.

Several parties this week honored BETSY OSBURN, who with ED and the children will soon be moving to Jackson, Mississippi. On Wednesday afternoon ELISE MAZUR and LOUISE MC CARTER entertained with a dessert bridge. Louise's home was decorated for the occasion with a line arrangement of clipped pine and narcissus in a Japanese usabati. White chiffon butterflies accented the pitterpatter on the dining room table. The dessert was Elise's famous divinity fluff pie. Five tables played bridge, with MARY FRANCES PICKETT winning high. JEAN HAMMOND was travelling prize, and MAYDRON JONES, low.

On Tuesday LAVERNE BURGESS had two tables for luncheon and bridge, with Betsy the special guest. The conversation piece at this party was Laverne's fresh home-baked cheese cake with strawberry filling.

When having their bridge club on Wednesday, TOMMY SARTOR and TEDDEE DIXON invited extra guests and made it a party. Four tables began play in the morning, and all gathered at one long table for luncheon. JEANNIE DOWNING won high, and CLARA MUNHOLLAND, low.

At this time of year, when the gardens have just enough frostbite to stop the blooms, MAXINE BOARDMAN's green thumb has a house full of potted plants, providing the fresh flower look. Tulips on the mantel, philodendron and ivy at other points bring spring indoors. Maxine this week began a series of small parties. She invited three tables for luncheon and bridge on Thursday, five couples for a seated dinner on Saturday night.

Visitors to Shreveport last week-end were LEONORA KELLER and KATY RENAUD, who were house guests of Leonora's children, BETTY and JACK CAPLIS at Magnolia plantation, and MILDRED VOORHIES and LINDA GOLSON, who were guests of the ROBERT VOORHIES. They visited MRS. V. J. COLLIGAN of HEUNEFELDS, JR., the JOE DIXONS and the PAUL RAN-SOMS.

Here's a quote your reporter found eminently suitable for a woman's page:

"The mother who cannot get over 'that tired feeling' doesn't need psychoanalysis, says Dr. Leonard Jovishin of the Cleveland Clinic. 'She is not sick; she is not mal-adjusted — she is tired. She has a workday of 16 hours, a work week of seven days. She probably hasn't had a real vacation in years, and she may have various worries about finances, husband and children. Being conscientious she gets involved in clubs, Brownies, PTA, heart drives, church work, hauling children.' In addition to her children, she usually has animals to raise, and in wear and tear on mother, 'a puppy equals about one and a half children, and a cat with kittens equals two.'"

How many children a woman has makes little difference, Dr. Lovshin found. "A woman with one child just worries four times as much about the one as the woman with four children, and it all comes out even." What does make a difference is age. "The nervous system can't take so much after 30; two hours of screaming is bad enough at any age, but after 36 it is unbearable."

Dr. Lovshin's prescription: thorough examination to rule out physical illness, then explanation of reassurance. Little things — a new hat, dining out or going to a ball game — help in mild cases. He is against giving tranquilizers to tired mothers. "A tranquilized mother would be about as good as a tranquilized Notre Dame football team," he says. But he thinks there may be a place for tranquilizers in handling these cases. "Give them to the husband, children and puppies."

Mothers Share Special Bond With Daughters

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE MD
If you have a daughter you may well find that as the years slip along the two of you establish a close relationship which is somewhat different from your relationship with your sons. This is pretty much as it should be. You and your daughter share your femininity and this makes for a very special kind of bond. In your little girl's eyes you are the image of what she will some day be, and too, you see in her what you once were yourself.

Almost every parent wants to protect her child from the troubles the parent had as a youngster, and I am sure you want your daughter to bloom into full adult femininity without doubts and worries.

Femininity is not something that suddenly bursts forth full-blown at adolescence. It has been there right from the very beginning. In babyhood and childhood little boys and girls are in many ways quite alike and yet there are differences which the keen and sympathetic eye of the mother knows. Understand and encourage their differences.

GIRL CARE

When your daughter is a baby you take care of her cleanliness. As she grows up you must be sure to teach her how to care for herself in such a way that she keeps her body truly clean. Infections of the bladder are much more frequent in little girls than in little boys and these infections are often due to improper toilet techniques. Be sure you learn how to keep your little girl clean and be sure you teach her how to do it herself.

Discharges from the genitals are also common in little girls. Such infections are sometimes caused by improper toilet techniques. They are seldom serious. If you should observe such a discharge in your little girl be sure to consult your doctor.

ADOLESCENCE

As your little girl grows up and approaches adolescence many changes take place in her body. Be sure to talk to her and explain the things that are happening to her. She is growing up and becoming more and more like you. She will like the idea of being a grown-up lady. Explain to her how she will develop curves and how her body becomes pretty and attractive. Many a little girl loves to wear a brassiere long before she has any real need for it. Get her one if she would like it. It is good for her to look forward with pleasure to the changes to come. Be sure to tell her about menstruation long before she is ready for it. This too a little girl often looks forward to. It is like a diploma that she gets as she graduates from childhood to young ladyhood.

FEMININITY

The little girl who loves her femininity, is encouraged in it, who wants to grow up and be like mommy is the fortunate youngster.

The world is a good place for feminine women and masculine men, but apt to be a rough place for girls who want to be men. The child who accepts his sex with enthusiasm is headed for a better life than one who grows up with resentment over what was meted out to him or her at birth.

A new book recently published might be quite a bit of help to mothers of daughters. This book, "Health and Hygiene for the Modern Woman" written by Dr. Leonard H. Biskind and published by Harper and Brothers, talks about all sorts of questions of women and growing girls.

Green Thumb Garden Club Hold Workshop

The Green Thumb Garden Club met in the home of Mrs. Fred Hayton on Norris Lane. Workshop was held in her den with Mrs. Fred Hayton instructor, making arrangements with wax flowers in picture frames.

Questions And Answers Guide For Homemakers

By BETTY PEPIS

Q. — We are furnishing our living room and dining room. In the living room we have off-white walls, gold carpeting and gray couch. Can you suggest colors for occasional chairs, for draperies, and for throw pillows? In the dining room we have same off-white walls and Scandinavian oak furniture. What color for dining room chair seats? Should we have same draperies as in living room?

A. — Play up the off-white and gold by having off-white draperies printed with gold pigment. You will find this an effective background for the oak furniture. Add a true and bright emerald green as your accent color.

Use it for dining chair seats, sofa pillows, and other small accessories. Occasional chairs in living room should be gold of carpet which I hope is reasonably pale.

Q. — I would like your advice about redoing my living and dining rooms. Have a mixture of furniture including a mahogany upright piano, several mahogany pieces, covered in a neutral tan. Dining room has an Oriental rug; living room has a braided rug; predominately blue. Draperies are fiberglass - tan with flowers. I wish to paper upper half of dining room and paint all woodwork (which is now varnished dark oak). Ceiling nine feet high. Living room has brick fireplace and rooms run into each other.

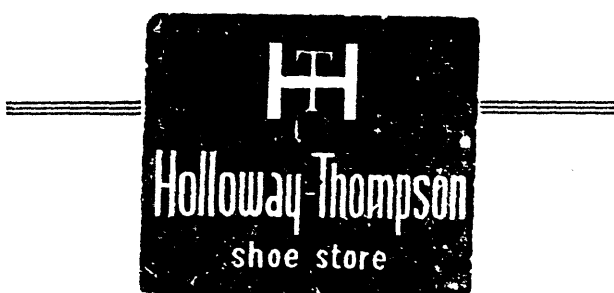

A. — I think you are very wise to paint out your old varnished woodwork. I would like to see both it and walls painted white, a device that will tend to make your mixture of furniture look modern. If you want to keep a chair rail in the dining room, and paper over it, pick the simplest type of pattern — preferably modern and widely spaced and one which repeats some of the blue of the living room rug. Then paint ceilings in both rooms a very faint tint of sky blue; the room is tall enough to make this effective.

Q. — In my living room I have a deep pink sofa, black chair, and mahogany tables. Rug is gray. Would like suggestions for wall color and type of lamps.

A. — Paint walls pale, pale pink. If you want a very elegant look, and can afford them, would like silver plated lamp bases built in a column form with shades covered with silver tea paper which has a slightly tarnished look. Second suggestion would be pewter bases with gunmetal gray shades.

Addresses

Sherrouse PTA

Mrs. W. L. Allen, President, in charge of the business session, introduced Mr. John McCarter who in turn introduced Dr. Clint Hanna, Director of Admissions Northeast Louisiana State College. He discussed "Recognizing and Guiding the Gifted Child." Every child is an exceptional child to his parents and to his Creator.

Each child should be given the opportunity to develop as far as his capacities will allow. Learning cannot be handled by the assembly line method. Each child has to be recognized and taught as an individual.

The fifth grade chorus directed by Miss Hermione Driskell sang a medley of National airs and also our Louisiana State song, Song of Louisiana.

Miss Mary Alma Tompkins' Fifth grade room won the attendance banner.

Mrs. George Foreman, guest speaker for the Lakeshore PTA at its January meeting, chose for her topic of discussion, "Good Citizens Make Good Government."

Mrs. J. E. Tripp, Jr. first vice-president, presided in the absence of the president, Carl Davis. The third grade parents were hosts during the social hour. Mrs. Myrtle Evans' second grade won the room count award.

The Maillot, Not Bikini For The USA

By GAY PAULERY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Designers keep subtracting from the coverage swim suits provide. But few of them dare the French bikini for the American woman.

Instead, the number one silhouette for summer 1960 is the maillot (pronounced my oh) — a one-piece suit with brief leg. It is followed closely by the two-piece suit, which has been off the beach scene since the late 1940's, and the boy-shorts leg. Few suits come with overskirts; the stress is on sleek lines.

"Today, with Brigitte Bardot so popular, our suits are briefer and scantier," said Ann Cole, designer for Cole of California. WON'T WEAR IN PUBLIC "But the bikini will not catch on in this country. It will be worn by the women who want to sun themselves in their own backyards. But it won't be worn on public beaches."

"In this country," she continued, "women have not reached the point where they are willing to expose themselves to the extent they are in Europe."

Designers agreed that personalities and trends in other feminine apparel are the two strongest influences in each fashion. This year, Bardot and Marilyn Monroe help to push the aerie look. A few years ago, when Grace Kelly was at the peak of her movie popularity, swim wear took on an elegant look.

And, when the high, empire waistline dominated in dresses, it also moved into swim suits.

Other trends for 1960:

—Lighter weight fabrics, including elasticized plain, striped and plaid failles; floral-embroidered jacquards; woven geometrics; patterns with a homespun look; and a whole bevy of knits.

—Suits with low-cut backs, which designer Cole said were

—Increased use of beiges, browns and all the earth tones

Training For Teen-Age Baby Sitters

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI) — The nation's 10 million diaper wearers have something new to "goo" happily about.

It's word that a National Baby Care Council has been formed to train baby sitters in the many problems and needs of the infant.

"She usually has only casual knowledge of the safe way of picking up a baby or of even feeding one," he said.

The Council, headed by Dr. Ernest G. Osborne, of Teachers College, Columbia University, soon will launch the first nationwide training course for teen-age baby sitters.

The Council also plans all-out war in diaper rash.

Dr. Osborne, professor in the university's Home and Family Life Department, said the young baby sitters of today, unlike the grandmother "sitter" of yesterday, often is untrained in the many problems and needs of the infant.

"She usually has only casual knowledge of the safe way of picking up a baby or of even feeding one," he said.

"She cannot recognize the cries and the needs of the infant in her charge; nor does she know how to deal with many emergencies that may arise."

The training course will be aimed at overcoming "this growing threat to the comfort and well-being of infants."

The educational campaign for baby sitters will be given in cooperation with high schools, parent-teacher associations and community service organizations.

It is based on a baby-sitter training program developed—and tested—in cooperation with schools in Pittsburgh, Pa.

CAN BE SERIOUS
On the second of the Council's fronts, diaper rash, Dr. Osborne had this to say:

"Diaper rash is a problem that cannot be brushed off too lightly. Leading pediatricians have shown that it often may be the cause of more serious illnesses in babies."

"Medical research scientists have established the means of preventing them. That is why one of the first nationwide projects of the Council will be to distribute this information to mothers of diaper-age children."

"We will show these mothers that the prevention of diaper rash is not only possible but practical."

FROM MANY FIELDS
Further areas of action will be

THE HOME SHIFT

New Marigold Types Shown

By MILDRED SWIFT

Marigold is one of our favorite summer annuals. Plant breeders continue to produce new varieties. This year brings a big orange one called "Toreador." The plants are bushy, the flowers carnation shaped and very large. Another new number is "Spun Gold." The plant is dwarf and bears three inch chrysanthemum flowered blooms of brilliant yellow.

Florists and flower arrangers love snapdragons for their gorgeous color and shape. The new 1960 Rocket series grow three feet tall. Plants branch from the base to produce 10 or more long spikes of flowers at a time.

Snapdragons grown in the past could not take the hot summer, they almost always had rust. The new Rocket series bloom beautifully even in the mid-summer heat. They are vigorous, strong and erect, with large flowers, many open at a time. Excellent for cutting, florists will find they may be grown outdoors through the summer. After the first blooming, stems may be cut back for a second crop and even a third crop has been cut from the same plants before hard freezing weather.

The names of the hybrid snapdragon series: Bronze Rocket, Golden Rocket, Orchid Rocket, Red Rocket, Rose Rocket and White Rocket. Vanguard is a double snap dragon in rose pink with a golden throat, and this is the first double variety.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Blue Ribbon Show Staged

By MARY JARDINE

By MRS. K. R. YOUNG

The Garden Center all blue-ribbon flower show was presented this week by the Sun and Sand Garden Club of West Monroe. The arrangers used driftwood as the theme for the show. All the arrangements stressed the use of driftwood combined with other materials. Each arranger selected a different material, making a very interesting show, as well as showing the many materials that can be used in this type arrangement.

FRESH MATERIAL
Mrs. H. A. Malone selected fresh plant material to use with driftwood for her composition. For line, she used a beautiful piece of gray driftwood, creating a vertical design. This was set on a round base of wood. Added strength was given by the use of a mat of green straw. Three red carnations and green foliage formed the center of interest, giving a nice contrast of color. All very beautifully done, and suitable for use in a den.

ARTIFICIAL FLOWERS
Mrs. Raymond Butler's composition shows the use of artificial flowers combined with driftwood. Inside a black, metal bird cage container, she has designed the asymmetrical triangle, using a piece of driftwood, painted black, for her line and completing the design with small artificial yellow daisies with their green foliage, and some slender pieces of green artificial scotch broom. A nice, airy composition, and a beautiful color contrast. All these compositions are suitable for use in a den.

A January Horticulture note. In the January issue of the Louisiana Garden Club Federation Newsletter, Mrs. W. E. Conger says "The latter part of January, prune your lirate near the ground to avoid the unsightly period of it turning brown as the new growth emerges. If you wait later, you will damage the new growth as you prune."

Mrs. B. F. Strong combined natural, dried material with her dark brown container of driftwood. The driftwood container was placed on an orange straw mat. The color combination of orange-brown is very pleasing in this composition. Mrs. Strong completed her asymmetrical triangle ket. A single button, pushed just once, controls a complete wash cycle from start to final water extraction phase.

The new trend to height in hair styles should prove to be popular, since it's flattering to most girls and women. It can be worked into face framing styles as well as these that are severely brushed back.

British and American fashion leaders are enthusiastic about the pale nail polish and are using it to the exclusion of all others.

The outstanding features of the 1960 silhouette are above the belt, with the new sleeve treatments getting lots of attention. They're designed to give a wide shoulder look, without the use of bulky padding.

Most of the new suit jackets are longer than those last season, and skirts are slender. However, the Chanel type brief box jackets still are in style, for the woman who prefers the short jacket.

New light colors in suits are soft grays, pale beige, pearl gray or pale blue. The material is often feather weight tweed or other wool.

Many of the suits and coats are collarless. White is a leader in coats, with pale beige, gray, the full range of greens and the perennial spring navy popular choices. These coats are straight or slightly fitted in front, loose and capelike in back, with deep pockets and sleeves just below the elbows.

Other colors in spring clothes are: Green, from muted autumn mess to dark tawny green; brown, from beige to an amber to dark town shades; gray, from light gray flannels to charcoal, red from deep vintage red to burgundy and plum; blue, from royal to deep turquoise.

Accessories blend with the dress, coat or suit color or contrast with it for accent.

Color isn't limited to clothes for spring. Hats and other accessories also have brilliance. Spring hats are not only high, wide and handsome but bright as well.

Some have rather bulky crowns and some sort of brim. These brims generally are narrow. The new crowns are wide enough to go over the new high hair dos without any trouble.

Your Open House programs for next week are: Monday, Betty Jane Hodgkins will make decorator pillows; Tuesday, Mr. R. C. Whitten, will give us something on roses for the yard; Wednesday, flower arrangements with Mrs. Jardine; Thursday and Friday, Miss Elizabeth Williams, specialist from Baton Rouge, will do cheese and cheese cooking.

See you next week.

The dismal stretch of winter that follows the holidays is the time for indoor gardening.

If you're starting from scratch, the trusty narcissus bulb is a good bet for easy bloom.

Most plant stores have a variety that sprouts in a couple of weeks from rooting in pebbles and water. And you'll be pleased at the thrifty prices of narcissus bulbs.

All you need is a three or four-inch deep bowl filled with clean, washed pebbles. Set the bulb in the top with at least three inches below for root room.

Refill with water as needed to keep the level just below the bulb. Keep it in a dark, cool spot until it sprouts. If you plant bulbs in succession, you can have flowers in the house from now until spring.

Hyalcinths also can be grown in water with a slightly longer sprouting time. They need plenty of root room and after flowering, should be kept in a room with temperature of 65 degrees.

I have had enough failures in my indoor plant growing efforts to feel someone was putting a hex on me. But recently a friend with a perpetually green thumb let me in on her trade secrets.

To start, she takes lots of care with her planter mix. She buys the prepared type that comes in waterproof bags and soaks it thoroughly by running water into the bag.

Then she dumps the mix into a roopty pan and squeezes out the excess water. (Planter mix is much more absorbent than ordinary garden soil and provides a much better start for rooting infant plants.)

The drained mix is then placed around roots. Once established, the plant always remains in the same mix although more pre-moistened material can be added as the roots grow. For extra feeding use various nutrients available in plant stores.

If you're using new clay pots, soak them first so they won't absorb water.

And, craftiest secret of all: shine a hundred-watt bulb from a bridge lamp on your window garden at dusk every day for a few hours.

You'll add valuable light hours to the short winter days and find plants responding with new leaves a richer green color and more abundant bloom.

Fertilizer for Camellias and Azaleas. Get yours while supply is available. 5, 25 & 50 lb. bags.

Winter Plans For Landscape

By AUDREY DAWSON

Have you, Mrs. Homemaker, been making plans for that beautiful landscape during these past real cold days? A great number of our garden enthusiasts have been busy planting in their gardens even though the thermometer showed 27 and 30 degree temperature. But I wouldn't say I'd advise working in the garden with the report of Asiatic flu epidemic, better take care of your health. Surely we will have some good days for planting in February and March.

You may plant the following flower seeds now: Four o'clock, Larkspur, Nasturtium, Petunias, Phlox, Pinks, Salvia, Snapdragon, Sweet Alyssum, Calendula, Cornflower and early Cosmos.

Bulbs and tubers that may be planted are: Amaryllis, iris, ginger lily, anemone and dahlia.

Be sure to stake your dahlias at planting time so as not to injure tubers later.

BEAT SPRING
It's sometime before nature's blossom time, and at this time if you wish for spring, you don't have to wait. You can have blossoms to brighten your home.

If you can't wait for spring to burst into beauty, cut some branches from flowering shrubs or trees. You can do this without any harm to the shrubs or trees. Select those branches that need pruning. Choose a branch that has nice lines and will make attractive arrangements. Any branch that shows buds may be forced — but you'll have better results if you'll cut branches from shrubs and trees that naturally will leaf out in about a month.

Arrange a few branches in a fairly deep container — one that will hold plenty of water and remember warm water is better. Set the container where the branches will get good light. Add warm water as needed. Yes, you, Mrs. Homemaker and your family, will enjoy seeing the buds get bigger and bigger and then open into blossoms and leaves.

PREDICTIONS
I read an article this past week on predictions for the next ten years made by electronic engineers which are of interest to homemakers. These are the new

By AUDREY DAWSON

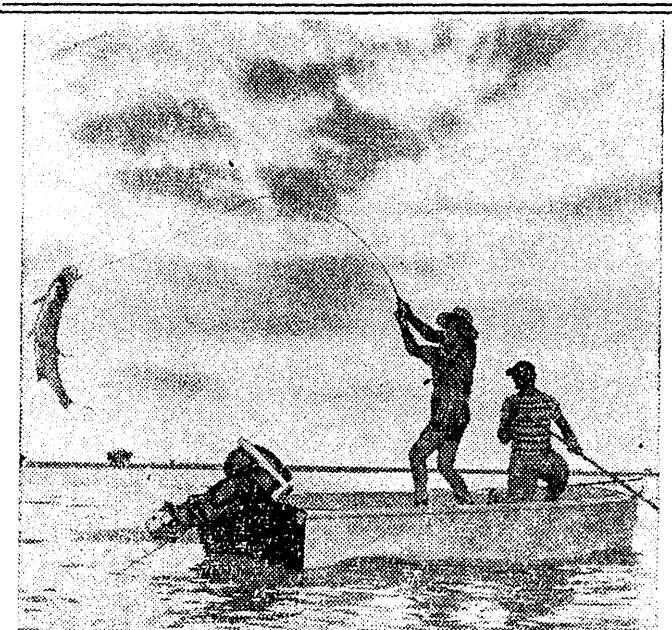

Improvements which will be ours by 1970. You, Mrs. Homemaker, will return from a party, hang your dress in a special dry cleaning closet — next day it will be clean and fresh. You will never have to dust, an electronic appliance will keep dust out of the house. New type refrigerator will be mated with automatic range — a timing device will slide your meal direct from refrigerator into electronic oven where it will be ready to eat by the time the table is set. New ultrasonic laundry devices will eliminate the use of water and simply use energy to draw out the dirt and grime from clothes. This our engineers predict will be here for us by 1970.

HEART PROGRAM
I know you will want to see the Heart Program Sunday, February 7 from 5:30-6:00 p.m. over KNOE. This will be a progress report concerning heart problems in Louisiana. Dr. William Frey, associate dean of LSU Medical School and Dr. Page Acree, heart surgeon of Baton Rouge, will give the information and heart patients from various parts of Louisiana will be shown in the film. Don't miss this opportunity to learn more about our number one killer.

GOOD CATCH, photographically speaking, was carefully controlled by Dick Matt, marine photo specialist. The tarpon was caught in advance and frozen. The boatmen are real fishermen. The Florida Keys setting and sunset are authentic. All the elements were combined plus one secret ingredient . . . a skin diver. On signal, he threw the tarpon into the air and ducked behind the boat as Matt clicked the shutter.

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures
A visit to the National Motor Boat Show as it celebrated its 50th anniversary in New York was the appropriate setting for meeting one of the country's top marine photographers, Richard Matt.

Tall, athletic looking Dick Matt has a photo studio — home on the Fox River in McHenry, Ill., about 60 miles from Chicago. For more than a dozen years, since Dick became a marine specialist, there is little on, in over or under water that he hasn't photographed in still and in motion pictures, in color and in black-and-white.

For a while, I envied Dick's assignments. For instance, in Cypress Gardens, Fla., with its bevy of beauties.

But then I saw samples of his other photographic assignments: a month's expedition in the savage jungles of the Amazon River in Peru filming flesh-eating pariah fish from a flimsy native canoe; a boat trip through the rapids of the raging Rogue River in Oregon; an underwater barricade hunt off Bahama; crossing the stormy Atlantic Ocean in a 22-ft. outboard motor boat.

I mentally tore up my application as Dick's assistant.

"A marine photographer," says Dick, "is a combination of specialists. He must know and love boats, water and aquatic sports as well as photography. Pictures have to be accurate and authentic looking as well as technically well exposed and composed.

"I've been preparing for years by shooting 35mm color slides anytime I'm near the water everywhere I go. They make a vast reference library of boats and people and how they really look and act.

"As photographic consultant for a boat motor company, I use this background material in setting up advertising photographs to be taken with 4x5 or 8x10 inch negative size. By checking my candid shots, I make sure that the boats, the setting, the equipment, people, the outfits they're wearing and what they are doing look authentic.

"Shooting on a moving boat is a knack that can be acquired. The feet are firmly planted on the deck or hull with the knees bent. The body can then rise or bend at the knees to compensate for the boat's up- and -down motion. The camera is gripped tightly to the face and mustn't touch any part of the boat to avoid vibration.

"Then if two boats are traveling at the same rate of speed alongside each other, the photographer can get a good action shot of the other light. A filter over a lens slows shutter speed—1-25th second. The boat and people in it will be sharp but the blur of churning water will give the impression of great speed."

It's something to remember when the boat season gets under way again. Dick also recommends some protective aids especially when shooting in salt water areas. A lens shade guards against stray spray as well as stray light. A filter over a lens not only brings out the clouds in the sky but protects the lens from accidental scratching as well as spray. And for overall protection, the camera should be wrapped in a plastic bag when not in use and kept in a cool, safe spot.

STAMP NEWS
Togo's Special Olympic Games issue will consist of seven color stamps designed by United States and Israeli artists.

The three low values will show winter sports — skiing, ice hockey and tobogganing. The four higher values will depict bicycling, discus throwing, boxing and track. The latter will honor the summer games in Rome. The Winter Games are being held in California.

Each stamp will bear the five ring symbol of the Olympic Games in addition to the particular sport.

These stamps mark the first time that a Togo stamp honors an American locale.

Great Britain has announced that it will issue two new stamps in the summer of 1960 to commemorate the tercentenary of the establishment of the General Post Office by an act of Charles II. The values will be 3-pence (violet) and 1 shilling 3 pence (green).

Also to be issued in 1960, presumably around October, are two stamps honoring the first anniversary of the European Postal Telecommunications Conference. The values will be 6-pence (violet) and 1 shilling 6 pence (blue).

All four of these new British issues will be double the size of the present type stamps and will include a portrait of Queen Elizabeth in their designs.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Staunch Green Foliage Plant

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

One of the most beautiful evergreen foliage plants that has appeared in southern nurseries in the last twenty years is falsedera.

It has been very popular with flower arrangers. The large ivy-like leaves are strong in design and last indefinitely in water. They grow on strong stems which hold them up and give support to any sort of flower arrangement.

FATSHEDERA
Fatschedera has an interesting history. It is an entirely man-made plant. In 1910, the Lize brothers, at their nursery in Nantes, France, made a cross between the Irish ivy (Hedera hibernica) and the Japanese falsia (Fatsia japonica). The result was this handsome plant. If you make one word out of falsia and hedera by running them together, you will see how the name came about.

Fatschedera will grow in the deepest, gloomiest shade and can stand the lowest temperatures. It makes the most elegant contrast to the smaller conifers like the small junipers, small shrubby false-cypresses, oriental arbutus and others. The foliage is born on long wands which get longer and longer as the plant gets older.

It is best to begin cutting some of the wands back when the plants are young in order to prevent its getting leggy in old age. Since the foliage is always in demand for decoration, this is not apt to happen in any flower arrangers garden. When cut back to within a few inches of the last pruning each time you remove your material, the plants will keep their shape and not fall down in a loose sort of heap.

It is desirable to let some of the branches of falschedera grow for several years, however, until they produce the fascinating green foliage. Many a prize has been carried off by the heads of these sticky blossoms that develop right in the middle of winter. If your falschedera fails to produce any flowers for a while, you can find almost the same kind of old ivy plants that have produced limbs out from the vine.

PARENT PLANT
The Japanese falsia that is one of falschedera's parents is also a plant of great distinction. In London, the falsias growing even in very small yards along the crowded streets are cheerful to see in the middle of the winter. This falsia is, of course, closely akin to the paper plants which grow in the lower south and get killed to the ground very often in cold spells. The campus at LSU was planted with hundreds of these plants twenty or thirty years ago.

A survey has been started by Linn's Weekly Stamp News to find the "world's prettiest stamp."

The stamp publication is asking readers to give their three choices. Scarcely or value of the stamp will have no bearing on the survey.

Stamp collectors can make their views known by contacting Julius Weiss, Linn's Weekly Stamp News, 3417 E. 147 St., Cleveland 20, Ohio.

Sabrina Fair will open Friday, February 12, and will run through Wednesday, February 17, including Sunday. Reservations for this delightful comedy can be made every day from 2 until 7 beginning Thursday, February 11. Or if you wish to make reservations prior to this date — just drop a card in the mail.

Wait until you see the beautiful set Ivan has built this time — it is a chic Long Island terrace — in the L. I., New York way.

One cast member announced last week was the role of Lina Larrabee, Jr., and it will be capably handled by Claude Fuller. Claude is an instructor in the speech department at Northeast. Working props backstage this show will be Betty Bandy, Ed Anders, W. J. Haddad, Curtis Rape and Rita Blanchard. Our hats are always off to these people — for without backstage crews — there would be no shows.

Needed: One bird (and we mean the feathered kind) a cockatoo — so, if you happen to have one — will you please give us a call at L. T. FA 3-4263.

During college semesters and home visiting were Joan Magruder from S. U. and Norman Jones from Centenary. Norman just tried out and got a part in the Shreveport Little Theatre where they will soon present The Gazebo.

Tryouts for "Guys and Dolls" will be February 22, 23 and 24 and if you plan to tryout — be sure you plan to be there every night — it is a must.

Pat Wattlely will be the choreographer for "Guys and Dolls" and will be ably assisted by Curtis Rape.

A person with a gift of design is badly needed and wanted for our costume committee during the musical preparations — so if you are that someone — why not call us.

See you at Sabrina.

COURT DRAMA

Powerful Theme In Picture Here

Is justice always given a chance to triumph in the United States? Or are the cards legally stacked against the average citizen in our courtrooms? These are some of the grave, but often overlooked questions raised by Producer Jerry Wald and 20th Century-Fox in their new CinemaScope thriller, "The Murder Story on Page One," starring Rita Hayworth, Anthony Franciosa and Gig Young.

Written and directed by playwright Clifford Odets, "The Murder Story on Page One," opening today at the Paramount Theatre, points out the inequity that exists today between the huge law-enforcement devices in the hands of the average District Attorney in the United States and the comparatively meager resources at the command of the average accused citizen.

In a large metropolis, for instance, there may be hundreds of anonymous people aiding the D. A. in his burdensome chore of proving the defendant guilty. Opposing this huge machine there are often only one or two people working for the defense. Many times a man or woman on trial for life can't even afford that much.

This is the powerful and arresting theme developed by Odets in "The Murder Story on Page One." In fact, the author of such noted plays as "Golden Boy," "Country Girl," and "Waiting for Lefty" wrote the story originally and specially for the screen, rare in these days of adaptations. He also directed the picture, which is even rarer. The only other picture Odets directed was "None But the Lonely Heart," which he did in 1944.

Another unusual characteristic of "The Murder Story on Page One" is the casting of Rita Hayworth. Instead of playing the glamorous girl or the sophisticated lady, she plays a housewife who is accused of murder. It is perhaps her most complex and certainly her most interesting role.

Co-starring is Anthony Franciosa, who has become one of Hollywood's most sought-after young men. His fine performance in the Broadway play, "Hallelujah," a few seasons back earned him roles in "Rain" and the current "Career."

Interestingly enough, Miss Hayworth and Franciosa do not become romantically involved in "The Murder Story on Page One."

Gig Young plays Rita's paramour and co-defendant. This also is a first for Gig who for years has played second leads in pictures. Franciosa appears as Rita's lawyer.

The supporting cast includes five fine actors, all of whom are known for their outstanding stage and TV work. Veteran Mildred Dunnock plays Gig's possessive mother; Hugh Griffith, praised for his performance in "Look Homeward Angel" on Broadway, and more recently for his work in "Ben Hur," plays the judge; Sanford Meisner, famous New York mentor of acting stars and new talent head for 20th Century-Fox makes his film debut as the District Attorney; Edith Elliott, twice winner of TV's Sylvia award, plays the legal assistant to Franciosa; and stage actor Alfred Ryder is the villain of the piece.

is Day and Jack Lemmon; also "Alaska Passage."

Friday and Saturday: "Untamed" with Susan Hayward and Tyrone Power; and "Thunder Road" starring Robert Mitchum.

STAR DRIVE IN

Now Showing: "Goliath and the Barbarians" starring Steve Reeves. The co-feature is "The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker" starring Clifton Webb and Dorothy McGuire.

Thursday through Saturday: "The Proud Ones" and "Kiss Them for Me."

"The Murder Story on Page One" was produced for 20th Century-Fox by Jerry Wald, whose latest efforts include "The Best of Everything" and "Beloved Infidel."

The principal setting for the film was in the new Hall of Justice in Los Angeles. Exteriors and corridor scenes were shot at the site.

BROADWAY

Season So Far Is Dismal One

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI) — If the month of February doesn't come to the rescue in a rather large way, the 1959-60 Broadway theatrical season is going to be a dismal one.

It is already obvious that the number of productions is going to be under 50 for the first time, probably about seven shows less than the average in recent years.

The quantity in itself would not necessarily be catastrophic. But what we have had so far has resulted in a number of disappointments, and only a quick recovery next month can remedy matters.

January is never a big production month, but this time it rather abused that privilege. Only two plays came to Broadway during its 31 days and they tasted completely personal style is inherent. Folk music collectors a total of 10 performances—"A Mighty Man Is He" and "A Distant Bell."

CLOSED ON TOURS

Closed on their tryout tours were "Juniper and the Pagans" and "Motel." That first was one of the season's big disappointments because the author is John Zula, which has been available for 12 years, finally is scheduled to arrive Feb. 16. This could be a big one. At the 54th Street Theatre.

"TUMBLER" DRAMA IN VERSE

Benn W. Levy, British playwright who has contributed such comedy hits as "Springtime for Henry" and "Accent on Youth" in the past has a serious drama in verse entitled "The Tumbler" slated for a Feb. 24 opening at the Helen Hayes Theatre. Charlton Heston, who was made a star by TV and the movies, returns to the stage to appear in this one, and the director is none less than Sir Laurence Olivier. The play, incidentally, has not yet been seen in Britain.

Lillian Hellman's first play in a decade is "Toys in the Attic," due Feb. 25 at the Hudson. Jason Robards Jr. and Maureen Stapleton top the cast for this famous playwright.

Police Arrest Pair In N.O. On Conspiracy

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Police arrested an 83-year-old woman and a retired dentist Friday night and accused them of teaming together in a conspiracy to commit an abortion.

Police identified the pair as Dr. Benjamin Gentry, 63, and Mrs. Joseph Joyce Sharp. Officers said Mrs. Sharp had been arrested before on an abortion charge. Both were booked last night on an abortion conspiracy count.

Dr. Gentry was booked also for investigation of practicing medicine without a license.

Detective Capt. Raymond Ruiz said records at Mrs. Sharp's home indicated she had performed abortions on women from Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and from throughout Louisiana.

Morton Doing Job For Republicans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Last spring, when Republican chances of holding the White House in 1960 looked remote indeed, President Eisenhower invited a tall, handsome Kentuckian to his office.

His guest was Thruston B. Morton, a wealthy Republican senator from a state that often prefers Democrats and glad-hand politicians.

What the President wanted—at a time when the GOP had just suffered its worst congressional defeat since the New Deal—was for Morton to take over as Republican national chairman.

As Morton recalls it, all Eisenhower asked was that he be fair to all candidates for the GOP presidential nomination and that he spread the Republican story to the voters.

Morton's neutrality was challenged by supporters of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York seek the presidential nomination. They said nothing about Morton once having come out publicly for Vice President Richard M. Nixon. But they cried out in anguish when a top Rockefeller enthusiast, New York GOP Chairman L. Judson Morhouse, was named "assistant in charge of music" at the Republican nominating convention.

Morton says everybody was satisfied with his solution—denying top convention spots to anyone from New York or Nixon's state, California.

There can be no doubt at all that Morton has lived up to the President's second request: to pass the GOP word around.

Morton has traveled more than 30,000 miles in 32 states since spring, rousing party workers from what he considered a relaxed, sitting position.

"The crowds have been good and enthusiastic," he says. "If it was a hopeless cause, I'd be in a box by now.

"But it isn't at all hopeless. President Eisenhower is still extremely popular. We have a closer identity between the President and the Republican party than ever before."

More concretely, he says the party's bills are now paid. As for election forecasts, he has written off the Senate as impossible for the GOP to recapture next year but still hopes for both the House and the White House.

Morton makes these predictions in a quiet, modulated voice. He seems almost shy in conversation. The eternally optimistic, old-line politician just isn't in him

This is because his background conflicts violently with that image. At 52, he is a man of inherited wealth, a Yale University graduate—class of 1929—with a career behind him as a business executive.

Morton started out with the family business—Ballard & Ballard Co., a grain and flour milling firm in Louisville. Until World War II, he was president.

But after returning from duty as a Navy officer on minesweepers and destroyers in the Pacific, he began getting restless.

"He had been away so long he just sort of lost interest," his wife recalls. "Politics seemed to appeal to him. So when the opportunity came to run for office, he took it."

That was in 1946. Morton ran for the House, against the incumbent Democrat, Emmet O'Neal, and won. He was re-elected in 1948 and 1950. Then in 1952 he was the only Eisenhower supporter in the 20-man Kentucky delegation to the GOP convention.

In those days, Morton was a favorite of presidential aide Sherman Adams. Soon he was offered—and took—a job as an assistant secretary of state.

By 1956, Morton decided to run again, this time for the Senate. He defeated the heavily favored Democrat, Sen. Earle C. Clements.

Morton says a lot of his success, in a state where Democrats sometimes outnumber Republicans 2-1, is due to his avoiding violently partisan attitudes.

After becoming national chairman, he had the Republican National Committee stop calling the opposition the Democrat party. The committee has gone back to the more soothing sound: Democratic party.

Morton's aides, however, say he can rattle off a great partisan speech, firing up the discouraged with a soft line that roasts Democrats but avoids name-calling.

IN MONROE

Juveniles Warned Against Late Hours

Monroe police yesterday warned that juveniles will not be allowed to roam the city streets during "unusual hours," after a series of vandalism, petty burglaries and other offenses proved that juveniles many times were to blame.

Police Chief James C. Kelly Jr. said that the department was "certainly not trying to stop those youngsters who were going to some definite place or in any other way hinder their freedom." There are many times, he said, that officers see juveniles loitering on the streets or riding around in automobiles in early morning hours "apparently without anything to do."

"These juveniles," the chief said, "often turn out to be the ones involved in the petty offenses committed, such as the recent thefts of vending machines and coin changers at all-night laundromats."

COOPERATION

Kelly asked that parents in the Monroe area cooperate with the police department in keeping juveniles at home or at supervised places late at night, and especially if they are at a function that lasts until the early morning hours.

Juveniles found wandering around or driving in the early morning hours will be stopped and questioned, Chief Kelly said.

"The parents of these youngsters will be called to insure that they know the whereabouts of their children," he stated.

In some cases, should the case merit it, the youngsters will be placed in the detention home for the remainder of the night. The parents then will be notified of the action, Kelly explained.

Ruston Backer Of Faubus Tells Of Support Try

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — A hoster of Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus for president revealed Saturday that Faubus had advised he would welcome support for the presidential nomination from the Louisiana delegates to the Democratic national convention.

The Faubus backer, Col. Tom Jgoe of Ruston, said he had written the Arkansas governor Wednesday and asked him:

"Might it prove helpful to any plans or ambitions you might be entertaining in connection with the Democratic national convention were I (to be) named as an uninstructed delegate?"

Jgoe said he received the following telegram in reply:

"It is perfectly all right with me, and I approve your efforts to place delegates on the Louisiana delegation to the Democratic national convention. I am watching the situation closely. You will have noted the California move.

"Also I know that efforts are being made in many southern states to secure delegates favorable to me. Therefore, I approve your efforts to secure favorable representation on the Louisiana delegation. It could be that something might happen that would be pleasing to all of us."

Faubus' mention of California was in reference to a move by William P. Gale there. Gale launched a drive Friday to elect Faubus president.

Students Apply From 27 States

Applications from 27 states, including Hawaii, have been received for the Northeast Louisiana State College summer institute in biology and chemistry.

Northeast has been granted $44,300 by the National Science Foundation for the nine-week institute for high-school science teachers.

Applications must be postmarked by Feb. 15, said Dr. Aaron Seamster, who will direct the institute. He is chairman of the Biology Department at Northeast.

Dr. William K. Easley, chairman of the Northeast Chemistry Department, will be in charge of the chemistry section of the program.

About 30 high-school science teachers are expected to attend the institute, which begins early in June. A total of 116 applications have been received so far.

Thirty-four applications have been received from Louisiana, 13 from Texas, 9 from Arkansas, 7 from Indiana and Kansas, and 6 from Iowa.

OTHERS

Applications have also been received from California, Colorado, Florida, Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Mississippi, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Washington, Wisconsin and Hawaii.

SERIOUS, NOT CRITICAL

Gen. MacArthur Resting Well

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who observed his 80th birthday last Tuesday, was reported in serious condition Saturday with an obstruction of his urinary tract.

Dr. George W. Slaughter issued a medical bulletin saying that while the general's condition was serious, it was not critical.

MacArthur entered Lenox Hill Hospital Friday for an examination and laboratory tests. He had appeared to be feeling well and in good spirits at his birthday party, but apparently became ill later in the week.

Slaughter said examination indicated the presence of an obstruction in the urinary tract, "which has interfered with his normal urinary function."

"The obstruction is due to a simple enlargement of the prostate gland of a non-malignant nature," he said.

The medical bulletin was released by Col. Gordon Barclay, First Army Public Information Officer, who said that Col. Howard W. Doan, First Army surgeon, was consulting with Slaughter.

MacArthur, although fired from his Far Eastern command by then President Truman, has remained on active duty, although unassigned, as a General of the Army.

Slaughter said preliminary treatment had relieved most of the discomfort of which MacArthur had complained.

"The general now is resting comfortably and is not in any degree of distress," the bulletin, issued at 3:55 p.m. est., reported. "His temperature and respiration are normal."

Further treatment will continue and the general will undergo additional laboratory tests and observation, Slaughter said. Surgery is not being considered for the immediate future, he said.

MENTAL PATIENTS

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California is treating 63,313 mental patients — 48,433 in hospitals and 14,880 outside of hospitals.

Advertising Week Set In Twin Cities

February 14-20 has been designated as Advertising Week by the Advertising Club of Monroe and West Monroe. The importance of advertising in providing news and information about products and services will be the theme of the event sponsored by the club.

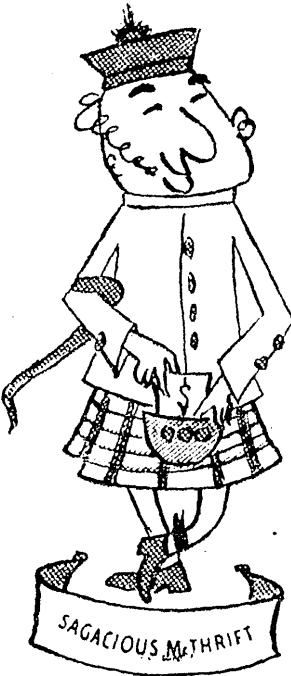

"However we interpret it," said Grady Merriman, president of the Ad Club, "a good life does exist in this country and advertising plays an important role in making it so."

The national campaign is sponsored jointly by the Advertising Federation Association and the Advertising Association of the West. Don Conner, local chairman, has selected John Rudisill and George Johnson as committee members.

In conjunction with Advertising Week, the Ad Club will sponsor a poster contest conducted for senior high school and college students in the Monroe area. A total cash award of $75 will be presented in each of the two divisions. The broad theme of the contest, "Advertising Helps You Enjoy the Good Life," will enable contestants to express through art their ideas of the benefits of advertising to our society.

The poster contest will be held Feb. 1 through the 12th. Poster entries will be exhibited in various business establishments through the Twin Cities.

Man Admits Slaying Two At Crossett

HAMBURG, Ark. (Special) — A 45 year old Negro man was being held in Ashley County jail here last night, awaiting trial on first degree murder charges, for the Friday night shotgun slaying of a Negro man and woman in Crossett.

Arthur Warren, of Crossett, was arrested at 4:30 a.m. yesterday at the home of a friend in Fairview, Ark. and charged with the slaying of Ethel Mae Scott, 27, and Timothy Fields, 25, Friday night about 7 p.m. at the Scott woman's two-roomed Crossett home.

Neighbors who arrived on the scene minutes after the incident, said that an 18 month child, Kavis Gene Brown, was sitting in a chair watching a "television western" seemingly unimpaired by the tragedy. The woman's body was reportedly lying within a few feet of the child. Fields body was in the same room.

The slain woman had been keeping the child for a friend, according to neighbors.

CONFESION
A complete confession, admitting both killings, was signed yesterday by Warren. A. James Linder, prosecuting attorney for Ashley County, said he has been charged with first degree murder. Warren faced a similar charge in February, 1958, but a grand jury failed to return an indictment in October of the same year.

Jealousy was cited as a possible motive by Sheriff B. A. Courson.

Warren told officers that he had gone to the house to ask the Scott woman for money which he said she owed him. He admitted that he was carrying a 16 gauge shotgun at the time. He said the woman called to him, who came from the front room carrying a gun. According to Warren, he shot the woman through the screen door, and when he saw Fields raise his gun, he stepped inside, and shot him.

Sheriff department officials said a charge of rifle slugs from the shotgun had hit the woman in the chest at close range, and the impact had probably caused her to fall back into the front room where her body was later found.

Courson, who also shot in the fields, according to Sheriff Courson, was also shot in the chest, and was lying across a rifle, on the floor. It is believed that both died instantly.

Sheriff Courson said the accused bought some rifle slugs at a Crossett sporting goods store shortly before he went to the Scott house.

DO-IT-YOURSELF DESK

FRANKLIN, N. J. (AP) — If you can't buy it, build it, says the Township Committee. The committee recently decided it needed a new, larger desk. The cost: $2,000. Too much, decided the committee.

Result: Councilman J. Willard Vliet built one, big enough and strong enough to withstand the council's most heated argument. The cost to the council was $300 worth of wood.

Vliet said the table would have a glass top. "We're supposed to be nonpartisan but anything can happen."

Library Science Graduate Course Scheduled Here

A graduate library science course is being offered here this spring semester by extension from Louisiana State University. The course, entitled "Problems in the Selection and Use of School Library Materials," earns three semester hours of graduate credit.

An organizational meeting will be held Tuesday evening, at 6:30 in Room L 200 D of the Library Building on Northeast Louisiana State College campus.

Miss Norris McClellan, a member of the L.S.U. Library School faculty, will be the instructor. Anyone interested in taking such a course is invited to attend the organizational meeting.

The course will meet one evening a week, the time and evening to be determined at the organizational meeting.

(2) Card Of Thanks

CARD OF THANKS
May this, in some way, express the heartfelt gratitude and thanks to all friends and neighbors who were so kind and comforting and assisted so much during the long illness and in our hour of deepest sorrow in the death of our beloved father, Mr. William H. Watson, Special Agent in Charge to Dr. Vernon Baldwin of Rogers Clinic of Winnsboro and to Reverend Carlton Vance, Reverend Eunice Rogers and to Reverend Joe Silvio and members of the General Baptist Church of Winsor. Also to those who brought the many gifts of food and flowers and the numerous other friends who helped us so much when we needed you most. May God bless and protect each and every one of you. With love and affection, your son, WILLIAM H. WATSON.

YOU JUST DON'T FIND this kind of dirt no more, no where! It's the rich Basco river bottom land that a farmer dreams of! It's all cleared, under fence, with storage barn and all equipment including tractors, cultivators, etc. And the home—well, you gotta see it! It's comfort personified with: 15x21 living room has fireplace and legs, sun room with planter, 2 bedrooms have walk-in closets, den, and tile bath. Other features include: metal cabinets, vent hood, oak floors, floor furnace, attic fan, blinds, louvered windows, carpet, and storage. Best you not wait—this won't be on the market long!

12 ACRES

DON'T GIVE UP IN DESPAIR—for here's that acreage (on Slacum Rd., W.M.) you've been looking for! It has lake site, shade trees, and a remodeled 3 bedroom home with: 12x27 living room, den, bath, attic fan, blinds, and washer plumbing. You can have immediate possession, and we'll show it the "drop of a hat!"

5 ACRES

HOW COME—NO DOWN PAYMENT! Well new direct G. I. financing—that's how come—and only $300 closing costs makes the move with payments of approx. $56 including everything. Located on Evergreen, W.M., it's under fence, all cleared, and has a 4 bedroom home with dining room, bath, utility porch, side porch, oak floors, and blinds. We suggest you hurry!

NEW LISTING 6 1/2 ACRES

JUMPY NERVE? They'll purr as you relax "away from it all" just 2 miles past the city limits on Arkansas Rd., W.M. The centrally air conditioned and heated 3 bedroom home is less than a year old and has: dining room (or den), Formica topped cabinets, fireplace, utility porch, oak floors, and Venetian blinds. There's also a year round stream and fruit trees—all waiting for you to see!

5 ACRES

"HERNANDIA HIDEAWAY"—well, not quite, but it's just that peaceful on this acreage on Bawcom, W.M. It's under fence, has barn, storage, and pump house. The 3 bedroom home includes dining room, bath, metal cabinets, wall heating, blinds, and garage. Already financed on 4 1/2 per cent interest with payments of $48. We'd sure like to show you this one!

40 ACRES

NO SIREES! I'll bet you can't beat this! It's off Hwy. 80, W.M., approx. 1 mile from Rock's Nursery, and has over an acre stocked fish pond, pine trees up to 10 in. in diameter, and is under fence. The large (1977 sq. ft.) home has 18x25 living room, dining room, 3 bedrooms, bath, Formica topped cabinets, refrigerator, range, vent hood, as well as oak floors, central heating, blinds, and double garage. Let's set the time to see this!

Left In The Lurch At The Lift - Again!

I MAY HAVE COME UP IN THE LIFT, BUT WITH THAT EMPTY SEAT BESIDE ME I REALLY FEEL 'LET DOWN'!

LOOK, HOPE, IF YOU WERE THINKING THAT HANDSOME INSTRUCTOR WAS GOING TO SLIP IN BESIDE YOU, YOU OUGHT TO... WELL, SEE SOMEONE ABOUT BAD BREATH!

HOPE LEARNS HOW TO STOP BAD BREATH!

COLGATE DENTAL CREAM WITH GARDOL STOPS MOUTH ODOR ALL DAY FOR MOST PEOPLE. BECAUSE COLGATE CLEANS YOUR BREATH WHILE IT CLEANS YOUR TEETH!

ASK YOUR DENTIST: HOW OFTEN TO BRUSH YOUR TEETH. NOTHING TAKES THE PLACE OF BRUSHING — AND NOTHING BRUSHES BETTER THAN COLGATE DENTAL CREAM. YOU FIGHT TOOTH DECAY WITH COLGATE WHILE YOU STOP BAD BREATH ALL DAY!

LATER — THANKS TO COLGATE DENTAL CREAM

COLGATE SAVED THE DAY FOR HOPE AND PUT A NEW TWOSOME ON THE SLOPE!

FIGHT TOOTH DECAY WITH COLGATE

Stop Bad Breath All Day!

TOOTH DECAY

COLGATE WITH GARDOL FORMS A PROTECTIVE SHIELD AROUND YOUR TEETH THAT FIGHTS TOOTH DECAY ALL DAY!

*Brushing with Colgate Dental Cream helps give you the surest protection in toothpaste history! Because of all leading toothpastes, only Colgate Dental Cream contains Gardol!

Colgate Dental Cream is backed by more research on tooth decay than any other toothpaste. Actual clinical research shows: In one year, those who used ordinary toothpaste averaged more than twice as many new cavities as those who used Colgate Dental Cream. 4 out of 5 who used Colgate Dental Cream developed no new cavities at all!

I love that COLGATE flavor!
